CARRIERS RAID RYUKYUS NAVY BASE, SAY JAPS

Okinawa Attacked by U. S. Planes.

San Francisco, Cal., March 23 (AP).—More than 200 carrier planes, presumably from task force 58, which smashed southern Japan on Sunday and Monday, yesterday opened an attack on Okinawa in the Ryukyu Islands and resumed it today [Japanese time], Tokyo radio announced. The report is unconfirmed. Okinawa is a big naval and air base midway between the Japanese main islands and Formosa.

Tokyo said in its English language broadcast that 230 carrier raiders opened up on Okinawa yesterday afternoon.

"Enemy ship-borne planes came to attack the same area about 7 o'clock this morning," the Japanese said.

The enemy radio had placed Vice Adm. Mitscher's task force 58 east of Okinawa Wednesday night during its retirement from the attack on southern Japan.

Escort Carrier Lost.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Guam, March 24 [Saturday]—(AP).—Loss of the United States escort carrier Bismarck Sea to Japanese air attack off Iwo Island on Feb. 21 was announced by Adm. Nimitz today.

Most of the ship's company was rescued, Nimitz said. Normal complement of an escort carrier is 1,500 officers and men.

Fires that broke out on the ship, which displaced 10,200 tons, spread out of control. The skipper, Capt. John Lockwood Pratt, of Milford, Del., made every effort to save the carrier, the admiral reported, before ordering personnel to abandon ship.

Japs Strafe Survivors.

The carrier, built in the Kaiser shipyards at Vancouver, Wash., and commissioned last year, sank a short time later. She was the eleventh carrier lost in the war, but only four were full carriers.

Pratt, in an interview two days later, said Japanese planes attacked at dusk and, after hitting the ship, returned to strafe survivors in the water.

[Another escort carrier, unidentified, was damaged in the Iwo action, Associated Press Correspondent Robert Geiger learned in an interview at Pearl Harbor with Lt. Comdr. Carl Estes, Longview, Tex., newspaper publisher, assigned to a jeep flattop as public relations officer. Estes gave no details.]

Many Lost in Fire.

Pratt told correspondents at Iwo that many of the ship's company were lost in the fire aboard the little ship after she was jolted time and again by exploding torpedoes. He said many who escaped the explosions drowned later and several men were hit by strafing enemy planes.

The Bismarck Sea, which was of the Casablanca class, was about 500 feet long, with a speed of approximately 18 knots, and carried 20 aircraft.

The executive officer, Comdr. M. E. Born, Coronado, Cal., and Capt. Pratt, were picked up from the water by small boats of other warships.

781 Planes Bagged.

Vice Adm. Mitscher's task force carrier planes, which crippled Japan's home fleet in its inland waters March 18-19, also bagged 731 planes as sky duels with the enemy's air force raged for two more days, the navy disclosed.

A bulletin raised from 575 the total of enemy planes destroyed or damaged and also added two days of action, the 20th and 21st, when enemy broadcasts repeatedly reported "pursuit" of United States task force 58.

No further details were supplied on damage dealt Japan's fleet in hideouts of the inland sea. Previously it was announced that 17 warships were sunk or damaged, possibly including a 45,000 ton superbattleship and eight aircraft carriers.

Senate Votes No on Aubrey for REA Post

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 23.—President Roosevelt's leftist leadership was jolted to its very foundations again today when the senate refused confirmation to his nominee for chief of the rural electrification administration, Aubrey Williams. Democrats and Republicans joined in defeating Williams, 52 to 36.

Aubrey Williams.

Williams stepped nimbly into the martyr's role predicted by some of those who opposed him immediately after he was rejected. President James Patton of the National Farmers' union announced that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt would be the principal speaker at a "victory dinner" to be given for Williams next Wednesday night.

The President's wife has been one of the most ardent supporters of Williams, who is now an organizer for the farmers' union.

"Just First Battle."

"This is just the first battle in the war of issues as to what's going to happen to this country," Patton said of the senate's action.

Political leaders said the senate rebuke to Mr. Roosevelt was the more devastating because the administration had concentrated all its power on jamming thru the confirmation, even after being warned that the senate could not stomach Williams.

Mr. Roosevelt nevertheless decided to impose his will on the senate, observers said, in an effort to regain the prestige lost when the senate refused to confirm Henry Wallace as secretary of commerce until the vast lending powers of the Reconstruction Finance corporation were taken from the department.

Williams Accused of Waste.

Opposition to both men had been based upon their philosophies of government spending and lending, which critics said would have bankrupted the country if not restrained. Williams was accused of waste in the spending of 600 million dollars as national youth administration head before congress stopped him by abolishing NYA. Senators also voiced alarm over the communist front organizations he was accused of encouraging.

Williams' cause had been generally regarded as hopeless since the senate agricultural committee refused, 12 to 8, to recommend his confirmation.

Mr. Roosevelt refused to withdraw the nomination, however, and administration forces delayed a vote while the country was propagandized by the Friends of Aubrey Williams.

Real Objections Ignored.

Sen. Taft [R., O.] blasted the propagandists today, telling the senate that Williams' inexperience was the major objection to the social worker. During the five day debate Sen. McKellar [D., Tenn.] protested that Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] and other Williams enthusiasts were attacking McKellar for his opposition to Williams rather than discussing Williams' qualifications.

HE FINDS HIS CAB SUPER DE LUXE

You probably read on Monday that Edsel B. Griffin, 27, a wealthy young corn and wheat farmer near Walsh, Colo., reported to the Chicago police the loss of $2,000 to $3,000 while he and a party of friends were riding in a taxicab on a round of night life resorts.

If you did you'll be interested in the sequel. For those who didn't here are the details:

It was several hours before the midnight curfew Sunday that Griffin arrived in Chicago with his friend, Charles Clifton of Denver, Colo., now a sailor at Norfolk, Va.

A Few Hours to Spend.

They had a few hours to spend before catching their Denver bound train and Griffin proposed entertaining two young air line hostesses whom he met on an eastbound flight a week earlier.

The hostesses, Judy Lavin and Lois Bina, 1524 E. 59th st., acquiesced and the four met at the Palmer House. Griffin hired a Negro cab driver to take them to a cocktail bar. The chauffeur, Warren McVollerstean, 47, of 5621 Indiana av., took them to the Lakeside inn, 4677 Lake Park av., for a drink, then drove them to the Ivanhoe restaurant at 3000 N. Clark st. for dinner.

When Griffin arose with the check and reached for his wallet he found that it was missing. The farmer believed he had lost his purse while in the cab and the police promised to make a search for the cream colored vehicle with red wheels and ask the driver for the missing wallet.

He Wished It Was His.

McVollerstean read about the fortune left in a taxicab and he wondered why it couldn't have happened to him.

Last night he took another load to the Ivanhoe. Ray Smith, the doorman, recognized him as the chauffeur of the Griffin party and suggested that Griffin had lost his wallet in the cab.

"It couldn't be my cab," McVollerstean retorted heatedly. "My cab is a de luxe cab and I clean it every day."

Nevertheless, Smith persuaded the chauffeur to look again.

Reveal Army and Navy Plan to Retain Men After Nazi Fall

Washington, D. C., March 23 (AP).—Fleet Adm. King said today the navy won't demobilize any of its forces when Germany falls because it plans to throw everything it has at Japan.

Explaining why "there will be no partial naval demobilization," the chief of naval operations said:

"All naval forces are required to prosecute the war in the Pacific. It is the intent to shift to the Pacific all naval power now devoted to the war in Europe and in the Atlantic as soon as may be.

"This shift must be made as expeditiously as possible, to the end that the war in the Pacific may be brought to a successful conclusion at the earliest possible date."

Shouldn't Expect Release.

While the army's man power plans have not been announced in detail, the program on the table of the high command generally seems to be this:

Discharges should not be expected by soldiers in the army's service forces nor in the air forces, either air or ground crews. The service troops will be needed in the Pacific at the earliest possible moment to build staging areas and bases for combat forces. Airmen and air forces ground crews will be needed to step up the aerial bombardment of the enemy's homeland and supply routes.

There will be some demobilization of combat troops, since the full strength of troops now deployed in Europe can not, for geographical reasons, be brought to bear on Japan. The extent of this demobilization—not expected to reach any substantial proportions—cannot be estimated by the high command at this time because of still unpredictable factors in the European situation.

Furloughs will be granted for troops going thru this country en route to the Pacific theater.

Adjusted Service Rating.

The partial army demobilization will follow the previously agreed upon plan of "adjusted service rating," with a system of weighted credits based upon service, overseas service, combat, and parenthood. The army so far has not announced the point value of these credits.

The admittedly difficult task now confronting the army and navy is to explain the man power problem to the fighting man and the civilian at home. Speaking for the navy, King described it in these words:

"It is most important for the people of the country to understand clearly that the navy must use every ounce of its strength to hasten the end of hostilities against Japan. Any halfhearted measures will result in prolonging the war and increasing the loss of American lives."

The army already has its plans for explaining the situation, at least to the soldiers.

Has Movie Ready.

Among other things, it has on tap and ready to use promptly upon conclusion of organized warfare in Europe an educational motion picture for G. Is. The picture is intended to show troops, precisely and definitely, the needs of the second phase of World War II., including the man power needs.

Always concerned about the tendency of troops to ease off from sharp edged battle condition when action diminishes, the army has plans for keeping G. Is occupied while waiting to move out of Europe. Education—many kinds, including strictly classroom schooling—will be emphasized. The textbooks, mountains of them, already are on hand.

LONDON, March 24 [Saturday]—(AP).—Berlin said last night that the Red army had reopened a blazing battle for the imperiled Nazi capital, while Moscow announced that Russian forces had split the Nazi defenders of the prize Baltic ports of Danzig and Gdynia.

Waves of Russian infantry and tanks were reported by the enemy to have broken thru Nazi defenses along Berlin's Oder river line and to have swept six miles beyond captured Kuestrin to within 31 miles east of the capital.

A thunderous 90 minute artillery bombardment, followed by attacks by hundreds of soviet dive bombers, preceded the assault which smashed to Golzow on the main Kuestrin-Berlin trunk railroad. There, an enemy front report said, a German counter-attack stalled the drive, but the Russians struck again in a swaying, indecisive battle.

72,000 Troops Thrown In.

"The major Russian offensive against Berlin is immediately at hand," said a Berlin report to the German controled S. T. B. agency in Stockholm.

Before Berlin, the German radio said, Marshal Zhukov's 1st White Russian army had thrown 72,000 troops and 400 tanks into the wild battle west of Kuestrin where Berlin said the Russians were attempting to link six Oder river bridgeheads for an all-out assault on the capital.

In London it was believed Zhukov had massed 100 divisions, perhaps more than 1,200,000 men, for a climactic lunge to Berlin.

Some 250 miles northeast of the flaming Berlin front, Marshal Rokossovsky's 2d White Russian army knifed in half the Danzig-Gdynia pocket by thrusting a three mile wide wedge to the bay of Danzig midway between the big naval bases.

Rokossovsky's troops, slaying 4,000 enemy troops, toppled the coastal town of Zoppot and at either end of their three mile arm to the sea won Koliebken [Kolibki], three miles south of Gdynia, and Schmierau, three miles north of Danzig.

Bombers Attack Danzig.

Land links between the two ports were severed and at the same time the Russians advanced on Danzig from the southwest, taking Loebiau, Gross Boelkau, and Artschau, all within five miles of the former Free city, which was attacked by soviet heavy bombers.

There was no confirmation of the enemy report of a Berlin offensive from Moscow. At the southern end of the eastern front, however, the Red army was clamping a huge pincer on Moravia, Bohemia, and Vienna.

Significantly, Moscow's war bulletins reported a sharp jump in enemy tank and plane losses. Along the entire eastern front, Moscow said, 156 German tanks and 149 planes were destroyed.

Marshal Konev's 1st Ukrainian army reached the frontier of Moravia in pursuit of enemy forces from Upper Silesia into the Sudeten mountains and battered within one and two miles of the Silesian citadels of Neisse and Loebschuetz.

Reds Reach Key City.

Simultaneously, Berlin said a four day Red army offensive south of the Danube river in Hungary had reached Komarom, strategic key to Bratislava and Vienna, 54 and 84 miles to the west.

In Upper Silesia, Marshal Konev's new offensive to clear the region's rich industrial areas and possibly strike across the Sudeten mountains and thru the Moravian gap toward Vienna and Prague gained up to five miles on a twisting 54-mile front.

Nazi Opposition Spotty and Erratic; Two Enemy Planes Shot Down.

BY EDWARD D. BALL.

WITH THE U. S. 3D ARMY EAST OF THE RHINE, March 23 (AP).—The 3d army stormed across the Rhine at 10:25 p. m., last night without loss of a man and without drawing a single shot from the Germans until a good 20 minutes after the crossing was made good.

By dawn today a solid bridgehead was driven into Hitler's inner fortress against opposition that still was spotty and erratic despite some artillery and mortar fire. By that time also, the first waves of doughboys had pushed inland.

(The Berlin radio reported last night that the 3d army's crossing was made near Oppenheim, 10 miles south of Mainz, under cover of artificial fog. A Berlin military spokesman said American units also had attempted crossings near Duesseldorf and six miles south of Cologne. If the crossing was made in the Mainz area, then it was within 265 miles of Berlin, much closer than any other of Eisenhower's armies.)

Nazis Soon Silenced.

Most of the enemy weapons were soon silenced.

There was a minimum of noise and confusion at the bridgehead. Droves of assault and amphibious craft were speeding back and forth across the calm Rhine with men and supplies.

Within eight hours Lt. Gen. Patton's forces had completely established their bridgehead in the greatest overwater assault since Normandy. (In army terminology a bridgehead means the crossings are beyond light artillery range. That may mean as much as five miles.)

Jet Planes Shot Down.

At the first crack of day a couple of Messerschmitt 262 jet propelled planes poked inquisitive noses over the bridgehead and promptly were knocked down.

Assault craft and amphibious ducks were plying the calm Rhine back and forth across the river.

The operation, which had been planned and rehearsed for months, went off far smoother than any one could have hoped.

The Germans simply were caught by surprise and by the overwhelming weight of American arms.

Patton's men moved like lightning. Besides the surprise element, the Germans utterly failed to produce anything like the amount of fire the Americans were throwing at them.

Doughboys Elated.

Patton's Rhine conquering exploit followed one of the greatest armor and infantry thrusts in military history—the tremendous sweep thru the Saarland.

Together these successes appeared to be decisive blows against the Germans. The elated doughboys, who three weeks ago were urging the Russians on to Berlin, now nominated themselves for the job of taking the German capital.

LT. GEN. PATTON.

Among them were doughboys who went in on Omaha beach in Normandy last June 6.

Most Amazing Sight.

The spirit was identical, and so was the overwhelming superiority in men and equipment.

The Rhineland never saw a more amazing sight than last night's. Probably it never will. For miles back the roads were lined with trucks and other vehicles struggling up the hills.

Hundreds of conveyances of all kinds which had pulled up just out of sight of the river during the day stood silent and shadowy in the moon-splashed fields and along the edges of woods near the Rhine. Engineers who had spent back-breaking months at home preparing for this show were on hand to help get the vehicles across.

Planes Stand Ready.

A fleet of pint sized artillery spotter planes, impressed into service as emergency one man troop carriers, stood ready on a dozen uncharted wheat fields. The little cow pasture transport force was to shuttle across the river, putting down anywhere it could, if the doughboys storming the Rhine found more than they could handle. But the planes were not needed.

For months columns of trucks with their tons of assault boats had been edging toward the front at night and hiding out by day.

Sometimes they got in the way of swearing tankmen and played hob with traffic.

Twentieth Crossing.

Along toward the end of the 3d army's recent sensational spurt to the Rhine they lagged uneasily behind, but they put on a spurt and were on the spot last night when needed.

For some of the doughboys it was their 20th river crossing. If was their most important, but not the most exciting.

In groups of 12, the men began assembling along the tree lined west bank after nightfall. There was a quiet command shortly after 10 o'clock and the first wave moved out of the shadows like pallbearers carry-

With hardly a sound they slipped into the water, climbed in, and the drive over the last major water barrier before Berlin was on. Moonlight was so brilliant the reflection on the water hurt the eyes.

Ammunition Dump Burns.

Besides the moonlight, the Germans had the advantage of direct observation by the light of an ammunition dump that was fired by an anti-tank gun during the afternoon and still was burning thru the night, sending up towering pillars of flame and shaking the earth with explosions.

Between blasts one could hear only the heavy breathing of the men starting to make the over-water assault.

At 10:25 p. m. came this message from a walkie-talkie radio on the Rhine's right bank:

Hails Engineers.

"The engineers did a swell job getting the boats up without letting the Heinies know what was up. God bless 'em," said Pvt. Harry Saghbazarian of Watertown, Mass., the colonel's runner.

More men started across, their long boats dancing crazily on the only slightly ruffled water which reflected the orange glow of fires on the east bank.

"We've either surprised hell out of them or they don't have it," commented Capt. Raymond Bitney of Bloomer, Wis.

"Maybe it's both," added Capt. Tober T. Gill of Charlotte, N. C.

"This is like a picnic," chimed in Pvt. F. B. Hibbs of Davenport, Ia., who added, "I crossed the Saar and the Moselle and this looks easy."

About that time the picnic ended. German burp guns on the other side cracked a few bursts. That was 20 minutes after the first doughboys pulled ashore.

Old Stuff, Says Chicagoan.

"Let 'em shoot. This is old stuff now," said Pvt. Eric H. Doering, 8953 S. Union av., Chicago, as he started for the river.

"The boys who worked their way in are now getting some small arms fire," said Sgt. Robert C. Bradley of Durand, Mich., calling down from an upstairs window of the cottage. "Hitler must know where they are by now," added Lt. Don Larson of Oshkosh, Wis.

Things began popping then along the Rhine. The Germans fired four orange signal flares and gunfire broke out all over the place. A couple of machine guns started firing blue tracers wildly our way. They didn't last long.

Doughboys Charge Into Foe.

Off to the right the doughboys charged.

"They know they are licked. Why don't they give up?" asked Pvt. Leonard Isenhour of Liberty, Mo.

"Damn the Germans anyway," Sgt. Kenneth A. Harris, Bedford, Ind., added as an afterthought.

Capt. Harry [Pete] Smith of Georgetown, Ky., who led the first wave across, had moved in swiftly from the river bank. It was time for Rainey and his comrades to move. He went over paired with Pvt. William Palcher of Kansas City, Kas. In midstream they passed a boat coming back with the first bag of five Nazi prisoners.

Nazis at River Two Days.

The captives told Lt. Stephen Duke, Cleveland, O., they had been dumped on the river bank two days ago and did not even know the number of their regiment. Asked why they did not shoot, the Germans replied, "We were eating."

A mortar tore a chunk out of the cottage command post and everybody decamped. Shells crashed into the yard, covering the men who had hurried out of the house with debris.

"It's time we were getting some of it," calmly announced Capt. Merle Potter, formerly of the Minneapolis Star-Journal, now a public relations officer, who now was in on the big story.

American artillery, which had kept quiet, erupted into action and gave the Germans a hundred for one. Engineers, busy with their duties on the ground and on the water, ignored the two way traffic of shells overhead.

1ST ARMY GAINS

PARIS, March 23 (AP). — United States 1st army forces widened their hold across the Rhine to more than 33 miles today.

These troops were plunging 10 to 11 miles inland east of the Rhine, and also were pouring southward ready to link hands with the powerful 3d army.

The northward end of the bridgehead was less than 12 miles from the south edge of the Ruhr plain. At any time these northern forces could cross the Sieg river, a minor obstacle compared with those they already have spanned.

German lines were sagging across the Rhine at a critical hour, for allied bombers were smashing at all avenues of supply or retreat on the north German plain in the path of Field Marshal Montgomery's three armies which the Germans were expecting to cross the river.

The United States 3d and 7th armies crushing the Palatinate bulge, overran one main escape hatch for the beaten Germans at Speyer, and were 11 miles or less from the final one at Karlsruhe.

Thus all Gen. Eisenhower's seven veteran armies were on the Rhine. Lt. Gen. Bradley, commander of the 12th army group, disclosed that an eighth, the new United States 15th army, was ready to take its place in the line of battle.

Patrols were lashing out from both sides across the Rhine, especially near Wesel on Montgomery's front, where a 66 mile smoke screen shrouded his moves from the anxious eyes of two German armies waiting on the river's right bank.

Front correspondents likened these moves to the preparations in advance of D-day last June.

"The Rhine is our bomb line and everything east is a target," said a correspondent from the Canadian 1st army front, where an ominous lull has settled, broken only by the occasional blasts of artillery, dueling across the river.

The Germans were digging zigzag trenches such as those used in the first World War.

1st Army Crosses Wied River.

Lt. Gen. Hodges' 1st army bridgehead forces poured armor and infantry southward across the Wied river on a 14 mile front, and seized Neuwied, a city of 20,000, six and a half miles north of the 3d army's west bank positions at Coblenz.

While this southward push was paving a way for 3d army Rhine crossings to soil in friendly hands, the 78th infantry division and mechanized cavalry on the north cleared Honef and thereby got a 10 mile grip on the Sieg river.

Associated Press Correspondent Don Whitehead said the width and depth of the positions, combined with the strength mustered, virtually ended the bridgehead phase of the operation and made it a solid front across the Rhine.

The temporary bridges across which men and machines have funneled now were nearly out of long range Nazi artillery fire.

Seize Five Towns.

On the south, Whitehead said the 99th infantry division was across the Wied river to a depth of more than a mile, and had taken at least five places beyond the river north of Neuwied.

The Siegfried's western anchor of Pirmasens, a city of 47,200, fell to the 7th army's 71st infantry division, and the Nazi line was rolled eastward until now it is little more than 10 miles long.

In that sector, the 3d and 7th armies were as close as three miles to another union. The Germans, being squeezed eastward, now hold about 18 miles of the Rhine's west bank.

The last resistance was crushed at Mainz, where 3,000 prisoners were taken by the 90th infantry in this city in the elbow of the Rhine. Mainz is the capital of Rhenish Hesse, with a peace time population of 160,000.

Southward, the 94th infantry division, mopping up the big chemical center of Ludwigshafen, cleared the enemy from the southwestern suburbs of Rheingongen.

While the Siegfried line was being rolled up from the west, the 36th division, after two days of bitter fighting, captured Bergzabern, a line pivot five miles north of the French frontier city of Wissembourg.

The 14th armored division was engaged in some of the stiffest fighting at Steinfeld, 15 miles west of Karlsruhe, where the Germans were holding open their last routes across the Rhine.

8,000 PLANES POUND LIFELINES TO RUHR; NAZI TROOPS ISOLATED

LONDON, March 24 [Saturday]—(AP).—History's mightiest aerial onslaught roared to a thunderous climax yesterday as more than 8,000 allied war planes battered communications in and around the devastated German Ruhr. Berlin also was attacked for the 32d night in a row.

The 19th tactical air force planes formed a protective umbrella over the 3d army front and 23 German planes were reported shot down. A powerful force of British bombers battered German troops and positions on the east bank of the Rhine during the night.

It was the second successive day that more than 8,000 planes hammered the reich and by nightfall more than 6,000 sorties had been flown by continent-based tactical air forces. Nazi troops and armor in a 1,000 square mile area facing Field Marshal Montgomery's armies were cut off from rear bases after 1,600 American heavy bombers and fighters ripped up 11 rail centers and three fleets of R. A. F. Lancasters blasted other supply links with 11 ton obliteration bombs yesterday.

PATTON'S DASH JUST THE THING FOR WIFE'S COLD

Washington, D. C., March 23 (AP). —Mrs. George S. Patton Jr. hasn't been feeling so good. She has had a miserable cold, almost impossible to shake off, but—she climbed out of bed and scurried to the phone tonight when informed that the general's 3d army had crossed the Rhine.

"Wonderful," said Mrs. Patton. "Marvelous."

She was interested in specific details. The entire Associated Press story was read to her.

"That was the greatest account I have ever heard. It will make a superb addition to a wonderful scrap book," she said.

A final question: How did she feel now?

"Fine, if I had that Rhine here, I'd cross it myself."

PEACE FEELER BY JAP ENVOY IN BERNE REPORTED

Offers to Cede Most of Seized Lands.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 23. —The Japanese envoy in Berne, Switzerland, recently approached diplomatic representatives of the allied powers there with peace proposals, private information from a trustworthy Berlin source disclosed today.

The Japanese minister in Berne is supposed to have conveyed to allied representatives that Japan would cede all her conquests back to the United States and Britain except Manchukuo and the wedge north of Pekin, China, where exist important iron and coal mines.

Envoy Called by Hitler.

The informant said the Jap move was a failure and that the German intelligence service got wind of it. As a result, Gen. Hiroshi Oshima, the Japanese ambassador to Berlin, was called in by Adolf Hitler who upbraided him for not informing the Nazi government, it was said. How could Gen. Oshima, thru whom all Japanese envoys in Europe must report, have failed to know about the Berne minister's action? Hitler was reported to have stormed.

Acted on His Own.

Gen. Oshima answered that the Japanese envoy in Berne had acted on his own without first informing him, the informant said. Anyway, if Japan were to make peace on such terms, added Gen. Oshima, it would in the end serve Germany's cause because such a peace would hasten a conflict between Russia and her western allies.

BELIEVE 50,000 DIED IN FLAMING RUINS OF BERLIN

LONDON, March 23 (AP).—Berlin has been virtually ruined along with the devastation heaped on other German cities in unprecedented raids during the last three weeks by American and British bombers, the air ministry announced tonight.

It is estimated unofficially that more than 50,000 persons died in the flaming ruins of the Nazi capital and that 400,000 were made homeless.

"The effect of this campaign can be estimated not only in terms of material damage, but in innumerable signs of confusion and lack of control in the enemy's war effort," the statement said.

Never before has air power been exerted with such paralyzing effect behind any war front. One industrial and railway town after another has been ripped for both strategic and tactical reasons.

Eisenhower Warns All Women to Leave Ruhr

LONDON, March 23 (AP).—German and foreign women were warned to leave the Ruhr today in the latest of Gen. Eisenhower's series of radio instructions to noncombatants to flee from the path of the allied armies.

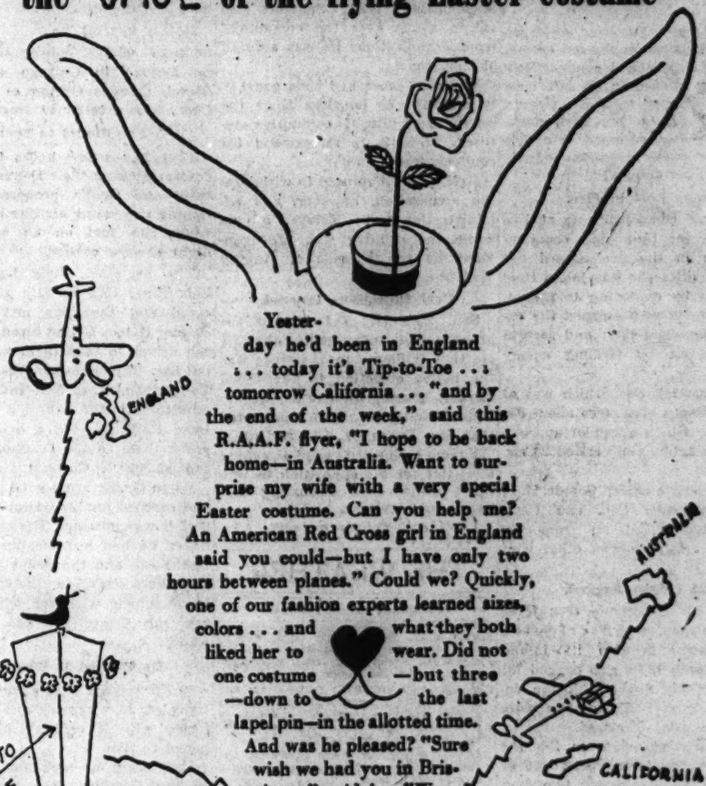
the CASE of the flying Easter costume



Yesterday he'd been in England . . . today it's Tip-to-Toe . . . tomorrow California . . . "and by the end of the week," said this R.A.A.F. flyer, "I hope to be back home—in Australia. Want to surprise my wife with a very special Easter costume. Can you help me? An American Red Cross girl in England said you could—but I have only two hours between planes." Could we? Quickly, one of our fashion experts learned sizes, colors . . . and what they both liked her to wear. Did not one costume —but three —down to the last lapel pin—in the allotted time. And was he pleased? "Sure wish we had you in Brisbane," said he. "We men would love it."

P. S. Time's flying too! Come in . . . let Tip to Toe solve your Easter costume problems!

CAN CROSS RHINE ANYWHERE, ANY TIME: BRADLEY

Armies Move Faster Than 'We Dared Hoped.'

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HEADQUARTERS 12TH ARMY GROUP, Belgium, March 23.—"The necessity of keeping the Remagen bridgehead small is now removed. So there is nothing to prevent us crossing over the Rhine anywhere at any time."

Lt. Gen. Bradley, scholarly commander of the 12th United States army group, made this statement today after reviewing the battle for the Rhine, now successfully completed except for one small pocket below the Moselle. The campaign was conducted by Field Marshal Montgomery's 1st Canadian, 2d British, and United States 9th armies and Bradley's 1st and 3d armies. It has netted 203,010 prisoners, all but 22,000 taken by American armies, counted in army cages, with an estimated 30,000 still untabulated. It has resulted in almost complete destruction of the German 7th army, Bradley said, and part of the enemy's 1st army.

Large Force Destroyed.

The general added words of caution: "I doubt that we should write too glaring headlines, that the war is over or anything like that. It may be almost over. It may last a long time to come. The fact is, we have destroyed a large force. How much resistance he [the German] can put up yet remains to be seen."

Bradley said the battle for the Rhine was won "faster than we had dared hope," and at very light cost in casualties. He revealed that Gen. Eisenhower, allied commander in chief, had ordered his forces to "destroy the German forces west of the Rhine" beginning Feb. 10. This was delayed 13 days by the Germans flooding the Roer valley. But Eisenhower's order, it may now be concluded, has been completed, he said.

Bad Time for Kesselring.

"Kesselring has arrived at a bad time," he added, referring to the announcement that Field Marshal Kesselring had relieved Field Marshal von Rundstedt. Bradley said Kesselring may have been brought to the western front to restore confidence. That German confidence needs restoring is evident from the toll inflicted on Von Rundstedt's forces. In addition to the tremendous prisoner bag, the 1st and 3d armies have buried 9,470 Germans.

Totals of our own losses remain a military secret. However, during six days of battle American dead in the 1st and 3d armies were fewer than 100 daily, and on only three days did they exceed 200 daily. The heaviest toll was 269 on Feb. 28, when the two armies captured 3,101 Nazis.

Nazi Losses in Material.

The German loss of material is staggering. To pick out major items: The 9th air force claims 690 planes, 812 tanks and armored vehicles, 10,238 motor transport vehicles, 1,206 locomotives, 15,594 railroad cars, and 40 bridges. Thirty-three German air fields in various stages of repair were captured by the 1st and 3d armies. Hodges' army took several thousand tons of ammunition, five railroad cars loaded with TNT, 102,500 tons of coal and coke, one warehouse full of steel, 54 searchlights, 43 field pieces, 102 towed anti-tank guns, and one complete factory [Ford] undamaged and with trucks on the assembly line.

Three Phases of Battle.

The battle for the Rhine was divided by Gen. Eisenhower, Bradley said, into three phases: 1. Duesseldorf north; 2. Duesseldorf south to the Moselle; 3. south of the Moselle. The Canadian 1st and United States 9th armies completed the first phase "in short order." At this time, the mission of Hodges' 1st army was to protect the right flank of Lt. Gen. Simpson's 9th as far as the Erft river.

We were able, Bradley said, to swing immediately into the second phase. In this, Hodges, whose troops already had reached the Rhine below Duesseldorf, was to attack southeast on a narrow front, taking in Bonn and Euskirchen, while Lt. Gen. Patton's 3d drove east toward Mayen, Pruem, and Coblenz, also on a narrow front.

In executing part of the 1st army job, the 9th armored and supporting infantry divisions pushed very rapidly, and combat command B of the 9th armored captured the Ludendorff bridge at Remagen and crashed over to the east bank of the Rhine.

Patton's "Active Defense."

Meanwhile, before this phase started, Patton in February had been carrying out his orders to conduct an "active defense."

"It was rather active, I'll admit," Bradley added with a grin, explaining that Patton's mission—to contain the Germans—had netted nearly 25,000 prisoners up to the end of the month.

Bradley said Patton drove on to Coblenz while Hodges filled the unexpected Remagen bridgehead. It was a bridgehead, Bradley said, in an area which was least likely along the rugged east Rhine bank. And because the next phase was not yet ready, Hodges was told to expaid it slowly. Now, however, the 1st army has captured the worst terrain features, the group commander said.

The third phase of the Rhine battle opened when Patton turned his army south along the Rhine toward the Saar, while the 7th army, in the 6th army group, attacked straight ahead. Bradley said they expected the 7th to make slow progress, while Patton would be able to slip more easily down the west bank of the Rhine.

Because the 3d army's rapid movement caught the Germans by surprise, the boundary between the 3d and 7th armies remained flexible, and even now some of Patton's troops are operating down in the 7th army's area.

RHINE TOUGHER AREA FOR KESSELRING TO DISPLAY BRILLIANCE

ROME, March 23 (AP).—The reported transfer of Field Marshal Kesselring to the western front will not be lamented in this theater, where his masterly withdrawal up the Italian peninsula has made allied progress slow and costly, but it is doubted that his acknowledged brilliance will help the Germans much along the Rhine.

For one thing, he will not have the advantage of the terrible mountainous terrain which has been his chief ally in Italy. For another, he will find it difficult if not impossible to shift his new armies around with the agility that time and again halted threatened allied break-thrus on this peninsula.

Allied officers generally credit Kesselring with having done an extremely efficient job, particularly in his defense of bloody Cassino and in stopping the British 8th army at the edge of the Po plain last fall.

DEFER FREEDOM OF PHILIPPINES, MCNUTT URGES

Washington, D. C., March 23 (AP).—Paul V. McNutt, former high commissioner to the Philippines, suggested today that independence for the commonwealth be deferred at least until after rehabilitation from the ravages of war.

"If the Filipinos defer the question of independence they are more likely to get a sympathetic reaction from congress on rehabilitation measures," McNutt said in an interview.

The Philippine rehabilitation commission is now studying the extent of war damages in the islands and the commonwealth is expected to put in a claim of nearly a billion dollars.

The Philippines, under terms of the Tydings-McDuffie act as originally passed, were to obtain complete independence on July 4, 1946. An amendment, passed during the period of occupation in order to offset Japanese propaganda, permits the President to advance the date of independence if he thinks it proper.

PREMIER PLANS ONTARIO VOTE AFTER DEFEAT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., March 23.—As a result of the defeat of his Progressive Conservative government early Friday, Ontario Premier George A. Drew will call an election for some time late in June, official sources said this afternoon. It was known that the premier had visited Lt. Gov. Albert Matthews before noon, evidently to prepare for dissolution shortly in the wake of the want of confidence motion which defeated his administration. Liberals and Coöperative Commonwealth federation forces combined to defeat the government, 51 to 36.

"A course of action has been decided upon," Premier Drew said, following a cabinet meeting late Friday. He intimated that "more definite" information would be forthcoming Saturday.

Coalition Move Denied.

Reports that Matthews might call C. C. F. Leader E. B. Jolliffe into consultation with a view to forming a cpalition government with the Liberals were scouted. The government feels, it is explained, that to carry on under its present minority, holding 38 seats, compared with the opposition total of 52, is impossible.

Jolliffe issued a statement charging that "the present political crisis was deliberately engineered by Premier Drew. Ever since last summer he has zealously followed a course which he knew could not be accepted by the opposition majority," Jolliffe said. "He did everything he could to make his own defeat inevitable because he is determined to force an election if he can before the end of the war."

Liberal Leader Mitchell F. Hepburn charged Premier Drew had pursued "a persistent policy of deliberately ignoring and challenging the opposition members, who constitute a majority of the legislature."

The Drew government, officials say, will carry on until after the election, the cabinet directing by order-in-council the province's affairs.

Shift Attributed to Hepburn.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 23 (AP).—The sudden shift in Liberal policy is attributable directly to former Premier Hepburn, who had resumed leadership of the Liberal party last December and directed the vote against the Drew government after five weeks of the current session of the legislature.

Altho a political party's fortunes in Canada are not always the same provincially and federally, the party showing the most strength in the Ontario voting is expected to win prestige nationally at a time of strategic importance.

Of the three major parties, C. C. F. circles in Ottwa showed the least enthusiasm today over the events in Ontario. Both the Progressive Conservatives and the Liberals predict they will win new seats in the legislature at C. C. F. expense.

Quebec 'Secession' Move Called Civil War Threat

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., March 23.—A program of separatism by Quebec, if that province tried to enforce it, would lead immediately to civil war, Ernest Bertrand, minister of fisheries, declared in commons yesterday afternoon.

Referring to a group of four French speaking independent members of commons who are opposing the resolution for support to the Canadian delegation to San Francisco, Bertrand said:

"If there is one group who should be in favor of creating an organization to settle disputes and prevent wars, it is that group.

Cites U. S. Civil War.

"The class of people to whom these gentlemen are appealing have only one definite article in their program—the separation of the province of Quebec from the rest of Canada. That is a program which would bring immediate civil war if Quebec tried to enforce it. The disastrous war that secession brought to the United States would undoubtedly be our lot.

"We have a group against all participation in this war, altho they would sell, and at very profitable prices, our agricultural and industrial products to England. This group is against an organization to prevent war, and at the same time it is trying to lead its own province toward a war of secession.

Charges Race Issue Injected.

"Every possible argument is employed by these gentlemen to arrive at their ends. Religion and all possible racial issues are invoked. Recently in the legislature of Quebec a member of this group went so far as to slander his own race with false and odious assertions.

"I am not a Communist but I like to see the facts set right. We went to war not only to defend Poland but to save our own skins, and the skins of 24 other nations. The united nations want to extend the Polish frontiers to the Baltic, so that Poland would be nationally in a better situation than before."

YANKS FIND NAZI FACTORY BUILT IN RHINE CLIFF

Free 1,500 Civilians, 500 Slave Laborers.

WITH THE U. S. 1ST ARMY ACROSS THE RHINE, March 22 [Delayed]—(AP).—A huge underground Nazi factory carved out of solid rock has been captured by American doughboys who found it crowded with 1,500 German civilians and 500 slave laborers.

For 11 days they waited in the stone walled, million dollar factory for the battle to pass them by after disobeying Nazi military orders to evacuate the area.

The factory, blasted out of cliffs near the Rhine town of Koenigswinter, turned out fuel pumps for heavy German vehicles and Focke-Wulf 190 fighter bombers. The factory had been moved twice—finally going underground last October—to escape heavy allied bombings.

Troops of the 78th "Lightning" infantry division led by Lt. Col. Richard W. Keyes, Houston, Tex., discovered the plant after a civilian told them of its existence.

Entrance in Hillside.

Climbing a high hill overlooking Koenigswinter, doughboys found a cave entrance 10 feet wide and 12 feet high about 75 feet from the crest. It had been camouflaged by a net running 300 feet down the hill from the cave's mouth.

"This has been as near to hell as I ever hope to come," said an English speaking German woman, who asserted the 2,000 persons cramped there had been anxiously waiting for the Americans to come.

She said one baby had been born in the factory and one man had committed suicide with poison.

"I was ordered two weeks ago to destroy my machinery and to bring my foreign workers farther into the reich for safekeeping," a factory owner told American officers, "but I hid my workers from the Gestapo and waited for you to come up this side of the Rhine." He offered to resume operation of the factory to make war materials for the allies.

Many Children Ill.

Before beginning the subterranean production he said the factory had operated a year in Silesia and then moved to the town of Porz, opposite Cologne on the Rhine.

Grouped around the cave entrance when the doughboys arrived were scores of gaunt faced old men and women and a number of sick children. One woman said she lost between 10 and 15 pounds in the seven days she was there. A doctor, a refugee from Cologne who had been the plant physician for the last two months, said that despite the unhealthy nature of work in the cave there had been no epidemic and that the slave laborers had received enough food "to exist."

Soldiers found the cave penetrated 1,206 feet into the hillside and was 250 feet wide in some places. Inside they found 260 German workers, more than 200 Russian men and 30 Russian women, 160 Italians taken prisoner fighting with the allies after the fall of Mussolini, 50 Poles, 15 French, and 30 Dutchmen.

The cave contained some finished pumps and 50 to 60 tons of steel as well as expensive precision machinery, lathes, planers, electric ovens for hardening steel and an electric generator.

1 AUSTRALIAN IN EACH 8 IN ARMY, FORDE ASSERTS

Los Angeles, Cal., March 23 (AP).—Australian military forces are engaged in holding and expanding strategic bases against 99,000 Japanese troops by-passed in southwest Pacific islands, Frances M. Forde, deputy prime minister of Australia, said today in answer to what he termed "speculation as to the reason why these experienced troops have not been in action during the last few months."

Forde said "It is on record that one in every eight of Australia's population is in the fighting services and we have had a bitter roll of casualties.

"I hope the misconceptions sometimes held that Aussies in the New Guinea-New Britain-Solomons area are engaged only in 'mopping up' campaigns against a few 'trapped' Japanese will be finally dispelled. They are finding and making new battlefields every day on Bougainville, in northern New Guinea, and in the march toward Rabaul. That is not 'mopping up.'"

U.S. PROHIBITS AP MEETING; PROXY VOTING PLANNED

Only Members Near N. Y. May Attend.

New York, March 23 (AP).—The annual meeting of the members of the Associated Press to be held on April 23, in the general offices of the association, will be primarily by proxy, because of war time restrictions on meetings requiring travel, it was stated in notices mailed to the membership today.

In a letter to members accompanying the notices of the annual meeting, Robert McLean, president of the Associated Press, said:

"The by-laws of the Associated Press, article 4, section 1, require the annual meeting to be held on the Monday preceding the fourth Thursday in April of each year.

Receive Reports.

"The by-laws further provide that the annual meeting shall elect directors and receive reports of the board and of the auditing committee.

"Because of regulations established by the office of defense transportation, application was made to the war committee on conventions for a permit to hold the general meeting. It was denied at this time in view of the necessities which caused the imposition of the present restriction on travel.

"In view of the legal requirements of the by-laws that a meeting be held, representation thus will of necessity be by proxy except in the case of those members or their representatives already in the immediate vicinity. Members are therefore urged to file their proxies promptly.

Action by Members.

"Should, prior to the annual meeting, a decision of the Supreme court of the United States be rendered in the pending litigation which shall require action by the members, notice will be given of the date of any postponed meeting or special meeting called to take such action—if any—as may be necessary.

"Under such circumstances, amended application will be filed with the office of defense transportation for consent to a meeting to be personally attended by the members."

FINDS BELGIAN PRESS DULL, UNINFORMED, BUT READ AVIDLY

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 23.—The Belgians appear to be voracious readers of the daily press. Newsstands here are bedecked with a large assortment of papers. But in contrast to Paris, there are few papers here—four morning papers including the Communist "Drapeau Rouge," and three afternoon papers. In Paris there are 27 morning and six afternoon papers.

In addition to the daily press, there is a large crop of weeklies printed in normal size while the dailies are reduced to a four page tabloid size. The press is subject to military censorship, and is dull and uninformed.

Apart from the limitations of newsprint it is obviously subjected, also, to pretty close political censorship.

F. D. R. PUTS WAR ASIDE; GIVES HIS TIME TO ROYALTY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 23.—President Roosevelt laid aside war and domestic cares today to play the familiar role of host to royalty in the persons of the earl of Athlone, uncle of King George VI. of Great Britain and governor general of Canada, and his wife, Princess Alice, the countess of Athlone.

The figurehead of the Canadian government, who arrived here yesterday wearing a field marshal's uniform, which is his by right of service in three British wars—Matabeleland in 1896, South Africa in 1899, and the World war. He and his wife were met at the train by the President and Mrs. Roosevelt and were received formally at a military ceremony on the south grounds of the White House.

Cancels Press Conference

Mr. Roosevelt canceled his semi-weekly press conference at which, according to a promise made last Tuesday, he had proposed to give a statement on the critical food situation, presumably in order to entertain his guests.

The visitors' day was featured by a formal dinner which brought ranking British diplomats and military personnel from the various empire subdivisions to the White House table along with American officials and military leaders.

At noon the Canadian couple were luncheon guests of his Britannic majesty's Canadian ambassador, Leon B. Pearson, and Mrs. Pearson. The luncheon was limited to 24 places. The Pearsons have known the Athlones since the king's uncle was governor general of South Africa, where Pearson served the Canadian government for a time.

The governor general and Princess Alice were accompanied by Miss Vera Grenfell, lady in waiting to the princess; Shulham Redfern, secretary to the governor general, and Col. H. Willis O'Connor and Maj. Mark Clayton, aids to the dominion's governor.

The governor general, who was born Alexander Augustus Frederick William Alfred George Chamberlain, is the son of the duke of Teck, who also was the father of Dowager Queen Mary. He has previously visited the capital but this is his first visit as governor general of Canada. He will leave tomorrow for Canada.

The Athlones have entertained the Roosevelts in Canada and have in return been entertained in the Roosevelt family home at Hyde Park. They rounded out Roosevelt entertainment of the reigning British family which began with King George and Queen Elizabeth in 1939 and has included the duke and duchess of Windsor, the late duke of Kent, and the duke of Atholl.

Other Royalty Entertained.

The Roosevelts have entertained numerous other royalty, including Crown Princess Martha of Norway, who is a White House favorite and the most constant visitor at the executive mansion and the Hyde Park home. The President has visited her near-by Maryland estate.

King George of Greece, King Peter of Yugoslavia, Otto Hapsburg, pretender of the nonexistent throne of Austria, Grand Duchess Charlotte of Luxemburg, Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, Crown Princess Juliana of Holland, Crown Prince Bertila of Sweden, and various Indian and middle eastern potentates have also been guests of the Roosevelts.

R. A. F. ADMITS BOMBING DUTCH CITY IN ERROR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 23.—The royal air force tonight admitted that thru an error "serious casualties were suffered by the civilian population and considerable damage caused to residential property" in the Hague during an attack on German rocket firing bases.

Expressing the deepest regret to the Dutch people for the "terrible accident," the R. A. F. promised disciplinary action against those responsible.

The bombing was done the morning of March 3 by the R. A. F. 2d tactical air force and the mistake was "due to an error in judgment" into which an official inquiry is being made. The R. A. F. pledged that to its utmost it would avoid a repetition during "attacks on this indiscriminate rocket weapon the enemy is using from Dutch soil."

HERO KELLY'S EX-BUDDY WINS HIGHEST MEDAL

WITH THE 36TH DIVISION, Germany, March 23 (AP).—Lt. Stephen R. Gregg, onetime company companion and buddy of Sgt. Charles E. [Commando] Kelly, proudly wears the congressional medal of honor for heroism at Montelimar, France, last Aug. 27. Gregg, who is en route home to Bayonne, N. J., was the second man of the 143d regiment of this Texas division to win the nation's highest award.

Gregg, then a platoon sergeant, fired a machine gun from the hip while walking uphill ahead of a medic to cover the rescue of seven wounded men. They were showered with grenades. Gregg used all his ammunition and four Germans demanded his surrender. His comrades opened fire and the Germans hit the ground. Gregg seized a machine pistol from one, escaped, and set up a new position. The next morning he broke a German attack and recovered American mortar positions the enemy had overrun.

G. I.s Seize Storehouses Bulging with Nazi Goods

WITH THE 3D ARMY IN GERMANY, March 23 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Patton's sweep thru the Saarland has captured much equipment and supplies. One of the best hauls was at Windsheim, southwest of Bingen, where three storehouses bulging with food were seized. At a storehouse near Wittlich the Yanks found 1,200 pairs of shoes.

ONE WEEK JOB: WIDE HIGHWAY TO BRIDGEHEAD

Tank Engineers Tackle Third Greatest Task.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 1ST ARMY IN THE RHINE BRIDGEHEAD, Germany, March 23.—In their third largest road project of the war, 1st army engineers and their doughboy helpers are widening and surfacing one of the main roads feeding this bridgehead. It is a real construction job, something into which the engineers can really bite.

For 10 miles as one drives toward the Rhine one passes hundreds of soldiers working with earth moving equipment, crushed rock, and shovels. For mile after mile the white stumps of felled trees are visible thru clouds of dust, for the dust of war is back again.

Smaller trees are uprooted by some of the bulldozers at work on this project. Larger ones are cut down by portable buzz saws and the stumps are pulled to one side.

Trees Sacrificed to Width.

Col. William W. Ragland, Danville, Ill., engineer operations chief, said it was necessary to fell the trees because they were close to the road. The road is too narrow and must be widened to pass two trucks abreast, with strong shoulders to hold up under heavy loads.

On the swift march to the Rhine the trucks broke down most of the old road shoulders. But two combat engineer battalions and one regiment of doughboys expect to have them solid again by Sunday, one week after the project started.

"It is hard work," said Ragland's executive, Lt. Col. V. E. Staley, Fort Worth, Tex. "But the engineers like a job like this; when they get thru they can see the results."

The engineers took a chance. If the good weather of the last few days had broken, the roads might have been chopped into worse shape because the engineers tore out all the old drains and started from scratch. The sides were built up with crushed rock, much of it from a captured quarry.

Ragland is using three crushers capable of producing 45 yards of rock an hour, 14 bulldozers, four road grader, eight steam shovels, and about 150 civilian laborers.

Tough Task Recalled.

The engineers still remember the heartbreaking job they had in maintaining roads around Monschau, Belgium, in February. A thaw had created a desperate situation. Staley said they used 75 per cent of all army quartermaster trucks, as well as all dump trucks, to haul rock and other fill. The rock was brought in even by rail, traveling with priority as high as that for food, ammunition, and fuel.

For 20 days the army threw an average of 10,000 yards of rock daily into roads that seemed bottomless. On one quarter mile stretch 200 loads were dumped; within 12 hours they had vanished from sight.

The army turned out the 99th infantry division and elements of the 3d and 7th armored division troops, as well as anti-aircraft and tank destroyer men, to dig and fill. And still some sections of Belgian roads, which had no heavy rock base and were never designed to carry ponderous military traffic, had to be closed. As it moved over the Roer river the army had to abandon some old road nets around Monschau and St. Vith.

The engineers, who recall with pride the colossal task of building a by-pass around St. Lo, are whipping the last few miles of their newest road into shape. Five hundred fine elms of this Cologne plain, which has few trees, will be sacrificed to their progress.

START MONTH'S DRIVE TO 'SELL' WORLD LEAGUE

A 30 day campaign to sell the international principles of the Dumbarton Oaks plan to the American public was started here yesterday with the announcement of the formation of a Build for Peace organization.

Similar groups, operating under various names, have been formed or are in the process of formation in the major cities of the United States, all dedicated to an international program to be conducted thru newspapers, magazines, radio, foreign and domestic public speakers, and slides and lectures to school children.

Elmer T. Stevens, chairman of the Build for Peace organization, described it as a temporary group of Chicago citizens "to help inform the people concerning the issues and problems of world peace."

Headquarters have been established in the International Relations center, 84 E. Randolph st., with Donald Pritchett Bean, former manager of the University of Chicago press, as director of the campaign that is to be concluded before the opening of the San Francisco conference on April 25.

LAUBENHEIMER, EX-MARSHAL, 72, ENDS OWN LIFE

Shoots Himself; Body Found by Nurse.

Henry C. W. Laubenheimer, 72, former United States marshal, was found shot to death, an apparent suicide, in his room at 1426 Howard st. last night. He had been seriously ill of heart trouble for a year and a half.

The body was found in an upstairs bedroom across one of twin beds by Mrs. Lillian Ford, a registered nurse, who also was Laubenheimer's housekeeper. He was clothed. On the floor beside him was a .38 caliber pistol.

The bullet had struck Laubenheimer above the right eye and passed thru his head, lodging in the ceiling. Police said Laubenheimer apparently sat on the bed, facing a mirror, when he pulled the trigger.

Leaves to Attend Funeral.

Mrs. Ford had left the home at 1 p. m. to attend a funeral. She went only because of her employer's urging, she said. Laubenheimer assured her he would be "all right" and seemed anxious to have her go. She found the body at 7:30 p. m., shortly after her return.

Coroner A. A. Brodie was notified immediately. Detectives Anton J. White and Marvin Harrop of the Rogers Park station, who also investigated, said there was no doubt that Laubenheimer was a suicide.

Appointed by Coolidge.

Laubenheimer had been under the care of Dr. Leo Hardt, 30 N. Michigan av., who said his patient also was suffering from high blood pressure.

Laubenheimer, who had been active in Republican politics for many years, was appointed United States marshal by President Coolidge in 1928 and served six years. The appointment was on recommendation of United States Sen. Charles S. Deneen.

He had served a short term before that as chief clerk of the sanitary board after 19 years in the sheriff's office, part of the time as chief deputy. Earlier in his career he was cashier of the Rogers Park National bank.

Mrs. Laubenheimer died in 1938. One son, Merritt R. Laubenheimer, an insurance broker, resides at 2515 Colfax av., Evanston, and another son, Richard P., is a resident of Los Angeles, Cal.

POCKET MODEL WIRE RECORDER USES REVEALED

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The tiny pocket model wire recorder, invention of which first was reported in THE TRIBUNE, has been developed sufficiently by physicists and engineers at the Armour Research Foundation that its applications and uses, in a measure, now can be foreseen. Details of its operation also can be made public now. Like the bigger models of this magnetic recorder, weighing upwards of 40 pounds, the newest of the family, weighing only three pounds, was invented by Marvin Camras, young physicist at the foundation. All models preserve sound on wire as thin as human hair.

The pocket model, small enough to slip easily into a woman's handbag, has over-all dimensions of 7¼ by 4 by 1¾ inches, about the size of the smallest home movie cameras. The pocket recorder is a complete unit which records thru a motor powered by a battery. Its wire spools, however, can be transferred to a recorder incorporating a play back device and played back instantly.

O. Use to Reporters.

The only connection to the instrument is a small microphone which may be held in the palm of the hand or worn on a lapel or clipped to the side of the recorder. It will record from 66 minutes to upwards of two hours of sound, depending on the thickness of the wire used.

The pocket recorder may prove of use to reporters when obtaining interviews, and listening to public addresses or conferences. The recordings would make for accuracy in quotations, would ease the reporter's work, and, in some instances, would make for greater speed in getting the news.

In the business world the pocket recorder might have considerable application in the field of dictation. Recordings could be made whenever convenient to the executive, in his place of business, at home, in hotel rooms, on trains, or in automobiles. The spools could be dispatched to his office for transcribing.

Court reporting and testimony could be recorded with speed and accuracy. Many educational and classroom uses are foreseen.

In Case on Shoulder Strap.

Finally, in the home, favorite broadcasts, music, and family events could be preserved and recorded. Children's voices might be recorded and saved for replaying when they have grown older.

A leather case allows the pocket model to be worn with a shoulder strap in the same way as a camera or binoculars. The recorder itself is incased in crackle finish brass.

Fifteen companies have been licensed by Armour to manufacture the various types of wire recorders. Thruout the war the entire production has gone to the military services. Production of the new pocket model, except for developmental purposes, is contingent on the progress of the war and the release of materials.

An experimental recording of the Chicago Symphony orchestra with a new high fidelity model wire recorder on March 12 was acclaimed by critical musicians who heard the playback as the most faithful reproduction of music they had heard.

GERMAN TANKS HAVE AN EDGE IN HEAD-ON MEETINGS—BRADLEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HDQ. U. S. 12TH ARMY GROUP, Belgium, March 23—Lt. Gen. Bradley, 12th army group commander, admitted today the German Mark V. and VI. tanks have some advantage when meeting a Sherman tank head-on, on roads which prevent the American from maneuvering. But he said the Sherman always had been better at outmaneuvering when given terrain, and that our mechanics were able to maintain more of our tanks in action than were the Germans.

The general made his remarks about tanks in attempting to refute published statements that the American Sherman is no good. He also said that complaints against other items of American equipment are due more to the nature of human beings, who always think the other fellow's jacket or automobile is better.

ILLINOIS DRAFT LEADERS SILENT ON 31 PCT. CUT

Illinois selective service officials refused to comment yesterday on a report from Washington, D. C., that draft calls may drop an average of 31 per cent after July 1. The report was based on President Roosevelt's request to congress for an appropriation to finance selective service for another fiscal year which indicated the monthly draft call will be reduced from 135,000 to 93,000.

At state selective service headquarters in Springfield, Col. Victor Kleber said no official word concerning the report had been received. "We know nothing about it here," he added. "If the order is received it will be carried out. We're not making any predictions."

This sentiment was echoed by Chicago draft officials, who said their monthly quotas are unchanged.

TAKE 5 MINUTES TO ADD TO LIFE OF DRAFT LAW!

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 23.—An extension of the selective service act until the end of the war was approved by the house today on a voice vote. It now goes to the senate.

The measure was called up by Chairman May [D., Ky.] of the military affairs committee and disposed of in five minutes with almost no debate. The draft act is scheduled under present law to expire May 15 of this year.

Under the bill the act would expire May 15, 1946, if the war ends before then, but otherwise it would continue until the "termination" of hostilities as proclaimed by either the President or congress.

Asks Farmer Ban.

Rep. Hoffman [R., Mich.] suggested the act should include a new provision flatly banning the drafting of essential farmers. May replied such a safeguard was written into a bill adopted by the house earlier this week, and that it may also be included in labor draft legislation now deadlocked in a senate-house conference committee.

The draft extension, which was unanimously approved by the military committee yesterday, continues the authority of selective service to draft men 18 thru 44 years old for military service. For the last two years, however, inductions have been limited by executive order to men 18 to thru 37.

Extend Training Period.

The original act, adopted Sept. 16, 1940, provided one year's military training for men 21 thru 35. The training period was extended a year later, and in 1942 congress voted to expand the age bracket to men 18 thru 44. About 13 million men have been inducted.

Sen. Thomas [D., Utah], chairman of the senate military committee, has a bill pending to extend the act for two years from May 15. The committee will meet Tuesday to decide whether to accept the house bill or Thomas' bill. Thomas predicted the committee will probably accept the house measure, which, he added, is agreeable to him.

HOW JAPS KILLED 100 IN SEA NEAR SINKING CARRIER

Ship's Officer Saved by Wisconsin Captain.

IWO ISLAND [Delayed]—(AP).—Six veteran aerial observers of the 4th marine division, today told their most harrowing experience of all—the methodical Japanese strafing and killing of 100 of their shipmates swimming helplessly in icy seas after the sinking of the U. S. S. Bismarck Sea, an escort carrier.

Lt. Col. Charles F. Duchein, United States marine corps, of Baton Rouge, La., one of the 1st marine infantry officers to receive the distinguished flying cross, had returned from missions over the Japanese lines and was aboard the Bismarck Sea only a short while before she was hit. He went over the side near the anchor with another marine corps observer, Capt. Norman Goulet, of South Milwaukee, Wis.

Japs Repeatedly Attacked.

They were about 1,000 yards away when the Bismarck Sea sank.

Both told of the merciless strafing. Lt. Col. Duchein said the Japanese repeatedly attacked swimmers near the sinking carrier. He said he saw at least one rubber raft riddled by enemy fire and its occupants hit.

Lt. Col. Duchein credits Capt. Goulet with the rescue of one of the carrier's officers.

"He was an elderly man, and he was badly scared," Duchein said. "He was ready to give up. Norm kept him encouraged by telling him he'd see a raft just over the next wave. It was a lie, but it worked."

"I expected to stay in the water all night," Goulet said. "It was cold and I was almost freezing. But about two hours after we went in we were picked up by a small boat from one of the destroyers."

Praise Escort's Skipper.

With Duchein, Capt. Goulet praised the skipper of a tiny destroyer escort who encouraged men thruout their peril in the water by shouting to them thru a loudspeaker that help was on its way.

Lt. Harold Crump, Hughes Springs, Tex., who is ordinarily a tank officer with the 4th marine division, came in from an aerial mission over Iwo almost at the moment that the Bismarck Sea was fatally attacked.

Crump went over the side but was unable to clear the sinking ship. While he was still close to the carrier an explosion lifted him 15 feet out of the water. He was not injured.

Capt. H. Grady Gatlin, Nashville, Tenn., had just returned from a mission and was entering the wardroom of the Bismarck Sea for a meal when the carrier was hit. He was thrown under a table. Ten minutes later he obeyed the order to abandon ship and went over the side.

The other two marine observers who were rescued are: Lt. John F. Sutkus, Toledo, O., and Capt. Edward H. Statton, Waco, Tex.

200,000 TOKYO BUILDINGS LEFT IN RUINS BY B-29S

3,000 Plants, Shops Destroyed.

Washington, D. C., March 23 (AP).—Fire bombs rained on Tokyo March 9 wrecked 20 per cent of the city's industry for probably three months and made at least 1,200,000 homeless, a 20th air force spokesman said today.

More than five per cent of Tokyo's war production, concentrated in approximately 45,000 "home industry" plants, was knocked out for a full year, Brig. Gen. Lauris Norstad told a news conference.

In the first incendiary attack on the Japanese capital, from 200,000 to 250,000 buildings were destroyed in an area of 13.2 square miles. These included some 3,000 plants of all sizes. Forty-five large factories were destroyed, 26 damaged extensively, and 20 moderately damaged. Sixteen others also suffered some damage.

Economical Method.

Fire attacks are being made on Japanese cities because it is impossible to bomb their many little war industries with pin-point accuracy, the 20th air force chief of staff said.

Asserting that there is no change in the general policy of bombing, Norstad said the mission of the B-29 air force is to reduce Japanese production "by any means" and that "incendiary attacks are the economical method of destroying small industries."

His statement that there has been "no switch" in policy left the understanding that high explosive bombs would continue to be used on specific targets such as aircraft plants where the use of that type bomb is required.

May Use 1,000 Planes.

While detailed analyses of the incendiary attacks on other big industrial cities of Japan have not been received, Norstad said it was expected the damage would be similar.

Asked about the size of the strategic bombing force required to destroy Japan's war economy, Norstad replied:

"If fleets of a thousand B-29s are required to do the job, then fleets of one thousand B-29s will be provided."

He emphasized that the 20th air force "has just started" and that attacks up to now should be considered only "initial."

The general, for the first time, reported total losses of B-29s since the start of tactical operation of the Super Fortresses on June 5, 1944. Losses total 170—from all causes, combat, planes destroyed in ground strafing attacks, accident ditching of aircraft in the sea, and loss during transport flights.

A WAC Is Back

Corp. Gladys Gregory, the first Chicago area WAC to return from the Philippine Islands, yesterday described her experiences while serving as an officer with the engineer corp in the islands. She lives at 3252 Maple av., Berwyn.

After serving in Australia and New Guinea, Corp. Gregory was sent to the Philippines with the first WAC detachment to be assigned there. The group landed in the midst of a heavy Japanese air raid, she reported, but none of the WACS became panicky. She admitted however that she was frightened. The WAC said she soon learned to get into her foxhole quickly.

Corp. Gregory, who wears a campaign star on her Asiatic-Pacific theater ribbon for the New Guinea campaign and one on the Philippine liberation ribbon for the battle there, returned home on an emergency furlough after her husband, Ralph, a railroad agent, was seriously injured in an automobile accident. He now is convalescing.

WE WILL RETAKE IWO AND SAIPAN, KOISO TELLS DIET

Guadalcanal Also Is on His List.

San Francisco, Cal., March 23 (AP).—Premier Koiso told the Japanese diet Friday the forces of Nippon not only are fully prepared to beat back an invasion of the homeland, but also are determined to recapture Iwo Island, Saipan, and Guadalcanal.

Tokyo radio broadcasts reported the premier's confident remarks and his replies to sharp questions from diet members who indicated dissatisfaction with Koiso's war efforts.

One legislator said the government should take more direct action to enlist the people's support of the war, and another demanded information on the relationship between Koiso and the high command.

Mobilize War Labor.

Koiso said he believed the recent order by Emperor Hirohito permitting him to join imperial headquarters deliberations will stimulate "harmonization and unification of military leadership and civil administration."

Domei news agency reported Koiso's cabinet had adopted a strong emergency program for war labor mobilization. Preparations to put the program into effect will be completed by the end of March.

Claim 11 U. S. Ships Sunk.

A new Japanese imperial bulletin claimed that Nipponese airmen had sunk 11 warships of the United States carrier task force which struck in Japan's inland sea Monday, crippling 15 to 17 of the enemy's battle craft. There was no American confirmation of the enemy claims, which also said about 180 United States planes had been shot down.

Imperial headquarters admitted that 150 Japanese planes had been lost in attacks on the American force, but said the Yank planes had done only "slight" damage to Jap ships and shore installations.

Official American reports Wednesday placed the enemy plane losses at 475 destroyed and more than 100 damaged.

NOOSE TIGHTENED ON JAPS IN BURMA BY INDIAN TROOPS

CALCUTTA, India, March 23 (AP).—Indian armored forces, driving south from Mandalay at a 20 mile a day clip, have captured the towns of Pindale and Wundwin just short of Meiktila, further constricting the noose around thousands of Japanese troops cut off west of the Mandalay-Thai rail line, allied headquarters announced.

It was possible that the 20th division making the southward spurt already had made contact with forces of the British 14th army, who seized Meiktila in an earlier plunge eastward from the Irrawaddy river and cut the enemy's main supply and retreat route to the port of Rangoon.

Some Japanese were reported attempting to escape disguised as Burmese country folk, but others were surrendering in greater numbers than ever before in this theater.

John W. Roberts, 30, Negro, was held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in Felony court on a charge of rape.

NORTH LUZON AIR FIELD AND TOWN TAKEN BY YANKS

MANILA, P. I., March 24 [Saturday]—(AP).—Thirty-third division infantry has moved to within 16 miles of Baguio, reported headquarters of Japanese troops in Luzon.

Maj. Gen. Percy Clarkson's 33d division, operating with guerrillas to move toward Baguio from San Fernando on the northwest coast, crossed the Naguilian river to seize Naguilian town and its air field. Clarkson's infantry is moving along Naguilian highway, a hard surfaced mountain road.

Other elements of the 33d are moving on Baguio from the south and last were reported in Kennon canyon, about eight miles south of the summer capital.

Open Route to Baguio.

Gen. MacArthur today said capture of Naguilian, which had 15,000 population before the war, opened another route to Baguio. A spokesman said Naguilian airdrome was in good condition and capable of handling fighter and transport planes.

Lt. Col. Arthur Collins, Boston, Mass., commanded the 130th infantry regiment which seized Naguilian after wading across the river. Japanese, heavily attacked by artillery, had blasted a bridge before fleeing. Engineers commanded by Lt. Col. Francis P. Kane of Chicago immediately began repairing the 250 yard span.

A battle at Bauang, four miles west of Naguilian, preceded capture of the town. Troops under Lt. Col. Ernest D. Jessup, Manhattan, Kas., took a heavy toll of Japanese and captured enemy supplies and equipment.

Smash 4 Jap Attacks.

In the Cagayan valley, on northeastern Luzon, 25th and 32d division troops smashed four Japanese counter-attacks with heavy loss to the enemy and continued the reduction of strong points as they advanced on Balete pass. MacArthur gave no indication of the size of the attacking Nipponese forces.

These ground operations were supported strongly by fighter planes, which at minimum altitude attacked enemy installations, causing fires and explosions.

Off Indo-China, Mitchell bombers sank two 2,000 ton freighters, two destroyers, and a minesweeper of a seven ship convoy. One United States bomber was lost. In the Wenchow sector of China, patrol planes sank or damaged a 6,000 ton freighter, four small freighters, and two luggers.

Chinese Bishop Conducts Mass for Slain Yanks

CHUNKING, China, March 23 (AP).—A solemn requiem mass in memory of Chinese, American, and British soldiers and civilians who lost their lives in the Yunnan and Burma campaigns to open the Stilwell road was celebrated in Kunming yesterday by Bishop Paul Yupin, China's senior Catholic dignitary. Americans were represented at the ceremony by Brig. Gen. Henry A. Barber, deputy commander of the Chinese combat command, and Lt. Col. Camden A. Forthey Jr., of the Burma road engineers.

Britain Invites Regent of Iraq to Visit King

BAGHDAD, Iraq, March 23 [Reuters].—Kinahan Cornwallis, retiring British ambassador to Iraq, today conveyed an invitation to the regent, the Amir Abdul Iliah, to visit the king and queen on his return from a visit to the United States. The ambassador assumed the regent his departure meant no change in British policy toward Iraq.

SINCLAIR LEWIS says:

"I hope the gallery of the Associated American Artists in Chicago will have the same good fortune and influence as its sister gallery in New York, which gently led me into the pleasant and unregretted extravagance of buying several landscapes by Minnesota's great painter, Adolf Dehn."

We hasten to assure our new Chicago friends, however, that selecting outstanding works of art need by no means be an "extravagance" here! For as little as five dollars you may have a genuine, signed, limited edition original etching by one of America's foremost artists.

MANILANS NOW GOUGE MEN WHO CAPTURED CITY

Restaurants Profiteer on Hungry Yanks.

BY DONALD STARR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, P. I., March 23.—American troops who captured Manila and drove the Japs into the mountains beyond, have returned to the capital for rest and relaxation to find prices skyrocketed out of reach of their pocketbooks.

The first desire of these weary warriors who have been withdrawn from the lines for a rest is food and drink, but these they are unable to obtain except at black market prices. The government's maximum prices as yet do not cover restaurants, where the cost of two eggs is 7 pesos, or $3.50.

Having changed from mud caked battle clothing to clean cottons, the infantry men, proudly wearing their combat badges, turn disgustedly from the Manila streets where they fought the enemy from room to room and return to their camps on the fringes of the city.

One Red Cross Canteen.

American Red Cross representatives came to the city eight weeks ago and opened one part time canteen in a small gasoline service station at the far north side of Manila. It is still the only Red Cross establishment open, altho there has been talk of big plans for a larger establishment. Red Cross girls are riding thru the streets in jeeps, but hungry G. I.'s seeking a sandwich and a cup of coffee are unsuccessful in their quest for the advertised service.

Officers and men from combat divisions coming to the city on business also are forced to pay profiteering restaurant prices or go hungry.

Inquiries of commonwealth cabinet officers bring a shrug of the shoulders and the excuse: "Everything takes time," but this attitude is in contrast to the policy of civil affairs officers in the northern Luzon area, where food dealers selling above maximum prices already have been heavily fined.

Closes 140 Restaurants.

Prices are not the only deterrent to the discerning soldiers who are seeking a restaurant or one of the hastily established bars. Maj. Dalton O'Brien, chief medical officer under the provost marshal, has closed 140 restaurants after an investigation of sanitary conditions.

Maj. O'Brien's investigation revealed that none of these establishments met even minimum sanitary requirements. Some were so filthy that they will not be allowed to reopen for three months. A leper was discovered in one of the restaurants.

Some of the Filipinos who, on Feb. 4, greeted the Americans with welcoming shouts, "Mabuhia," now are gouging these same Americans, but troops who have been in this theater from Australia northward have grown accustomed to paying the price.

House Will Get Easter Holiday; Senate to Work

Washington, D. C., March 23 (AP).—Members of the house received permission today to take an Easter vacation. Majority Leader McCormack [D., Mass.] said that while an official recess will not be taken, no legislative business will be transacted from March 28 to April 10. Sessions will be held every three days during this period but only noncontroversial matters will be considered. The senate will hold regular sessions.

Boy Rescued

Bobby Anderson, 3, of 3715 N. Halsted st., rewarded rescuing firemen with a tear stained smile yesterday afternoon after he fell 25 feet from the roof of a building and became wedged between it and the wall of a neighboring structure.

Chief John Hamilton of the 2nd battalion and Lieut. Edward Meyers of Truck 9 lowered a rope from a second story window at 1123 N. State st., lassoed the child's foot and pulled him to safety. The boy, they said, had crawled from a window of his grandmother's flat to the neighboring roof and while playing plunged thru roofing paper which covered the crevice.

He was taken to a nearby doctor's office for treatment of cuts and bruises and then returned to his grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Walusiak.

Britain Warned V-Bomb Attacks May Increase

LONDON, March 23 [Reuters].—V-bomb attacks against Britain may increase, Herbert Morrison, home security minister, said today. He added that northern England had had proof recently that it could still come into the front line, as there had been occasional raids by piloted aircraft and flying bombs.

BURGLARS ROB STORE.

Mrs. Luella Jenkins, a storekeeper at 1817 Taylor st., told the police yesterday that burglars stole four men's suits, 25 phonograph records, two suitcases, and a watch, all valued at $77, on Thursday night.

LET FM CHANGE FOES BE HEARD, M'DONALD ASKS

E. F. McDonald Jr., president of Zenith Radio corporation, disclosed yesterday that he had sent a telegram to Paul Porter, chairman of the federal communications commission, asking that the testimony of six radio experts who opposed the FCC's proposal to move frequency modulation [FM] from 42-50 megacycles to 84-102 megacycles be revealed to the press.

Prof. Edwin H. Armstrong, inventor of FM, and five other authorities recently testified that the proposed move to the higher frequencies was unnecessary and undesirable, McDonald reminded Porter.

The FCC hearings were shrouded in partial secrecy because military data regarding characteristics in the ultra short wave field was heard. Then the veil was drawn aside long enough to demonstrate two converters intended to show that present FM sets would not necessarily be made obsolete by moving to the higher bands.

If the veil of secrecy is to be partly lifted to support the FCC's plan to move FM, McDonald argued, it would be only fair to release to the press the testimony of those in opposition to the proposal. McDonald also sent Porter the text of a telegram he had previously addressed to the senate committee on interstate commerce in which he asserted that if the FCC goes thru with this plan it will delay FM from two to five years.

ROMULO TELLS FILIPINO ARMY'S SPEEDY GROWTH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 23.—Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, resident commissioner of the Philippines to the United States, disclosed today that the organization of the regular Philippine commonwealth army has proceeded rapidly since American forces first landed in the islands last fall.

Gen. Romulo could not reveal the strength of the new army for security reasons. He said, however, that one battalion is stationed in Manila, and two more battalions are on other islands.

Started After Leyte.

Organization of the Philippine army was started last Oct. 22, just two days after Gen. MacArthur's forces began their invasion of Leyte.

The organization was placed in charge of Maj. Gen. Richard J. Marshall, chief of staff of the United States armed forces of the far east, and Maj. Gen. C. P. Steivers, also of the USAFFE.

By executive order of President Osmena of the Philippines on Oct. 28, Philippine guerrilla fighters, who had been resisting the Japanese for nearly three years, were incorporated into the regular commonwealth army. Another executive order fixed rank and pay for officers and enlisted men.

Served with MacArthur.

Gen. Romulo formerly was on the staff of Gen. MacArthur, and after fighting on Bataan, escaped just before the peninsula fell. He accompanied President Osmena to Leyte and was wounded in the invasion.

Returning to the United States for a short time, he again went back to the islands a few weeks ago and was with Gen. MacArthur when he recaptured Corregidor.

FLAG SHORTAGE BLAMED ON WPB BY D.A.R. LEADER

Mrs. Alonzo Newton Benn, 500 East End av., yesterday warned that the current shortage of American flags poses a serious threat to the patriotic education of the nation's youth. The flags, she pointed out, are needed for classroom instruction of elementary grade pupils.

Known as "Chicago's Flag Lady," Mrs. Benn, general vice chairman of the Daughters of the American Revolution national committee for the correct use of the flag, said the war production board could relieve the present flag scarcity "if it wanted to."

She predicted that if the shortage continues, exercises on Flag day, June 14, might have to be curtailed.

Sued for Divorce

SARAH CHURCHILL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 23.—Vic Oliver, stage, screen, and radio star, has filed suit to divorce Sarah Churchill, the prime minister's daughter, the communist Daily Worker reported tonight. The court will hear the comedian's petition Monday. It is not being defended. No cause was given in the petition.

Vic Oliver.

The Daily Worker was the only one of London's nine morning papers to carry the story.

The 46 year old Oliver was the son of Baron Victor Von Samek of Austria, but relinquished his title in 1922. After being educated at Vienna university he went to America as a concert pianist and in 1935 turned to stage revues. He also appeared in several American movies.

He and Sarah Churchill were married in 1936 when she was appearing on British stages as a chorus girl with "Mr. Cochran's Young Ladies." Sarah, who is in the British woman's auxiliary air force [WAAFs], has accompanied her father on several international conferences, notably Quebec and Yalta.

Sydney Strike Called Over Traffic to Races

SYDNEY, Australia, March 23 [Reuters].—Sydney trolley and bus employes decided not to work from midnight tonight until Sunday morning. Newcastle employes are taking similar action. The action was taken in order to enforce the suspension of racing at suburban locations because the men said there was insufficient man power to cope with the heavy sporting traffic.

$28,000 IN GEMS TAKEN IN STORE AS CROWDS PASS

Jewelry valued at more than $28,000 was stolen from the Marshall Field and company store yesterday while employes and hundreds of shoppers were within view.

The loot consisted of a platinum diamond bracelet valued at $9,167.67, and an emerald cut diamond ring, worth $19,166.67, which were being displayed on consignment from Harry Winston, a New York dealer.

The thief broke into a showcase in the jewelry department on the first floor of the Washington st. and Wabash av. section of the store. Apparently he cut the padlock.

Employes saw the jewelry in the case at 2 p. m. At 4:45 p. m. the two pieces were gone. The thief also carried off the padlock. Detective bureau and Central station police investigated.

REPORT FLYNN PAVES PRELATE'S WAY TO KREMLIN

Arranges Moscow Visit for Archbishop.

Sightseeing in Rome

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

ROME, March 23.—His visit to Gen. Clark at the 15th army group headquarters postponed at least 24 hours, Edward J. Flynn will spend tomorrow much as he did today, sightseeing. He lunched today at the American embassy and enthusiastically discussed the New York subway system with a group of G. I.s.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 23.—It can now be told on unimpeachable authority that Edward J. [Paving Blocks] Flynn, political boss of New York's Bronx, went to Moscow to pave the way for a visit by Archbishop Spellman of New York to Marshal Stalin with a view to bring about establishment of diplomatic relations between the Vatican and the Soviet government.

This delicate mission, which Flynn projected for himself, had the imprimatur of Archbishop Spellman and the blessing of President Roosevelt. The former chairman of the Democratic national committee, who pumped industriously for the third and fourth terms, has long cherished diplomatic ambitions.

After the third term campaign he sought to crown his political career with a roving diplomatic appointment. On Jan. 9, 1943, he announced at a press conference in New York he had been appointed the President's ambassador and personal representative to Australia and the Southwest Pacific.

Under Fire in Capital.

It was felt that the appointment was made in an effort to upset Presidential ambitions which the White House thought Gen. MacArthur was entertaining.

Flynn's appointment which was belatedly acknowledged by the White House, drew heavy critical fire in the senate. He was assailed as unfit because of the use of New York city paving blocks to pave a courtyard in his country estate and his appointment of the late gangster Dutch Schultz as a deputy sheriff when Flynn was sheriff of Bronx county.

On Feb. 1, 1943 when it was evident that he could not win confirmation, Flynn asked the President to withdraw his name, an action without precedent in American diplomatic history. Flynn continued to nurse his thwarted diplomatic ambitions, however, and told intimates immediately after the fourth term convention that he hoped to be the President's personal ambassador to the Vatican, an unofficial post to which he could be named by Mr. Roosevelt without having to run the gantlet of senate approval.

He Approaches Spellman.

When the President failed to act, according to high authority, Flynn conceived the idea of attempting a diplomatic understanding between Rome and Moscow. He broached the plan to Archbishop Spellman, who has demonstrated a willingness to undertake the delicate mission. The archbishop has made several war time visits to Italy and Spain.

From Spellman, Flynn raced to the White House where he offered his plan to the President. Roosevelt readily entrusted the undertaking to Flynn and made the Bronx political leader, who was spurned as a diplomat by the people thru the senate, his personal envoy to the pope and Stalin.

To give the diplomatically discredited Flynn some stature as an envoy the President took him along to the Yalta conference. Flynn's presence at Yalta, according to Americans who were there, mystified the Russians as much as it did the American people.

American quipsters had it that Flynn was going to Moscow to inspect the paving blocks of the Kremlin which are known as the oldest and most durable in the world. It was said that Stalin had ordered them taken up each night during Flynn's visit.

APPEALS TO F.D.R. TO RIGHT YALTA PACT ON POLAND

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 23.—A strong supporter of the administration's foreign policy took the floor of the house today to appeal to President Roosevelt for reconsideration at the San Francisco peace conference of the dismemberment of Poland.

Rep. Wasielewski.

Rep. Wasielewski [D., Wis.] protested the "shame and disappointment" of that portion of the Yalta pact dealing with Poland.

"We may still regain our self-respect and honor in the eyes of the nations of the world if the wrong is righted at San Francisco," he declared. "There are some who fear that a move for reconsideration of the Polish problem may break up the conference.

"If our understandings and councils with the united nations are based on such frail foundations that this matter cannot be reopened, then our hopes for a world peace organization are vain. It is far better that this error be righted now than that the senate should reject the Yalta pact in its present form.

"The little nations of the world are watching intently our actions in regard to Poland for they know that the treatment of Poland will lay the pattern for the treatment they may expect at the hands of the Big Three."

Wasielewski assailed the exclusion of Poland from representation at the San Francisco conference, noting that the three small Baltic nations of Lithuania, Latvia, and Estonia were also among the uninvited.

"These four states are charter members of the united nations," he remarked. "They all participated in indorsing the Atlantic Charter. Why, then, should they be deprived of the right to participate in this important conference? Is this another case of our effort to appease Russia?

"Russia's activities in the areas she has retaken from the Nazi Germans do not inspire confidence. She is destroying the middle classes in Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Yugoslavia, and Czechoslovakia by either executing them outright or condemning them to certain death in Siberia.

"All the business men, professionals, trades peoples, and clergy are being liquidated in order to eliminate opposition to Communists. Thousands of helpless, innocent people are condemned to die for the sin of not being Communists."

Russian Officers Visit Chicago

Maj. Paul P. Chernakov, commander of a group of 11 Russian naval officers visiting Chicago, yesterday scouted the possibility of war between Russia and Turkey as the result of soviet termination of a 20 year nonaggression pact with the Turks.

Abrogation of the 1925 treaty, reaffirmed March 25, 1941, between the two countries was announced simultaneously Wednesday night by the Kremlin in Moscow and the Russian embassy at Washington, D. C.

Chernakov, whose rank corresponds with that of a lieutenant commander in the United States navy, said he believed ending of the pact by Foreign Commissar Molotov did not in any way presage the outbreak of hostilities between the two nations, both of which have been equipped with lend-lease fighting supplies by the United States.

While in Chicago, Chernakov and his party were guests of W. J. O'Neil, local sales manager for the Iron Fireman Manufacturing company, which is making some of the riveting machines the Russians will use in underwater operations to salvage ships sunk by the Nazis.

REPORT RUSSIA 'HOPES' TO MEET POLES AT FRISCO

LONDON, March 23 (AP).—Apparently authentic reports emanating from diplomatic sources here said today that Russia had expressed to the British foreign office the hope that Poland would be represented at the world security conference on April 25 in San Francisco, Cal. The foreign office declined to comment.

Both Britain and the United States have been trying to solve the Polish problem in time for that nation to be represented at the conference. The view was expressed here that Russian comment on these efforts would be logical.

There were several interpretations, however, of the reported Moscow note. Such a note could mean an effort to have the Russian sponsored Lublin Polish government represented at San Francisco, or it could mean polite regret that Poland would not be represented.

Belgian Delegation Ready.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 23 (AP).—Paul Henri Spaak, foreign minister, will head the Belgian delegation to the San Francisco conference, it was announced today.

Other members of the delegation will be Frans van Cauwelaert, minister of state; Victor de Laveleye, former minister of education; Charles de Visscher, former minister; Henri Rolin, senator; Fernand Vanelangenhove, secretary general of the department of foreign affairs, and Walter Loridan, first secretary to Spaak's cabinet.

Australian View Told.

CANBERRA, Australia, March 23 (AP).—Prime Minister Curtin told the house of representatives today cooperation with Britain was essential and that American coöperation was of paramount importance for the preservation and security of Australia and New Zealand.

His speech obviously was designed to present the Australian viewpoint to be placed before the British empire conference in London which will precede the world security meeting at San Francisco.

HERE'S WHY AUTOMOBILE MEN ARE

"Watching the News from GRAHAM-PAIGE"

Automobile men have learned that they can expect great things from the new organization at Graham-Paige. Strengthened by the experienced leadership of board chairman Joseph W. Frazer, this organization has been proved in the crucible of war production. Read Mr. Frazer's revealing statement about the job Graham-Paige will do when its war work is finished.

by Joseph W. Frazer

Automobile men are sure of one thing. They know that Graham-Paige will be a definite factor in the automobile world of tomorrow. Here's why they feel so certain.

They know the kind of job Graham-Paige is doing in this war. How we have been entrusted with ever-increasing responsibilities by both the Army and the Navy, until today we are among the nation's leading producers of "Alligator" amphibious tanks, landing craft, and connecting rods for super-bombers.

They realize that making high-precision parts for bomber engines sharpens our skills for the production of automobiles; that our manufacturing know-how in tanks and landing craft can be applied directly to building farm tractors and equipment.

These automobile authorities also know the men we have gathered here on our working staff; men who have been identified with the great successes of the automotive industry. They know these men have not joined us "just for the duration," and they know something of the post-war plans these men will help us carry out.

1. We are going to build an automobile that is new from the ground up. It will be exciting, beautiful, different, yet not bizarre; it will be roomy enough for six passengers, yet smartly sleek and compact. Powered by a new and revolutionary six-cylinder engine, this automobile will be a triumph of engineering, styling, and design.
2. We will produce a line of modern agricultural equipment, including a general-purpose tractor with several exclusive advantages; also other practical and unusual farm implements, with patented features that will save time, labor, and operating costs.
3. We will manufacture and sell the Rototiller, the amazing power-tiller that does the work of plow, disc and harrow, all in one operation. We will make several models, suited both for small acreage and for large farms.

Yes, automobile men know this whole story. They know the strong personnel, leadership and backing that are teamed up here. They know these factors assure us a prominent place in America's post-war picture. That's why they are watching the news from Graham-Paige!

125TH STRIKE BEGUN AT B-29 ENGINE PLANT

Follows Quickly After Another Is Settled.

As 38 workers in the cylinder barrel assembly department of the 125 Dodge Chicago plant of the Chrysler corporation ended a strike and returned to work yesterday, 53 other employes in another department went on strike. Yesterday's new strike was the 125th since December, 1942, at the huge war plant, where engines for B-29 Super Fortresses are made.

"Fifty-three employes in the miscellaneous gear division struck and left their war work at 1:45 p. m. today after refusing to set up work in their machines," a statement by the company said.

Ignore Contract Provision.

"It has been the practice in this department for these men to set up their jobs when they have time. They had plenty of time today, but refused to do their work and left the plant without in any way attempting to follow the bargaining procedure of their union contract."

The strikers are members of the United Automobile, Aircraft, and Agricultural Implement Workers' union [CIO].

A supervisor was put in charge of the local union this week by the international CIO union. Henry Tough, president of the local, and 16 other local officers were ousted because of an election dispute, but allegations have been made that the removal was caused by the frequency of strikes.

"If we were removed as officers because of the strikes, the international's supervision hasn't stopped the strikes," Tough said yesterday. "There has been a strike at the plant every day since the international took over Tuesday."

WMC Conducts Secret Inquiry.

John Nuveen Jr., regional director of the WPB, said yesterday the WPBs investigation was being held in abeyance until the war man power commission had completed its survey.

William H. Spencer, region head of WMC, disclosed that 8 to 10 investigators had been in the plant for several weeks making an intensive investigation of the work stoppages.

"The investigation which we are conducting is the most intensive ever made," Spencer said. "'Resolves' of the investigators, who are working secretly thruout the plant, will be by divisions, by departments, and even by segments of departments. The investigators will report in a few weeks."

At the Pettibone-Mulliken corporation, 4710 Division st., where 1,500 employes walked out Thursday, only a skeleton crew of foundrymen worked yesterday. The company attributed the strike to a misleading telegram sent from Washington, D. C., by a clerk of the national war labor board.

Asks Decision Be Clarified.

The company is engaged in the production of 155 millimeter and 8 inch howitzer gun carriages.

Leon J. Garrie, industrial relations director of the company, announced that he had telephoned the national WLB a request that individual telegrams be sent to each of the three unions involved in a contract dispute with the company to clarify a single message incorporating all three WLB decisions, which caused misunderstanding among the workers and resulted in the walkout.

The foundrymen also threatened to leave the plant yesterday, but were prevailed on to stay by Garrie and Capt. George Barnes, head of the police labor detail.

If the foundrymen should leave the plant, several huge steel melting furnaces would be ruined and the company would not be able to get into full production for some time after the strikers returned to work, Garrie said.

In another war production interruption at the Kensington Steel company, 505 Kensington av., 300 employes were still out of the plant yesterday. Kenneth Jensen, vice president of the company, said that he did not consider that the men were on strike because the company itself had closed down the furnaces Thursday after the men had stood about the plant arguing over alleged grievances and refusing to work. Jensen said he believed the men would be back at work Monday.

30 DAY TRUCE BANS UAW RAID ON RIVAL IN CIO

Grant Oakes, president of the United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers' union, announced last night that an agreement had been reached before a national CIO committee in Washington, D. C., that the United Automobile, Aircraft, and Agricultural Implement Workers' union would cease its raids on the UFE membership of 30 days. Both unions are affiliated with the CIO.

The pact was made before the CIO jurisdictional committee, which is made up of John Green, president of the Shipyards Workers' union, Sherman Dalrymple, president of the Rubber Workers' union, and Frank Rosenbloom of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers.

Both CIO unions agreed not to distribute literature during the next 30 days and the UAW agreed to withdraw its petition for a national labor relations board election at the Caterpillar plant at Peoria, where the UFE has the bargaining rights, Oakes said. The UAW has been raiding the UFE membership in the tractor works and the McCormick works of International Harvester company.

Both unions, Oakes said, have agreed to abide by a decision of the committee, which will be appealable only to the CIO convention.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. Ralph Francis, 1409 E. Court st., Kankakee.]

THE QUESTION.

In what unusual way have you broken your glasses?

WHERE ASKED.

Optical company in Marshall Field Annex building.

THE ANSWERS.

Edward Martins, surface grinder, 2436 N. Tripp av.—This was my first pair of glasses and I wasn't too particular about their care. I took them and stuffed them in my back pocket—which, of course, was a foolish thing to do. I realize now that sitting on glasses is neither comfortable nor practical, but expensive.

M. B. Fitch, optometrist, 138 Northwest highway, Park Ridge—I was driving down the street one afternoon when a big black and yellow bee flew into the car. Not caring to have this fellow as a free passenger, I immediately started swatting at him. I missed the bee and hit my glasses. They fell to the floor and broke.

Mrs. William A. Zimmermann, housewife, 2212 Thornwood av., Wilmette—Too many times I've left my glasses on the floor and some one stepped on them. I've stepped on them myself. I often sit on the floor, take my glasses off and lay them beside me. I'm so tired of breaking glasses that I seldom wear them.

Albert Karno, surface room foreman, 1351 S. Keeler av.—While I was boarding a street car a man getting off stuck his elbow in my eye and knocked my glasses to the pavement. That wasn't bad enough—he had to go and step on them. It all happened so fast! I didn't even bother to pick up the pieces.

Lt. Annette Van Gorder, army nurse, 30 N. Elizabeth st., Lombard—The only time I have broken my glasses was when I was 10 years old. I left them on the window sill one night. In the morning dad banged the window down on them. I couldn't see without them and my brother had to lead me around until I got them fixed.

AFL PRESIDENT CALLS MEETING ON TOBIN RAIDS

Alfred Kamin, attorney for the American Federation of Grain Processors, and Sam P. Ming and William Younker, president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the organization, have been ordered to meet with William Green, AFL president in Washington, D. C., Tuesday, to discuss the raids being conducted by the AFL teamsters on the AFGP Chicago membership, it was learned yesterday.

Also ordered to appear, Kamin said, are international officers of the teamsters' union, including Thomas Flynn, executive assistant to Daniel Tobin, president of the IBT union.

Hearing on an injunction against the teamsters to prevent them from interfering with the AFGP uhion at the Arcady Farms Milling company in Riverdale was continued in federal court yesterday until March 30. A temporary restraining order granted by the court against the teamsters was continued until then.

DROP DRAFT PLAN IN JOB CONTROL BILL: JOHNSON

BY PHILIP DODD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 23 — Elimination of labor draft provisions from the compromise job control bill before the house-senate man power conference committee was proposed today by Sen. Johnson [D., Colo.]. Johnson's plan would retain heavy penalties on workers and employers who violate government man power edicts.

Johnson's proposal was made in an attempt to end a week long deadlock in the conference committee during which senate conferees have opposed any semblance of a labor draft. House conferees have been equally adamant in proposing penalties for individual workers who may be deemed by government agencies as failing to do their part in the war.

Retains Jail Penalty.

The compromise bill was offered to the conference this week by Sen. Austin [R., Vt.]. Described by some conferees as "containing all the bad provisions of the house and senate bills," the bill proposed a labor draft of men 18 to 44, government-imposed labor ceilings on essential and nonessential businesses, and a freeze of employment in essential industry.

The penalty on individuals retained in Johnson's plan would be a maximum of $10,000 fine and one year in jail, or both, for any person leaving an essential job without war man power commission approval or taking a job in excess of a government-imposed labor ceiling.

Put Under Byrnes.

Johnson's proposal would retain amendments proposed yesterday by Rep. May [D., Ky.], house military committee chairman, placing the entire administration of the bill in the hands of War Mobilizer Byrnes, who could delegate parts of the program to other agencies.

May's proposal was made to overcome house objections to giving authority for placing employment ceilings and making other regulations in the hands of War Man Power Chairman McNutt. The senate's man power bill would give authority to McNutt's acts, a proposal the house will not stomach, members of that body have said.

Members of the conference committee emerging from the committee room in which today's closed session was held told reporters the committee was a "hung jury," but Sen. Thomas [D., Utah], conference chairman, said at a press conference that "progress was being made."

"Unsolvable Problem."

Thomas admitted, however, that he was at a loss to see how some of the penalties in the most recent [Johnson's] compromise bill could be imposed. He was asked how a war worker could determine whether he was employed in excess of a ceiling, and thus liable to fine and imprisonment.

"It's an unsolvable problem, you'll have to figure that one out," Thomas said wearily as he ended the press conference.

The conferees will meet again tomorrow, Thomas having called an unusual Saturday afternoon meeting. To date, no votes have been taken on any of the several proposals made in the conference committee, but Thomas said he hoped some definite action would be taken tomorrow.

The decision of the house today to start an Easter recess next Wednesday may leave the man power issue up in the air until late in April, unless the conference committee reaches an agreement which can be submitted to both houses of congress within the next few days.

Judge Sabath to Observe 75th Birthday Tomorrow

Judge Joseph Sabath of Superior court will celebrate his 75th birthday tomorrow with a two hour horseback ride in Jackson park, he said yesterday. In the evening the judge and his wife, Regina, who have been married 56 years, will give a dinner for 30 members of their family in the Shoreland hotel, 5454 South Shore dr. Judge Sabath was appointed to the Municipal court in 1910 and to the Superior court in 1916. He has been assigned to divorce cases for 21 years.

F.D.R. Without Peer as Friend of Britain, Parliament Is Told

LONDON, March 23 [Reuters]—A letter from President Roosevelt, promising "careful and sympathetic" consideration to any order for prefabricated houses that Britain might place in the United States has been received by Maj. Albert Braithwaite, a Conservative member of Parliament.

Speaking in the house of commons today, Maj. Braithwaite referred to "appalling" housing conditions in London's much bombed east end, and said he had "taken the liberty" of writing to Mr. Roosevelt, setting out his experiences in the rehabilitation of houses.

"This Great Man."

He asked the President if he was aware of the situation and whether it was possible to send some prefabricated houses to Britain to help.

"President Roosevelt—this great man is a friend such as Britain has never known—replied on Nov. 16," Braithwaite said. The President's letter said:

"My dear Maj. Braithwaite: I have received your letter of Oct. 10, 1944, concerning the housing problem in Great Britain, and I assure you I am well aware of the seriousness of the problem.

"Our production of fabricated housing units is, I am afraid, much smaller than you have been advised and the great majority are being used for the armies of the united nations.

"Sympathetic Consideration."

"Production of those not suitable for the use of troops is small, but I am confident that our supply authorities will be glad to give the most careful and sympathetic consideration to any orders which your government may wish to place. You are doubtless aware of the tremendous admiration the people of this country have for the civilian population of Great Britain, who have for so long borne the privations of front line existence."

Braithwaite's wife is American—Augusta, Ga.—and he has one son in the American army air force and another son in the British royal air force. They are Capt. Alan Braithwaite of the army air forces and Wing Comdr. Denys Braithwaite of the R. A. F.

Braithwaite recalled that he had "met the President just after the last war" and that the two "have kept in touch over the years."

Braithwaite warned commons "there will be something like a minor revolution" if demobilized British troops find no houses for themselves and their families.

REDS BAR YANK; RUSSIAN HEADS UNRRA IN POLAND

Lehman to Deal with Warsaw Regime.

Washington, D. C., March 23 (AP).—Balked in an attempt to get a Russia visa for an American representative, the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration today named a Russian to head an UNRRA mission to Poland.

John P. Gregg, originally chosen head of the mission to negotiate a relief agreement with Poland, resigned after several months of futile attempts to get a Russian transit visa.

It was announced that Michail Menshikov, who is an UNRRA deputy director general, would head the mission. An UNRRA statement said the Polish provisional government in Warsaw is the only Polish authority with which UNRRA will deal.

New Triumph for Warsaw.

This placed another trump in the hands of this provisional government, which has relations with Moscow while the United States and Britain recognize the rival regime in London. It is in line with the administrative authority in control of any area.

The Yalta agreement calls for the reconstitution of the Warsaw government to include other elements but so far this has not been accomplished.

The UNRRA statement about dealing only with the Warsaw regime caused immediate consternation among Poles here. It was learned Ambassador Jan Ciechanowski, representing the London Polish government, intends to take the matter up with the state department. The Polish government in London has been a member of UNRRA since the start.

Quick Action Expected.

It is expected Menshikov's appointment will bring quick clearance for the mission which has been assembled for months but unable to leave Russia because of the lack of travel permits.

Menshikov is being sent as a personal representative of Herbert H. Lehman, UNRRA director general, and his mission was said to be "temporary."

Presumably, once arrangements have been completed, a new mission will be sent to supervise distribution of supplies.

Lehman sent a message to Edward Osubka-Morawski, prime minister of the Warsaw provisional government which said: "I wish to assure you of UNRRA's deep desire to be of every possible aid to your gallant people."

GENERAL URGES A SPEED-UP OF WAR EQUIPMENT

A plea for more equipment to bring an earlier end to the war was made yesterday by Maj. Gen. Russell L. Maxwell, assistant chief of the supply division of the war department. He addressed 350 members of the Executives Club of Chicago in the Hotel Sherman on the subject, "Supply for Combat."

"The more equipment we get the earlier will come the end to this war," said the general. "If you speed up production you'll hasten the day when this war will be over."

The speaker linked his plea with a warning that future preparedness which the enemy hoped to crush and continued American mobilization will be the only guarantees against a future total war.

"A Pearl Harbor of a World War III," he asserted, "could well be our center of industry, crippled by a swift holocaust written in terms of block busters and rockets compared with which current explosives would seem but an humble apology.

"Future wars will be spared us just as long as any possible enemy knows that American mobilization for total war will not be forced to spar for that time which, of course, was the very period of time in which the enemy hoped to crush us initially in the early years of World War II."

CHICKEN PRICES INCREASED TO RAISE OUTPUT

U. S. Seeks More Fowl to Replace Meat.

Washington, D. C., March 23 (AP).—Chicken prices for young birds were boosted a cent and a half a pound at retail today, effective July 1, to encourage production and partially offset the decline in meat supplies.

The order came while western congressmen continued their attack on OPA policies, which they say are factors in the current meat shortage.

The order for a chicken price increase was the second price concession since the meat squeeze began to clamp down. The first was an additional subsidy for beef packers, which officials explained in detail today. In effect it is a graduated extra payment for slaughterers, ranging up to 50 cents a hundredweight for those who pay full ceiling prices for live cattle.

Food Probe Starts Monday.

The price situation, along with other food difficulties, will come out for airing Monday when a senate agriculture subcommittee begins its investigation of food shortages.

The chicken price increase, approved by William H. Davis, director of economic stabilization, was announced specifically as a measure "to encourage farmers to produce more young chickens during the summer and thus make up for a shortage of other meats during that period."

For producers the increase will average about 1¼ cents on broilers, fryers, and roasters. It will range from a half a cent to 1.6 cents in various areas.

Production Estimate Lower.

The war food administration, which had advised Davis more chicken was needed, estimated this year's civilian supplies at about 20 pounds a person, compared with about 24 pounds last year.

Urging an early start on extra broods of chickens, WFA said the civilian shortage in other meats "will be felt mostly between the present time and late summer."

Rep. Miller [R., Neb.] led off congressional comment on the food situation today with a demand on the floor that Price Administrator Bowles resign.

"His attempt to regulate prices has failed," Miller said. "He's an advertising man who knows nothing about production and he has not taken advice."

Rep. Slaughter [D., Mo.], however, asserted that Bowles has done an "outstanding job" and that if OPA "had not been well administered, as it has been, your dollars would be worth precious little now."

To Probe Black Market.

Chairman Thomas [D., Okla.] of the senate investigating group said its inquiry is "bound to lead into an investigation of the black market situation."

Sen. Bushfield [R., S. D.], a member of the subcommittee, told reporters "the meat shortage comes from maldistribution which is primarily caused by asining orders regulating the price."

The beef subsidy changes, effective April 1, were explained by Economic Stabilizer Davis as designed to bring better distribution.

March 23, 1945.

★The GARDEN★

LATE March is an excellent time to fertilize and reseed established lawns. If chemical fertilizer is to be used, it should be applied at the rate of four pounds to 100 square feet, after which the grass should be sprinkled thoroly to carry the plant food down to the roots. There is danger of "burning" the grass leaves if the fertilizer is not evenly distributed. For this reason, many gardeners mix the chemical with an equal amount of fine sand before broadcasting.

It is advisable to let two or three days elapse between fertilizing and reseeding, giving the fertilizer time to be partially dissolved. Gardeners also should plant grass seed suitable for soil and shade conditions to be met. Most seed stores carry blue grass mixtures and Astoria bent for lawns in full sunlight, bluegrass with heavy additions of fescue seed for shady areas.

The seeding rate is four pounds to 1,000 square feet for new lawns, about half that amount for reseeding turf that is fairly well established.

IT'S March by the calendar, but a person judging the season solely by farm sights this week would guess April to be well on its way.

The spell of warm weather has brought bluebirds to their perches in the farm orchards; 55 spring pigs and their six mothers are racing thru a lush rye pasture; jittery killdeers have been darting cautiously around the farm plowmen to feed in newly turned soil; elm and maple trees are showing enlarged brown buds; spring peepers, dwarf members of the frog clan, chorus from the farm marshes and roadside ditches; one of the purebred Aberdeen-Angus cows is strutting around the big barn on the Fox River farm with the first black calf of the spring season; hollyhock leaves have pushed up thru the soil alongside one of the farm buildings, and flocks of redwinged blackbirds flash their scarlet epaulets en route from the Big pond to Round pond.

Shift Pigs After Tragedy.

The men on the Fox River farm, after a steady schedule of morning to night plowing, took a day off early this week to transfer the spring pigs from the hog house to outdoor quarters. Fifty-six pigs have been farrowed by six Hampshire sows, with only one loss. One of the youngsters died after being stepped upon by its mother, so, with balmy weather the rule, the men decided to move all six families to a nearby three acre rye field, where there would be less chance of similar accidents.

This mass movement involved the transfer of several portable hog houses into the rye field, delivery of clean straw for the floors, and movement of a three compartment self-feeder into the field. One of the feeder compartments was stocked with ground oats; a second section contains ground oats mixed with pig and sow meal into a liquid mash; the third section is filled with a hog feed composed mainly of dehydrated meat scraps.

Bull Gets Outdoor Urge.

A 2½ year old Angus bull housed in the Fox River cattle barn showed the other day that he, like thousands of city office workers, also has the annual spring urge for a little outdoor hiking.

The farm manager was chatting with a visitor in the barnlot when he heard hammering noises from the direction of the cattle barn. Investigation showed that the bull, tired of indoor life, had been butting against the door of his stall and already had broken a stanch board. A little more of this exercise would have given the bull a pass to the great outdoors.

Tax Agents Told Profits of Liquor Black Market

In an effort to ferret out income tax evaders, E. C. Yellowley, district supervisor of the alcohol tax unit, said yesterday he had submitted to income tax agents full information uncovered by his investigators of excessive profits derived in black market liquor transactions. Yellowley said records of the dealings of a number of firms indicted by the government for black market operations had been turned over to income tax agents for study.

JEERS GREET OPA IN SECOND RAID ON MEAT TRUCKS

Agents Uncover Few Violations.

Jeers greeted 30 office of price administration investigators yesterday when they made their second swoop in three days on the wholesale meat trade in an effort to catch up with the growing black market in rapidly shrinking supplies.

The raids were made on 30 trucks as they were pulling away from Fulton Market wholesalers, but the results were far short of those obtained Tuesday when the agents uncovered thousands of pounds of choice meats apparently headed for the black market both in Chicago and New York, Edward Jordan, chief investigator for the area meat division, said.

Few Violations Found.

Of 30 truckloads of meat inspected, Jordan reported to Marion W. Isbell, area director, only a few violations were discovered. Most involved short weighting, minor overcharges, and upgrading, an evasion of regulations under which cuts are given higher grading to command over ceiling prices.

Two hundred spectators lined up at an outdoor scale on Wayman st. near Halsted st., where the OPA agents brought the suspected truckers and their loads of meat after serving them with "inspection requirements," an OPA version of a subpena, authorized under the second war powers act.

The crowd's disapproval was confined to jeering. All but two of the truck drivers agreed to take their loads to the scale without even having the inspection requirements read to them. The others gave in after listening to a few paragraphs.

No Arrests Are Made.

No arrests were made, but Homer Clay, chief enforcement attorney, said damage and injunction suits probably will be filed against violators.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, city health commissioner, reported that health inspectors found 2,100 pounds of pork cuts without government or city health inspection stamps, in the plant of the Northwestern Packing company at 1001 Milwaukee av. The meat was ordered condemned. Investigators were seeking the origin of the meat.

Clay took another meat case to court when he asked Judge William J. Campbell in federal District court to cite Orest Deligiannis, owner of the Chicago Packing House, 1343 Hubbard st., for contempt of court. The OPA charged Deligiannis violated a permanent injunction issued in July 23, 1943, requiring him to comply with all OPA regulations.

Clay said recent violations included over ceiling sales, failure to have lambs graded, and not keeping proper records. Campbell set April 4 for a hearing date and named Clay and Harold Levy, another OPA attorney, as special prosecutors.

Tuohy Gets Employes' Gifts on His Birthday

OPA SUSPENDS 4 GAS DEALERS.

The OPA yesterday suspended three filling station operators from business for the duration of rationing, all accused of using counterfeit coupons to get supplies. Those suspended were named as Henry Knies, 10058 Western av.; Emil Vondra, 908 Washington blvd., Maywood, and Esther Bobbin, 3612 N. Western av. Andrew Hanyzewsky, 5301 Open av., was suspended for 14 days on a similar charge.

CAFES VIOLATING WLB PAY LID— BY OWM ORDER!

Chicago cafe owners and operators, caught between the rulings of two New Deal agencies, will seek a hearing next week to clear up a situation in which they are subject to penalty under war labor board rulings for paying increased hourly wages to employes who cease work at midnight under the office of war mobilization's curfew, but receive a full day's pay.

The situation means that operators are forced into technical violation of a government order to "hold the line" on wage increases by order of another government department, Milton Raynor, of Raynor and Rosenberg, counsel for the Cafe Owners' association, said.

Raynor, in pointing out that the cafe operators themselves wish to remove the technical violation under which they are operating, gave an instance as follows: An employe who is paid $10 for eight hours work from 6 p. m. until 2 a. m. under union contract, now works only six hours for the same salary, which, in effect, is a 25 per cent pay increase.

Representatives of union waitresses, bartenders, entertainers, musicians, and other employes will be asked to attend a meeting with the war labor board, Raynor said.

Members of the Illinois delegation in congress have been asked to work with the small business men's committee of the house of representatives, Raynor said, in attempting to make the curfew hour 1 p. m. instead of midnight on the ground that small businesses are being unjustly forced out of business. The congressional delegation also will appeal to War Mobilization Director Byrnes' public advisory committee, Raynor said.

John Comise, president of the Cafe Owners' association, conferred during the day with Judge Francis Borrelli, for whom he was formerly personal bailiff, in chambers in S. State St. court.

SEEK TO CUT OFF FILMS FOR MOVIE DEFYING CURFEW

WMC Asks Producers' Aid in Toledo Test.

Toledo, O., March 23 [Special].—In the first crackdown with threatened sanctions, the war man power commission moved today to try to shut off the supply of film to the Toledo movie operator who has ignored the curfew with a midnight show for late shift war workers.

The government action came as hundreds of war workers rallied to the support of the theater owner, Jack O'Connell, and petitioned him to continue to keep his Loop show open to prevent absenteeism, which they warned would increase if they were compelled to lay off work to obtain relaxation.

John L. Craig, state WMC director at Columbus, telegraphed the presidents and Ohio representatives of eight major film companies asking them to join in the campaign to bring pressure on O'Connell.

Asks Report on Action.

"May we request," the telegrams read in part, "that under your contract to the Loop theater you insist films furnished by you not be shown after midnight. A report of action you take to effect this will be appreciated."

O'Connell immediately announced he would expect the companies to furnish him film as usual. He said his contracts with the companies do not contain any provision that the films must be shown during certain hours of the day or night and that he did not expect any revision of this arrangement.

This view was taken also by Joseph Krenitz, branch manager of Universal Pictures, Inc., who said in Cleveland that his company has a contract with O'Connell's theater and that as long as it is in effect the company would deliver films as usual to him.

Receives Appeals.

The petition asking the theater owner to stand fast in his curfew challenge was signed by more than 100 employes of the Textileather corporation, a war plant, and presented to O'Connell by a representative.

O'Connell also received a telegram signed "Swing Shift Workers" which read: "We are all for you. The employes from the City Auto Stamping and Willys Overland." Both of those companies are producing war material.

An attempt to harass the theater audience was seen in the activity of army military policemen who appeared at the theater after midnight this morning. Two M. P.'s tried to induce Mrs. O'Connell, wife of the theater owner, to turn on the house lights in the midst of the showing of a movie so they could look more easily for any soldiers who might be in the theater.

Find One Soldier.

When she refused, the policemen went thru the audience in the dark, found a lone soldier and escorted him out. The soldier was a 37 year old corporal home on a furlough after serving two and a half years in the Alaska theater. With him at the show were his sister and a niece. They had been in the movie, a double feature, only half an hour.

"That's pretty good," the soldier remarked sarcastically. "I came 4,000 miles to see a show, my first one back in the United States, and they throw me out. I don't think much of it."

A moment later another soldier appeared at the ticket window and asked for an admission ticket. The cashier informed him of the army's enforcement of the curfew. As she reluctantly declined his request, she gazed sympathetically at the six service stripes on his sleeve and the array on his chest that included the combat infantry award, good conduct medal, and European theater of operations ribbon with three battle stars.

"I've been overseas three and one-half years," the soldier expostulated. "I come back and get pushed around. I was pushed out of a beer spot because it was after midnight and when I just try to go to a show I get the same treatment.

"What are we fighting for if a fellow can't go to a movie at midnight? I might as well be back over there dodging bullets. I'd have more freedom."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 23.—Clerk Fred W. Ruegg will have to call the house roll when a bill introduced this week to give pensions to legislators comes up for passage, but it looked today as tho it will be a waste of time. To pass the house a bill must have 77 votes. This one has 79 co-sponsors, which means at least two votes to spare on the roll call.

More bills with long lists of sponsors were introduced this week than ever before in the history of the assembly, said veteran attorneys in the legislative reference bureau.

A variety of motives was assigned for the multi-sponsorship.

Since a bad reaction was expected from the public to the plan for an annuity system for legislators who have served at least 12 years in Springfield, the 79 sponsors of that bill divided whatever odium might be attached to it.

Some legislators, wanting help in committees, ask colleagues to act as co-sponsors. Others hear that a popular measure is being introduced and ask to share in the glory of having their names on it.

The biggest rush is to sponsor legislation for World War II. veterans.

CHARGE NOL-PROSSED.

A charge of assault with intent to kill against Morris Russo Pesco, 72, of 1234 Adams st., a dishwasher, who shot and wounded Paul Kare, 46, owner of a coffee company at 809 Jackson blvd. last December, was nol-prossed by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in Felony court yesterday after he was informed that Pesco was committably insane.

BAN FEE COURTS, TRAFFIC PARLEY URGES ILLINOIS

Seeks Revised Justice of Peace System.

An overhauling of the justice of the peace system in Illinois was urged yesterday by speakers at the Cook county traffic conference in city hall council chambers. Several hundred judges, justices of the peace, deputy sheriffs, police officers, and other public officials attended.

The conference adopted a resolution calling for the abolishment of the fee system for collecting salaries of justices after listening to Associate Justice Laurence M. Hyde of the Missouri State Supreme court and Justice of the Peace Ralph Fjellman of Skokie.

Fjellman, who was appointed to the resolutions committee, said that Illinois could add to the respect for and dignity of its courts by placing justices of the peace on an annual salary basis instead of making their reimbursements dependent on fines and costs.

Justice Hyde said Missouri's new constitution abolishes justice of the peace courts, substituting trial magistrates who are on a salary, not fee, basis. In counties of less than 30,000 population, he said, the trial magistrate's duties are taken over by county judges, while in larger counties the number of such magistrates is proportioned according to population.

"Drunkometer" Demonstrated.

Further development in legal use of chemical and other scientific tests to determine the intoxication of persons charged with drunken driving was favored in another resolution, adopted after a demonstration of the Evanston police department's drunkometer.

The drunkometer is intended to measure the quantity of alcohol consumed by an individual. It makes use of rubber balloons which the subject inflates, and a series of chemical and filtration tests that are balanced against other factors.

The apparatus was demonstrated by Chief Justice Harry H. Porter of the Evanston Municipal court and Police Sgt. Frank Andrews of Evanston, with the aid of a volunteer who consumed a pint of whisky after being assured that his identity would be concealed.

Seek to Cut Auto Toll.

The conferees adopted 16 resolutions, seeking uniformity in the administration of traffic laws, with the goal of reducing motor accidents. One of the resolutions requested that a permanent, nonpolitical organization be formed by Gov. Green and Mayor Kelly to coordinate all traffic enforcing agencies in the county and state.

The American Bar association's junior bar conference and other local civic organizations sponsored the meeting. Stephen E. Hurley, president of the Chicago Bar association, presided in the morning, and Sheriff Mulcahy in the afternoon.

Leading several penal discussions was James F. Economos, secretary of the junior bar conference's traffic court committee, who has conducted similar gatherings in 48 counties in 38 states.

CROWN M'LEAN COUNTY FARMER AS 'CORN KING'

The title of national corn king was conferred yesterday on Forrest Woods, a farmer of Bellflower, McLean county, for producing 182.05 bushels of corn per acre on a 10 acre tract last year. Gov. Green presented Woods with a gold medal in a ceremony at the Chicago Board of Trade. The national corn growing contest was under the supervision of the Illinois Crop Improvement association and the college of agriculture at the University of Illinois.

FLOUR SHIPMENT TO EUROPE TO BE OF SOFT WHEAT

Straight grade soft wheat flour will be sent to feed the people of liberated countries, Brig. Gen. J. E. Barzynski, commanding general of the Chicago quartermaster depot, announced yesterday. He said the central procurement agency, under the direction of Harvey J. Owens, will start purchases Monday.

The general said the people living in Europe under United States army control are used to handling soft wheat flour, rather than the hard varieties highly regarded in this country.

He said the move will provide a wider market for soft wheat millers, most of whom are located in central, eastern, and southeastern parts of the country, and will shorten shipping distances to seaboard ports. The army's current flour needs, he said, are "unparalleled" in the history of the country.

LIST OF KILLINGS BY ARKANSAN IS INCREASED TO 17

Little Rock, Ark., March 23 (AP).—Chief of Detectives O. N. Martin tonight said that James W. Hall, 24, part time taxi driver who last week confessed to six slayings, now had told officers of killing more than 17 persons.

"There is no question but what Hall has killed more than the 17 persons to whose slaying he has confessed," Martin said.

Martin said that the officers had been told of other killings, but they had not announced further confessions for "obvious reasons."

"If we can't prove Hall killed all the people he says he has," Martin said, "people would think he is just trying to get in the limelight and that he really didn't kill any of them. Hall has led us to within 10 feet of the spot of each murder we have investigated so far."

CHARGES MATE ATTACKED HER AFTER SHE SUED

Judge Gibson E. Gorman in Felony court yesterday continued until April 12 hearing on a charge of assault with intent to murder against William Berg, 45, brought by his estranged wife, Ruby.

Police said that Mrs. Berg told them that after she filed suit for divorce, Berg surprised her in the basement of her grandmother's home at 7424 Dante av. and choked her until she promised to drop the suit.

She said her husband wore rubber gloves, had stockings over his shoes to muffle his steps, and carried a rope fashioned as a noose when he attacked her.

JITTERS IN ANKARA.

The Russians have denounced their 20 year old treaty of friendship and neutrality with Turkey because it no longer corresponds, in the view of the Kremlin, to present day realities and is in need of "serious improvement." The Russians conduct diplomacy in the same way, and frequently with the same means, that they conduct war. The Turks need very little imagination to foresee that the development presages demands upon them, presumably concerning the Dardanelles.

The Russian behavior may strike our Dumbarton Oaks teacup jinglers as peculiar, for Turkey was recently compelled to jump thru one hoop held up by Messrs. Roosevelt, Stalin, and Churchill, who asserted that no nation not at war with the axis by March 1 would have a seat at the San Francisco security conference. The Turks thereupon declared war, and we are presently treated to the somewhat unusual spectacle of Russia denouncing a treaty with an ally.

The situation may lead to troubled thoughts among those who are blowing fanfares over the brave new world which, they say, will automatically materialize once the conferees get to work at San Francisco April 25. The cloud is no bigger than Stalin's hand at the moment, but much can happen in a month, and it would not be altogether inappropriate for Stalin's Asiatic sense of humor to bring the conclave on peace into session with a demonstration of force in the neighborhood of the Dardanelles. After all, Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill have conceded Mr. Stalin the argument that second class nations possess only the rights first class powers see fit to accord them.

A more interesting vista, however, has been opened by Russia's denunciation of the treaty with Turkey. Be it noted that Stalin could have deferred his action for another six weeks, for the treaty provided that it would continue automatically unless denounced six months before the Nov. 7 date of expiration. Six months places the deadline at May 7, by which time the San Francisco conference might be winding up its work. The delegates would have been able to work in a somewhat more harmonious atmosphere if Stalin had waited, but he didn't.

This naturally suggests curiosity as to what Stalin proposes to do when the Russo-Japanese treaty on nonaggression and neutrality comes up April 13. This treaty runs for five years, and is automatically renewed for another five unless denounced by either party one year before the date of expiration. The deadline, as noted, is now a little more than three weeks away. If Stalin has been so willing to denounce a treaty with an ally in war, what will he do about a treaty with a nation which is at war with his allies? Will he accommodate his great and good friends, Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill? The only answer possible is that so far he hasn't.

He has shown none of the headlong disposition to break with the Japs that he showed, even ahead of schedule, in his dealings with the Turks. Indeed, he has displayed a consistent tendency to regard the war in the Pacific as none of his business. If he is going to lend a hand, he'll have to make up his mind in a hurry.

Maybe he has concluded that there are softer pickings down Turkey's way, and that they can be had without a struggle. Or maybe he figures that when we dispose of the Japs he can move in and pick up some of the pieces without expending any effort. As hinted, Russian diplomacy has less to do with stiff but polite notes than with employing a ball bat over the head. Those with the wit to be warned need suffer no surprise at anything that happens.

LIBEL BY RADIO.

The bill introduced in the legislature to amend the criminal code and make defamation of character by radio a libelous action merits passage. The overwhelming majority of radio speakers, their sponsors, and stations, have a sufficient sense of responsibility, but a minority of loose tongued scandal mongers and propagandists have abused their privileges. The bill would compel such persons to display a rectitude hitherto foreign to them.

The present slander act has been ineffective because it provides only a maximum fine of $100 and no penalty of imprisonment. The penalties proposed for libel by radio are one year in jail and fines up to $500. These are deterrents which will cause professional character assassins to watch their step in throwing around unsubstantiated and malicious gossip or outright falsehood.

The legislation would require the radio industry to assume no obligations which are not already conceded to govern publications. Radio now reaches a much larger audience than it did during its comparatively recent formative stage, so that the authors of the bill are not making an unreasonable interpretation when they define the broadcasting of the spoken word as "publication" in the same sense that the printed matter of a newspaper constitutes publication.

The proposed legislation has the additional merit of establishing the principle that radio should be governed by law, rather than by the fiat of some regulatory agency. Those who operate radio facilities are entitled to know that what they can do or cannot do is the subject of statute, and not a matter to be controled by arbitrary pronouncement or personal whim.

A FRIENDLY VISIT.

The White House has been entertaining royalty again, this time the earl of Athlone, the governor general of Canada. Perhaps he and his wife were just paying a courtesy call and perhaps not. Perhaps they just decided this would be a nice time to take a trip. At any rate they are guests at the White House. The President took King George's uncle to the White House correspondents' dinner and Mrs. Roosevelt took Princess Alice to a Girl Scout banquet.

In general, when royalty pays formal calls a purpose is being served. When Athlone's father visited Nicholas of Russia the Anglo-Russian alliance was forged in plenty of time to be operative in the last World war. When the present king partook of hot dogs at Hyde Park [N. Y.] he was cementing good relations, as the saying goes, with a nation that has been of some considerable use to the empire of late.

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt enjoy the society of the crowned heads and the crowned heads seem to get their money's worth. They can come empty handed, but they seldom depart that way. If it isn't a boost in the lend-lease it's something else of value, like bulwarking an empire or sending our army and navy to recover lost colonies.

The Associated Press correspondent who covered the Yalta conference said that Mr. Stalin and Mr. Roosevelt got along nicely for the most part, leaving Mr. Churchill to do the arguing and table pounding. In the circumstances it is not unlikely that, at some time during his visit, Athlone drew his host aside to remark, "You know, old thing, we earls and dukes have got to stand together."

The funniest part about it is that the dodge might work. And the $8,000 mink coat won't do any harm, either, to the cause of Anglo-American solidarity.

THE PANAY REVENGED.

Gen. MacArthur's invasion of the island of Panay in the Philippines recalls the episode of the sinking of the American gunboat Panay by Japanese warplanes in the Yangtze river 25 miles above Nanking, China, on Dec. 13, 1937. Historians may date the outbreak of hostilities between the United States and Japan from that date, unless they choose to go two months farther back into the past to Mr. Roosevelt's speech on the Outer dr. bridge in Chicago.

There is little doubt that, in the Japanese mind, the bridge speech was the cause of the Yangtze river event. Mr. Roosevelt had castigated the Japanese war lords for their newly resumed aggressions in China and had called for a quarantine of aggressors. There was a tone of threat in the speech, made on Oct. 5, and it may well be that the Japanese wished to test Mr. Roosevelt's intentions at the first opportunity.

On Dec. 13 the Japanese army was engaged in the sack of Nanking, the Chinese capital, and the slaughter of civilians. The Panay had taken aboard refugees from the American embassy and then headed upstream to get out of the way of the contending armies. The gunboat was clearly identified by two horizontal American flags, 18 by 14 feet, one spread over the forward top deck and the other over the after top deck. The weather was clear and visibility high.

The gunboat was brought under attack by Japanese planes which made 25 direct bomb hits. Japanese planes also attacked and sank or burned three Standard Oil company vessels under the Panay's protection. Two members of the crew of the Panay and the captain of one of the American merchant vessels were killed and 74 persons were injured. The Japanese planes machine gunned survivors making for shore in sampans and Japanese river craft also approached and opened up with machine guns.

Mr. Roosevelt addressed a protest to the mikado, who is supposed to be above such earthly concerns. The Japanese foreign minister made the reply. There were profuse apologies. Visibility was poor, said the foreign minister, Koki Hirota, and the Japanese planes were "unable to discern any mark" showing any of the targets was an American ship.

Four months later an indemnity of $2,214,007 was paid by Japan to the American government, which turned a good share of it over to Standard Oil. There were promises that there would be no recurrence of the unfortunate mistake. Those responsible were said to have been rebuked and compelled to resign from the Japanese army and navy. Five years later, when Japan was officially at war with the United States, the Kinshi Kinsho medal for audacity was conferred by the imperial government upon Col. Kingoro Hashimoto, who had ordered the attack upon the Panay.

Mr. Roosevelt in December, 1937, was said to have toyed with the idea of doing something about the Panay that Japan would long remember. A plan of campaign against Japan, it was rumored, was even drawn up, but then Mr. Roosevelt got cold feet. He is said to have told the chiefs of staff that "Harry Hopkins and Sam Rosenman won't let me go to war." All this is among the myths of contemporary history, waiting, as do so many other subjects, for later clarification when the memoirs of this generation are all available.

At any rate, the Japs had their answer. The quarantine sign wasn't being nailed to their door. Mr. Roosevelt was just talking. They proceeded with the subjection of the Chinese. When the moment seemed opportune, they attacked Pearl Harbor, and this time, officially, conceded that it was a real war. The Panay incident had fed their vanity and arrogance.

They are being disillusioned now. The landing on Panay is just one small payment in revenge for what happened on the Yangtze river that December day in 1937. After the battles of the Coral sea, Guadalcanal, Midway, the Philippine sea, Leyte gulf, and now the smashing damage done to the remnants of the Jap fleet in what it fancied were the sequestered waters of the Inland sea, Japan has paid unimaginably more than the face amount on the bill submitted for its recklessness in jumping the Panay.

MR. PEPYS SEES SIGNS.

24th March—Signs of spring have become one too many, for almost every one now has a cold in the head, and science is baffled as usual. Mine came in that warm spell of a week ago, when the March lamb looked like a full grown sheep, and I regard it as inexcusable, altho it shows no signs of fencing me in.

Wish to report other signs, such as: Bob Becker has begun to talk about fishing; Dr. Avery has bought a new hat of the Homburg type, in which he looks like a British statesman; gulls are flying in great flocks along the coast, and war birds are buzzing around the good ships Wolverine and Sable out in the lake. The Easter moon is bright in the skies, swelling toward fullness, and when it gets round you should rehearse your Easter suit or bonnet. The astronomers say Easter comes on the first Sunday after the first full moon after the vernal equinox.

Have done no gadding this week and my reading, like my eating, has been a light diet, such as Damon Runyon's collected stories of guys and dolls, and August Derleth's new mystery tale, "No Future for Luana." Rejoiced over the news of signal defeats for our enemies east and west.

CHANT FOR SPRING.

The south wind's kissing the earth today
And everything rejoices—
A frolic wind so mad and gay
That all life's lusty voices
Break forth to sing
Their joy in spring!

Last year's leftover leaves are tossed
Away; new leaves are coming.
Tall spears of iris, loosed from frost,
Have heard the distant humming
Of bees that bring
Their joy in spring!

Along our gray-stone garden wall
A golden spray is lifting;
Where dancing seas of jonquils call
Blithe radiance is drifting,
And star-cups swing
Their joy in spring!

Each violet's fragrant amethyst
Jewels a leafy cluster
Of heart-shaped leaves the sun has kissed
Aglow, from winter's bluster,
Awakening
Their joy in spring!

The peach trees blossom on the hill;
The cardinals are giving
Concerts, beside the brook, that thrill
With "Cheer! Cheer! Cheer!"—their living
Re-echoing
Their joy in spring . . .
And my heart, hearing, chants reply
To joy of earth, and air, and sky!

"Ah, there you are, my dear Squatson. I see you ate three cakes of yeast this morning, walked a mile, and had eggs for breakfast."

"Amazing, Dohms! It's true, but how on earth——"

"Quite simple, Squatson. You are smoking a cigaret. You must have walked a mile to get it. You could not have walked a mile without having eaten three cakes of yeast. And the yellow decorations clinging to your mustache reveal what you had for breakfast."

"Marvelous, Dohms. But shall we hasten to the scene of the murder?"

"Unnecessary. I have solved the crime by process of elimination."

"What are your deductions?"

"Lord Whiffletree is freed of all complicity."

"Why, how on earth do you make that out?"

"He is the murdered man, isn't he?"

"O, so he is, I'd forgotten for the nonce."

"The gardener is not guilty because criminology shows that gardeners commit their murders in the spring, and this murder was committed in the fall."

"But what do you make of it all?"

FOR PALM SUNDAY.

"The King! The King! Hosanna to the King!"
With heavy heart He sadly watched them fling
Their palms along the way where He would ride.
He knew that Calvary would still their pride,
That soon they would no longer want to sing;
The shadow of the cross, the scourge's sting,
These lay before Him, and He had no guide.
Today in countless homes a star of gold
Weighs heavy on more hearts than we can know
Thruout the length and breadth of this, our land,
He knows, and loves, and He can understand.

H. F. P. asks: "At what point are the pay and allowances of a man reported as 'missing in action' stopped? Is it when he is declared 'presumably dead' or when the government makes a finding of death?"

The missing persons act provides that the pay and allowances of any officer or enlisted man shall continue to accrue to his account during the entire period he or she is carried in any status such as "missing," "missing in action," or "interned or prisoner of war." If the branch of service involved "finds" or presumes the person dead at the end of a year's absence or subsequent thereto, his pay will accrue to the date such finding is issued. If the person is declared missing and then evidence is received pointing conclusively to death, the pay and allowances accrue to include the date the service receives such evidence of death.

G. M. A. writes: "I have been receiving an allowance ever since my son, now overseas, went into service. I have an offer of temporary employment which will pay me about $125 a month. If I ask that the allowance be discontinued while I work, will my son have to reapply if I need it again?"

All you need to do is to send a statement to the source of your check and payments will be resumed.

THE UNPREMEDITATED WINK OR NOD.

EVERY now and then our newspapers will carry a story of some unfortunate male who was accused by an enraged woman of winking at her. In defense, the gentleman claims an uncontrolable tic and that no flirtation was intended.

This is just one example of the various twitchings, or repeated jerking movements, that we refer to as "habit tics." These grimaces are observed chiefly in childhood, altho grownups are not immune. Girls are afflicted more frequently than boys.

In general, there are two types. In the first, only a small, well localized area is observed. The facial muscles are involved most commonly—with winking, blinking, drawing of the mouth to one side, contraction of the neck muscles to produce a nod, or turning of the head. We are all familiar with those individuals who must shrug one shoulder or take a short, inspiratory sniff before speaking. As a rule, the impulse is increased by excitement, embarrassment, fear, or a conscious effort toward correction. These contortions may continue thruout life. In other words, by their tics you shall know them.

Curious little tricks of children may be explained on the same basis. The periodic biting of one finger, the lips, or an arm, as well as facial grimaces, are examples. Head nodding in young infants is also a tic, but not at all serious.

In the second, or more severe form, the activity of the muscles results in irregular and violent jerking, which may be associated with a sudden command, or a word may be uttered over and over again. Some victims are impelled to express any thought that comes to mind. Fortunately, not many are so afflicted.

During sleep, tics usually disappear and restlessness at night must not be confused with habit spasms. Great care must be taken to distinguish the condition from St. Vitus' dance [chorea], in which the motions are ungovernable and do not show a set pattern.

There is apparently a psychic foundation in many cases, altho occasionally imitation is a factor. A highly impressionable tot, on noticing another youngster making peculiar motions, may reproduce the maneuver until it finally becomes a habit. A facial expression characteristic of an emotion, such as pain or joy, may be repeated so often that it will become a tic.

Most children outgrow the difficulty altho some require stringent training, particularly in self-control. All sources of irritation which serve to prolong the trouble should be removed. The confidence of the patient must be gained and an effort made to discover the basic cause. Fears and obsessions should be uprooted and a change in environment may prove beneficial. Life should be made as healthful and restful as possible, with provision for special out of door exercise and some amusement. Massage is useful as it helps to relax the affected muscles.

COUGH.

M. S. writes: Whenever I sleep on my back I start coughing. Why is this?

REPLY.

Something is irritating the membranes of the windpipe—probably mucus. This symptom may also occur in heart disease. Relief follows sleeping on a few pillows.

FOR A WHILE.

R. R. writes: I had my gall bladder removed recently. Must I avoid fats and fried foods?

REPLY.

Yes, for the time being. Eventually, you may return to a normal diet, with some restrictions.

A NEW PLUG IN THE DIKE

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

Betsy Ross in Uniform.

Somewhere in Dutch New Guinea a tattered green and yellow flag waves in the hot breeze. The yellow is streaked and in blotches. The seams around its edges are irregular. The tabs that hold it to the staff are makeshift. The green head of Pallas Athene, which is superimposed on the yellow, is raveling. The white fringe around three sides already is coming loose and falling thread by thread in the breeze.

The flag perhaps is crude, and its size is not official, but behind it lies a touching facet of an ignored group of young American women. These women are the only air force WACs in New Guinea. The flag is the first WAC flag to fly over a WAC detachment.

The WACs of New Guinea look as little like the WACs of Washington or Michigan av. as the soldiers of New Guinea resemble the polished, super-soaped, super-smiling, supertailored soldiers of the shiny advertisments. Their skin is yellow from daily doses of atabrin. They wear rough shirts and hot, heavy trousers of olive drab cotton twill and army field shoes. They sleep on army cots with an army blanket as mattress and a mattress cover as sheet. They work in an enervating, sapping climate said to be impossible for white women, and they work hard.

A few weeks ago one of the girls drowned while swimming in the Pacific. The detachment needed a flag for her funeral. They had none, nor did they have any means of getting one. The WAC flag is of gold and green satin, and gold and green satin was as out of their reach as a handful of icicles.

Then one girl remembered that she had two Australian sheets of rather good material. White, of course. Some one else recalled that the dispensary had atabrin tablets and tincture of merthiolate. Another said that the drafting department had green India ink. And condemned parachutes had silk strings in the shroud lines of their harnesses. The WACs went to work. They had to hurry, for the funeral was to be the next day.

Seven hours later, at 4 in the morning, the flag was finished. The girls' hands were stained yellow from dyeing the sheets and green from the ink used to color the head of Pallas Athene [official insigne of the WAC]. They were cut and sore from untangling the parachutes' silken shrouds and laboriously cutting and tying it into fringe which was sewn at intervals of half an inch. The girl who cut out the head of Pallas Athene had been confined to quarters all day, ill, but she worked that night until the face [which had to be drawn on both sides of the sheet] was clear and precise, then struggled to hem the edges.

Already the flag is disintegrating a little as the sun beats down on it and the wind chops at its edges. It probably will be tattered and completely fringeless before it eventually comes home, but it is doubtful whether any flag in the Pacific is raised and lowered each day more proudly.

Ingenuity.

The news columns this week reported a new process for manufacturing methyl alcohol out of coke. Drama students at the University of Chicago have gone beyond that. Recently a student in the office of dramatic productions prepared a bill for play properties and submitted it to the proper authorities for payment. Included among the items were 10 yards of material for draperies, four pounds of wallpaper paste, a box of candy, and "one bottle of coke [to make Scotch]." The bill was immediately stamped "Accepted for Payment," and the alert secretary attached a hastily scribbled note: "Our office is ordering a case of coke at once for experimental purposes."

Practical Neurotic.

The story has just come this way of a young woman who consulted a psychiatrist. The conversation seeking to establish her trouble went like this:

"Did you day dream as a child?"
"O, yes. All the time."
"What did you dream about?"
"O . . . about traveling."
"Do you day dream now?"
"Yes, I do."
"Do you still dream about traveling?"

IN DEFENSE OF DODGE-CHICAGO.

Chicago, March 22.—For a long time I have read and listened to, in silence, much abuse heaped upon the Dodge-Chicago plant and its employes. Now I would like to speak my little piece if I may.

Let me go back to 1942. In July of that year the site of this plant was mere swamp land. In the two years that followed, more than 15 buildings were erected, thousands of employes were hired and trained, many of them trained to do work entirely new and strange to them. These people came from every walk of life, from offices and factories, from homes and farms, from the city and the country, from stores and shops, from the hills and even the hills behind the hills. They were the good and the bad, the brilliant and the illiterate. From this mass of human beings, from this maze of buildings, so gigantic in size that even today people stare at them in amazement, was to come a product so perfect in its engineering and construction that it would power the greatest bombers ever built.

People became impatient. Rumor had it that the employes at Dodge-Chicago were just sitting around all day while they drew tremendous salaries.

Then on June 15, 1944 [less than two years after the first shovelful of dirt was turned], the nation was startled to read that the world's greatest bombers, the B-29s, had bombed Japan. Where did these masters of the sky come from? From the famous Boeing plants. How did they fly? With engines built by the employes of the Dodge-Chicago plant.

So all we had been doing for two years was loaf, draw big salaries, and have drinking brawls. The employes of a certain division had a gala drinking celebration last Christmas, so they said. They even bragged about it. From one of my preceding paragraphs I will let you pick the group of individuals in which they fit, they and the other few in the plant just like them. But let me come to the defense of the rest of us, the majority, the remaining thousands who have worked hard, stuck to their jobs, and tried to do their best so that more and more B-29s might be shipped across to bomb Japan.

May I then say to the boys in uniform, to their parents and their families, and to all of the readers of THE TRIBUNE—don't damn and condemn the Dodge-Chicago plant and its employes for the actions of a few. You can find rats any place you look for them. We have our share, but, unfortunately, you can't catch this kind in a rat trap.

THEY TAKE THEM ON TRUST.

Chicago, March 21.—I notice that, after serving for quite some time, two top position CCC employes are found to have criminal records. This seems a bit off key when it is necessary to fill out a form with more intimate detail than the Atlantic Charter for even a pen wiping position, after waiting for several hours for the privilege.

WAS THAT TRIP NECESSARY?

Momence, Ill., March 21.—That coyote hunt in Oklahoma may have been "all very jolly" to Ambassador Halifax, et al, but the whole thing makes me sick!

My father, a farmer, has been having a time getting tractor tires for farm work this spring. My husband made an extra trip to the ration board 15 miles away about gasoline for farm work, and this morning while at the implement dealer's inquiring about a part he had ordered months ago, he was told an army of snoopers are being readied to "investigate" farmers' use of gasoline this year. Of course, this may be a rumor, but in view of known facts, I doubt it.

Then to pick up the paper and read of 10 planes and at least one "open automobile" used in a coyote hunt that was put on in the "English style!" In other words, a "hunt without guns, altho the excuse for the use of gasoline was the necessary extermination of predatory animals. Also "1,000 persons lined the field." Did they walk to see this show? Do you suppose Lord Halifax's plane has a sticker reading "Is this trip necessary?"

FARMER'S WIFE.

THEY GRADUATE INTO WAR.

Cicero, Ill., March 15.—In today's TRIBUNE there appeared an article of vital importance, not only to me but to countless numbers of other 18 year olds and their parents. It stated that during the next three months all 18 to 20 year old draftees will be slated for infantry replacements—combat duty.

Is that being fair to us? Is that keeping faith with our mothers and dads? It certainly is not. Having just turned 18, I for one am not afraid of entering the service; but I don't feel its fair for me to be sent off directly into combat. Eighteen year olds are not prepared for such sudden changes—a fun loving high school senior one day; a battle hardened veteran the next.

Lack of Public Hearing Held Danger.

BY FRANK HUGHES.

The Kelly-Green plan for public ownership of Chicago's street and elevated railways is "inherently good," but people should realize that the only money it provides for immediate modernization is the 30 million dollars already in the city traction fund, O. D. Buckles, Evanston's corporation counsel, said yesterday.

"The suburban municipalities have not appeared in any effort to block or defeat the Kelly-Green plan," Buckles said. "All our problems are different. Evanston has a local bus line that is privately owned, efficient, financially solvent, and renders good service under the Illinois commerce commission—conditions with which we are well satisfied.

Some Suburbs Need Help.

"Some suburbs have local transportation facilities that are bankrupt and inefficient and they need some help. We don't. Our primary interest was to see that the proposed legislation didn't require transfer of control of our bus line from the ICC to the traction authority. We found that was not the intent, and secured an amendment to protect us."

Buckles said that the Kelly-Green plan "probably is the best solution ever offered to the metropolitan area of Chicago as served by the elevated lines," but pointed out that the amount of new equipment and new facilities it provides depends on the financial success or failure of future operations.

"There is nothing in the present plan to provide capital for new modern equipment, except that 30 million dollars already in the city treasury—plus future earnings," he said.

Tax Exemption Feature.

Buckles said the prospect for profits to buy new equipment in the next 10 or 15 years are better under the traction authority plan because of three factors: [1] lower interest rates and exemption of the public authority bonds from taxes; [2] exemption of the authority's properties from real estate taxes, and [3] complete exemption of the authority's income from income and excess profits taxes.

"Proponents of the plan claim that net earnings above operating expenses and interest will be sufficient in the next 10 or 15 years to modernize the systems," he said. "They think they can do it, and we hope they can."

Buckles asserted that the traction authority plan "can't hurt" the elevated line serving Evanston because conditions "won't be any worse." He said that the problem of what to do with the Chicago Motor Coach company and electric interurbans such as the North Shore line "will have to be worked out as experience is gained," and that he had no criticism of the legislation because it is not yet specific about those properties.

Another suburban spokesman, who asked that his name be withheld, pointed to the fact that legislation, as now drafted, denies all municipalities right of hearing or appeal from decisions of the traction authority board.

"As the bill is now written," he said, "the seven man board can cut off any feeder lines in outlying districts, or change schedules, or increase fares as it sees fit without the people having even the right of protest at an open hearing. Some people in outlying areas who will surrender their rights to the traction authority may wake up some day and wonder why they did it.

Board Has Management Duty.

"It may be perfectly all right. The board may never decide to cut off unprofitable lines or schedules which are filling a need. But, again, its members are the operators. They cannot be impartial because they are charged with producing the revenue to pay off revenue bonds and create the profits that will be used for rehabilitation and modernization."

An amendment permitting the traction board to hold open hearings on its own motion or on petition of municipalities has been suggested in Springfield, but has not been adopted. A Chicago banker said in an interview there recently that such an amendment would make sale of the traction authority's bonds more difficult.

LONE GUNMAN SLAYS BROTHER OF GARY MAYOR

Shooting Is Linked to Gambling Interests.

Authorities of Lake County, Indiana, began a search yesterday for a small gunman wearing a size 6 or 7 shoe, who shot and killed Lawrence F. Finnerty, 44, brother of Gary's mayor Joseph E. Finerty, early Friday. The slaying, which occurred just outside Lawrence's home in Highland, was witnessed by his wife, Virginia.

Lawrence Finerty.

The lone gunman, using a rapid fire, sawed-off shotgun, fired two shots into Finerty's body and then, as the victim lay on the ground, placed the gun against Finerty's left ear and decapitated him with two more shots.

Connect Killing to Gangland.

Walter Swets, chief of police of Highland, 6 miles southwest of Gary, where Finerty lived at 8737 Southmoor av., branded the killing as a product of gangland.

Mrs. Finerty said the couple had arrived home at 12:55 a. m. from Indiana Harbor, where they had attended a wake for the mother of Thomas O'Donnell, Finerty's partner in the Inland Auto Supply company at Indiana Harbor.

Mrs. Finerty said she was still inside the garage when her husband stepped outside and into a blast from the gun, held by a "small man" standing less than two feet away. The gunman fled and Mrs. Finerty said she believed she heard a car motor an instant later.

Holdup Theory Discarded.

Police discarded the theory of a holdup. Altho Finerty was said to have had only 16 cents in his pocket, he was known to have carried huge sums of money for the purpose of cashing checks at his company.

While authorities declined comment, it had been generally known in Lake county that Finerty had been mentioned as the man to see if a gambler desired to open in Lake county. Gambling and prostitution had increased in Lake county since the first of the year, after former Republican Prosecutor Charles W. Gannon, who had waged a campaign against vice and gambling, was defeated for reëlection by John E. Roskowski, Democrat, said to have been Mayor Finerty's choice for the office.

Swets intimated that Finerty might have been widening his gambling interests, or demanding more for protection than his slot machine interests could pay. Swets said he had heard that Finerty had been "spoken to gently" about five weeks ago by the syndicate.

Mayor Finerty, however, declared he believed robbery was the motive, but admitted he had not seen his brother in six months.

Surviving, in addition to the widow and Mayor Finerty, are a daughter, Laurie, 4, and his father, Patrick, 85, a pioneer Gary resident and former undertaker. Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Monday in St. Mary's church, Griffith, Ind.

Training School Fugitive Seized Soon After Flight

James E. Edwards, 16, of 6026 Ada st., a Negro, escaped yesterday from the Illinois State Training School for Boys, near St. Charles, and was captured a few hours later in Glen Ellyn.

U. S. SUES GYPSY WOMAN TO GET HER GOLD COINS

The government yesterday filed suit in federal District court to take possession of 126 gold coins belonging to Mrs. Bessie Bimbo, 38, and reimburse her for their value. Mrs. Bimbo, daughter-in-law of Tene Bimbo, known as king of the gypsies, was found wearing the coins as trinkets when she was arrested on suspicion by police Feb. 14. Mrs. Bimbo told police she values the coins at $4,000.

TWO ROBBED OF PURSES.

Mrs. Jane Stuart, 3319 Maypole av., and Mrs. Virginia Dobson, 3308 Maypole av., were robbed of their purses early yesterday by one of two men in an automobile in front of Mrs. Dobson's home. Mrs. Stuart lost $2; Mrs. Dobson, $7. Their empty purses were found later.

AIR CRASH KILLS PEOTONE PILOT, PACIFIC VETERAN

Marine Lt. Warren H. Morrison, 24, of Peotone, Will county, a veteran of the Pacific war, was killed in a plane crash at Norman, Okla., yesterday, 24 days after becoming a father. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Morrison of Peotone, were notified that a student pilot whom Morrison was instructing was injured. A pilot, Morrison carried out 92 combat raids in 10 months against the Japs on Bougainville, Rabaul, New Britain, and New Ireland. His wife, Rosemary, and child are at Norman. Three brothers and a sister also survive.

GUAM ROTARY, ISLAND FREED, BACK IN FOLD

The Rotary club of Guam, organized in 1939 and nonexistent during the nearly three years of Japanese occupation of the island, yesterday was readmitted to membership in Rotary International.

Rotary stressed the hope that the Guam club would be the first of many to be reconstituted as more areas of axis occupied countries are freed.

Notice of the Guam club's reorganization was forwarded to Rotary's Chicago headquarters by B. J. Bordallo, who was president of the group when the Japanese seized the island in December, 1941. The club was first organized in 1939 by Carlos P. Romulo of Manila, now a brigadier general and Philippines resident commissioner.

KILLED AS AUTO GOES OFF ROAD AND OVERTURNS

Ralph Martini, 46, of S. 5th st. and Willow Springs rd., La Grange, was killed last night when an automobile in which he was a passenger plunged off Higgins rd., near route 83, southeast of Bensenville, and overturned. The car was driven by Miss Regina Zajeda, 22, of Elmhurst, who was injured slightly.

Walter Stankiewicz, 57, of 2322 Augusta blvd., a tailor, died in St. Joseph's hospital yesterday of injuries relatives reported he suffered Monday when he was struck by a hit and run motorist as he alighted from a street car at Augusta blvd. and Western av.

Evicted for Nonpayment of Rent; $2,222 in Pockets

When Alphonse Creteau, 45, of 1227 N. La Salle st., was locked up at the Chicago av. station last night on a charge of striking and abusing his landlord for evicting him for nonpayment of rent, police reported they found $2,222 in his pockets. The landlord, David Livingston, 65, obtained a warrant for Creteau's arrest after a previous alleged assault upon him several days ago. Creteau was arrested when he reappeared at the rooming house.

AIR NEWS FLASH

CIVILIANS MAY NOW FLY THE ATLANTIC

AFTER two and one-half years in military camouflage, American Export Airlines' Flying Aces have again appeared in their commercial colors—silver, red and blue.

The company's insignia now emblazoned on the bow and stern of these giant flying boats signifies that this fast and dependable transatlantic air service is available to:

1. War effort passengers who, as in the past, will travel on priority;

2. Civilians who do not qualify for war effort priority, but who, provided their travel documents are in order, may travel if space is available a few hours before departure.

It is hoped that further regulations will be forthcoming whereby we can regularly sell space to commercial passengers whose missions contribute directly to rehabilitation activities in areas affected by the war, or to the resumption of economic activities disrupted by the war.

The removal of military camouflage in no way changes the company's status as a major contributor to the war effort. Space still remains critical but this new condition opens up actual travel possibilities.

AMERICAN EXPORT AIRLINES
——— ROUTES NOW OPERATED - - - - ROUTES APPLIED FOR

American Export Airlines has flown the Atlantic day and night, winter and summer, under war conditions for approximately three years. During this period the company has operated under temporary certificates—however, it has made application for permanent certificates covering far-flung routes, as shown by map.

The company seeks no monopoly in its applications and welcomes competition in the American way. Its record to date in the international air transportation field has proven the desirability of competition by American flag operators. The company's performance record, even in the face of difficulties arising out of the war, has established a yardstick to be used in figuring rates for passengers, mail and cargo, as well as for operating procedures and actual dependability and speed of schedules.

WAR SACRIFICES PROVIDE THEME FOR HOLY WEEK

Palm Sunday Tomorrow Opens Observances.

In view of all the unsung heroism and sacrifice of so many of our men all around the world—in view of the faith which they have rediscovered in the roar of battle and in the fear of death—we must all confess that our lives have been lived on too narrow a scale and with too little interest in the glories of the faith which was once committed to the saints.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

This quotation from the Palm Sunday announcement of the Rev. A. R. Kretzmann to his congregation of the Evanglical Lutheran Church of St. Luke, Belmont and Greenview avs., was found as scores of local church bulletins were searched for a fitting theme for tomorrow's opening of the fourth war time Holy week.

All pastors noted wrote with similar feeling. Holy week will be different this year. The Cross of Good Friday will be more real as it rises in contrast with the brilliance of tomorrow's Palm Sunday, when in many Lutheran and other Protestant churches white robed children will acknowledge Christ the King in confirmation rites before their altars.

Message Given Catholics.

Father Edward V. Dailey announced the approach of tomorrow's beginning of Holy week in the New World for one and a half million Catholics of the archdiocese with characteristic vividness. He said:

". . . we must blot out the light of the rising of Easter sun from Friday's gloom. We must see this slaying of a God for what it is, the price of wiping out the sins which men have committed and are committing and will commit.

"And if I stay my hands from hate I fling my body between His back and swishing scourge, if I keep my heart from greed I leave one hand unnailed just for today, and if I shed one tear of grief I give the thirsting Christ to drink."

Stritch to Bless Palms.

In contrast with that will be tomorrow's brilliance in Holy Name cathedral, when Archbishop Stritch will bless the palms at noon. This recalls Christ's entry into Jerusalem when He was hailed with hallelujahs and hosannahs as a king in David's line. Flowers were strewn in His way and palm branches, symbolic of kingship, were waved above his head. That was on Sunday. On Friday He was crucified.

Assisting the archbishop will be the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph P. Morrison, rector of the cathedral, with the Rev. John Quinn celebrant at the mass. Two choirs, the Cathedral choristers, directed by the Rev. Charles N. Meter, and the Quigley Seminary Plain Chant choir, led by the Rev. Francis Chambers, with Alfred Wideman at the organ, will sing the service.

Evening Choir to Sing.

Bishop Wallace E. Conkling of the Episocpal diocese announced traditional Palm Sunday services, with blessing of palms and their distribution at all services. In St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church, 1424 Dearborn pkwy., the evening choir will sing Maunder's "Olivet to Calvary" at 5 p. m. vespers tomorrow.

The Rev. Dr. Gerhard W. Grauer will confirm a class of 44 children and nine adults at 11 a. m. tomorrow in St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed church, Orchard and Kemper sts. Dr. Grauer will preach on "Plumbing the Depths." Dr. Clarence Wright's announcement for tomorrow at Ravenswood Presbyterian church said "Palm Sunday bears a spirit of majesty and of anticipation," and he will preach on the subject, "When Christ Is Crowned King."

Religious News Notes

The Rev. Dr. James W. Clarke, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, St. Louis, Mo., formerly of McCormick Theological seminary, will address the Sunday Evening club tomorrow night in Orchestra hall. His topic will be "The Roots of Calvary." Coe college's 60 piece women's band, directed by Norma Jean Oliphant, will play at the 7 o'clock preliminary service. The concert will be followed by a Bible talk by the Rev. Dr. John Timothy Stone. . . . The movie, "King of Kings," will be presented by the Rev. John W. Funston Thursday night, displacing the usual Maundy Thursday service, in the Church of Our Saviour, 530 Fullerton pkwy. The Rev. Donald B. Kline, rector elect, announced that the school of religion courses will be resumed after Easter. . . . The Rev. Dr. Edmund B. Soper of Garrett Biblical institute will preach at Lake Forest college vesper service at 3:45 p. m. tomorrow. . . . St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church evening choir will sing Maunder's cantata, "Olivet to Calvary," at 5 p. m. tomorrow. On Good Friday, the three hour meditation, noon to 3 p. m., will be conducted by the Rev. Irwin St. John Tucker, and at 8:15 p. m. the choir will sing Gaul's "Passion" under the direction of Dr. Harold B. Simonds. . . . Palestrina's "Tenebrae" will be sung at 7:45 p. m. Wednesday and Thursday in the Church of the Ascension, La Salle and Elm sts. . . . Bishop Wallace E. Conkling will administer the rite of confirmation tomorrow morning in St. Bartholomew's church, 6720 Stewart av., and Suffragan Bishop Edwin J. Randall tomorrow morning in St. Barnabas' church, 4245 Washington blvd.

The Rev. John Quinn of the Holy Name cathedral staff will conclude the series of instructions on Christian marriage with a sermon tomorrow night on "The Liturgy of Holy Week." . . . Preachers during Holy week at the Episcopal noon hour services in Kimball hall will be: Monday, the Rev. G. Carlton Story, Morgan Park; Tuesday, the Rev. H. Neville Tinker, St. Paul's, Kenwood; Wednesday, the Rev. Ray Everett Carr, La Grange; Thursday, the Rev. Frederick L. Barry, Evanston; Good Friday, Bishop Conkling. . . . The Rev. Robert T. Taylor, general secretary of the American Bible society, will conduct the noon hour services, Monday thru Thursday, in Fourth Presbyterian church. His theme will be "Four Promises for Today." . . . The morning service tomorrow in Episcopal Church of St. James, conducted by the Rev. Dr. Duncan H. Browne, rector, will be a tribute to the 23d class of midshipmen who will be commissioned as ensigns during the week. A color guard and ushers will be chosen to represent the class. . . . The Rev. Dr. Hampton Adams, St. Louis, Mo., will address the monthly union ministers' meeting at 10:30 a. m. Monday in Chicago temple, 33 N. Clark st., on the topic, "Keeping Our Souls." He also will speak there for the noonday services during Holy week.

Many Parties Arranged for Miss Wyman

BY JUDITH CASS.

SINCE Andrew Werner Lawson Jr. and the out of town bridesmaids who will attend his fiancée, Miss Mary Ann McDoel Wyman, at their wedding April 7 will not arrive from the east until two days before the ceremony, the pre-nuptial parties for Miss Wyman and Mr. Lawson will be limited to that week. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. William Kennard Kenly, has issued invitations to the 4:30 p. m. ceremony in St. Chrysostom's church and to a reception following in the Fortnightly club.

Mr. Lawson's sister, Mrs. John C. Leggitt, will give a kitchen shower for Miss Wyman April 3. Two days later Mrs. Leroy Kramer will entertain at luncheon in the Woman's Athletic club, and that same evening Mr. and Mrs. William B. Greenlee will be hosts at cocktails, preceding a dinner which Miss Nancy Florsheim will give for the bridal party. Mrs. Frederick Gillespie and Mrs. Leroy Kramer Jr. will give a luncheon April 6 in the University club before the symphony concert. The bridal dinner that night will be given in the Casino club by Mrs. Kenly and the bride's father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wyman of Bronxville, N. Y. Miss Wyman's Smith college roommate, Miss Emma Joan Aldred of Providence, R. I., will be her maid of honor. Serving as bridesmaids will be Miss Florsheim, Miss Ruth Rowe, Miss Marjorie Osborne of Cleveland, O., and Miss Margaret Ann Lynch of Chillicothe, O. Miss Rowe has been studying for her master's degree at the University of Chicago, while her fiancé, Richard Balcombe Philbrick of Salem, Mass., is overseas with the merchant marine.

Mr. Lawson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Werner Lawson, will have Parker H. Miller Jr. of Philadelphia, Pa., as best man. He and his bride will have an eastern wedding trip before going to live in Boston, Mass., while he completes his research work at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Here and There.

Word of the arrival of Duncan Knight Stuart, who was born March 10 in the Evanston hospital, was cabled to two theaters of war, as the baby's father, Lt. La Rhett L. Stuart Jr., is serving with the army in Italy, and his grandfather, Gen. Stuart, is in the Pacific. Young Duncan is the first grandchild of the Francis M. Knights of Highland Park, with whom he and his mother, the former Helen Knight, will stay for the time being. Mrs. Stuart Sr. lives in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ellis and the Robert O. Lehmanns are entertaining at cocktails this afternoon in the Lehmanns' Lake Forest home for the Jere Pattersons, who are here briefly on their way from Washington, D. C., to Appleton, Wis., to see their daughter, Tina, who has been living with her grandparents, the Gerald Muggletons since Mr. Patterson entered the army. The Pattersons will be back in town the week-end after Easter, and he expects to go overseas shortly afterward. The Ellises will move to Chicago from Winnetka May 1.

Dr. and Mrs. Dan U. Cameron, who welcomed home one of their sons, Lt. Comdr. Gordon Cameron, yesterday, will receive another today. Maj. Barton Cameron. Comdr. Cameron and his wife and little son, Gordon Jr., are here for 10 days from Green Cove Springs, Fla., where he is stationed at the navy auxiliary air station. Maj. Cameron will be here for three days from his post at the Boca Raton army air base. His wife did not accompany him.

Mrs. Harris Fahnestock, who has lived in the east since her marriage six years ago, returned to Lake Forest Thursday for a short visit with her aunt, Miss Frances Whedon. Mr. and Mrs. Fahnestock and their Young daughter, Joan, live in Concord, Mass.

Engagement News.

Mr. and Mrs. George D. Sullivan of Sheridan rd. entertained at a cocktail party in their home Wednesday evening to announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Jane, to Lt. John Bernard O'Connor Jr. of the marine corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor of Wilmette. Miss Sullivan is a graduate of the Convent of the Sacred Heart and received her degree from Manhattanville college in New York. Her fiancé was graduated from Loyola academy and attended the University of Notre Dame and Northwest-

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Assistance Unap-parent.

"The man behind the man behind a gun"
Is heard quite frequently these war time days—
But "gals behind the gals behind the boss"
Should rate a mention and some words of praise!

A fortune awaits the man who can invent a looking glass which lets us see ourselves as others see us.

We live and learn. Some people just live.

Can You Top This?

You've heard of birthday parties in offices, with slices of cake passed around and every one gay and jovial? Well, in a nifty Michigan av. office this week a girl appeared bringing a big cake with candles; every one, including officials, was invited in, and finally somebody thought to ask whose birthday it was. It turned out to be the boy friend of one of the girls. He works in another office!

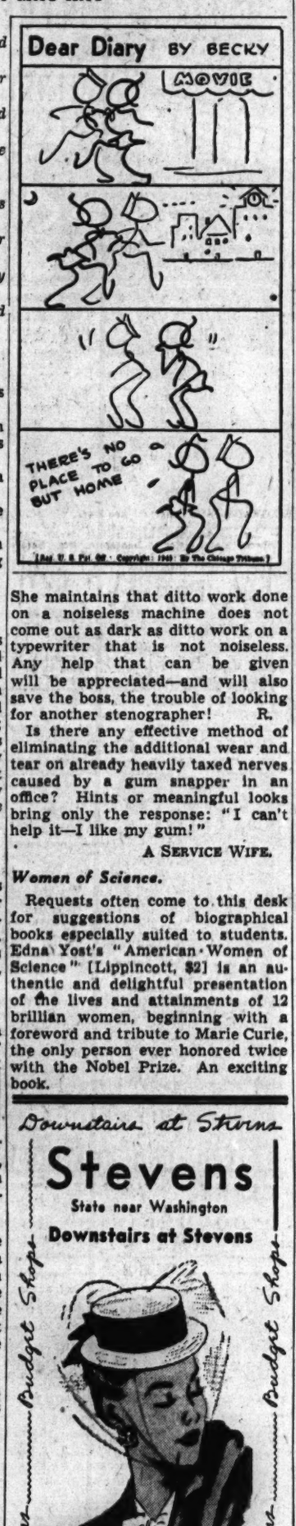
Will your readers please help a steno prove a point to her boss?



She maintains that ditto work done on a noiseless machine does not come out as dark as ditto work on a typewriter that is not noiseless. Any help that can be given will be appreciated—and will also save the boss, the trouble of looking for another stenographer! R.

Is there any effective method of eliminating the additional wear and tear on already heavily taxed nerves caused by a gum snapper in an office? Hints or meaningful looks bring only the response: "I can't help it—I like my gum!"

Women of Science.

Requests often come to this desk for suggestions of biographical books especially suited to students. Edna Yost's "American Women of Science" [Lippincott, $2] is an authentic and delightful presentation of the lives and attainments of 12 brillian women, beginning with a foreword and tribute to Marie Curie, the only person ever honored twice with the Nobel Prize. An exciting book.

Lt. John Elliott Takes Bride in Florida Today

Sparkling on the shoulder of the white afternoon dress which Miss Naomi Coffin will wear for her marriage today in Coconut Grove, Fla., to Lt. John Buckingham Elliott of the naval reserve will be a gold pin set with seven blue sapphires. The pin is a gift to the bride from the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Elliott, and his sister, Mrs. John S. Schweppe of Winnetka, who are in Florida for the ceremony.

The wedding will take place at 5 p. m. in St. Stephen's Episcopal church, with a reception following in the Miami home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Coffin. Mr. Elliott will be his son's best man, and Lt. C. John Lindegren of Worcester, Mass., and Lt. John Ryenolds of New Orleans, La., both stationed with the navy in Miami, will be ushers. Among the wedding guests will be the Elliotts' niece, Mrs. John T. Llewellyn, and Seaman Carter Bacon, both of Winnetka. Mrs. Llewellyn will return to Winnetka with the Elliotts and their daughter next Saturday.

Lt. Elliott and his bride, a petite young woman with long, golden brown hair, will spend his 10 day leave in Miami Beach, where they will live while he is stationed in Miami.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott gave the bridal dinner last night.

At 4 p. m. today in the Lady chapel of St. Luke's church, Evanston, Mrs. Burton Nason, daughter of Mrs. James E. Kimmel of Des Moines, Ia., will be married to Ensign Donald M. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Smith of Evanston. A reception will follow in the Georgian hotel. Mrs. Nason, the former Lynne Kimmel, attended Iowa State college and the Traphagen School of Fashion in New York. Ensign Smith, a graduate of Northwestern university, was captain of its 1942 track team and former Big Ten high jump champion. He is on convalescent leave after having served 14 months in the European war theater. He and his bride will go to Boston, Mass., where he will appear before a medical survey board to determine whether he will receive a medical discharge or limited shore duty.

In a small candlelight ceremony before the mantel in the H. Kirke Beckers' living room in Winnetka, their daughter, Rosalind; and Lt. John F. Angell of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Eugene Angell of Denver, Colo., will be married at 4 p. m. today. Here for the ceremony, which will be witnessed only by the two families, and for a reception in the Orrington hotel in Evanston are the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Alexander Becker, and aunt, Mrs. Francis H. Lenygon, both of New York, and Lt. Angell's mother.

The Rev. William Robert Hodgson of the Kenilworth Union church will officiate at the wedding, and Miss Jane and Miss Betty Becker will attend their sister. Lt. Angell will take his bride to Lake Charles, La., where he is attached to the special service and public relations office at the army air field.

Announcement is made of the marriage March 11 of Pvt. Josephine T. Shue of the WAC, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McGovern of Harrisburg, Pa., and Pvt. Loveridge B. Berglund, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Berglund of Cottage Grove av. The wedding took place in the chapel of the army ground and service forces redistribution station in Palm Beach, Fla. Pvt. Berglund has served with the army in Italy and Africa.

JOURNEY UNDERGROUND

(Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.)

By Flight Officer David G. Prosser

SYNOPSIS: The author enlisted in the Canadian air force in 1941, at the age of 20, and became a navigator. In 1943 he transferred to the American air force. On his ninth combat mission his Flying Fortress was shot down over France, and the crew bailed out. Prosser was injured. A French family hid him in their attic for 13 days, until he was able to walk, then helped him go by railroad to Nevers, 135 miles south of Paris. In Nevers he got in touch with members of the underground movement who hid him in their homes. Eventually he was taken to Paris by Alphonse and Johnny, saboteurs and counter-espionage agents for the underground. Johnny was the son of an American soldier who married a French woman in the last war. In Paris Prosser was lodged in Johnny's flat, where he met Georges, another underground agent. Next day Prosser was told that Jean Marie, an underground leader, was coming to Johnny's flat to get bombs dropped by allied planes for the resistance forces.

INSTALMENT XXV.

Jean Marie soon arrived. He was a tough and rather unpleasant person. Unlike most Frenchmen, he did not stop to speak to me, but immediately after shaking my hand and asking curtly, "When is the invasion going to come?" he started talking business with the others. He had brought two other young men with him, and after they shook my hand they, too, went right to work with Jean Marie. Johnny had taken the bombs from their hiding place to the center of the room, and there the four men huddled over them, studying a book of instructions on their use.

Georges and I were more or less forced to go into the little bedroom. He was learning English and suggested that as I wanted to learn French, I speak French to him and he would speak English to me, and that we should correct each other. He told me Jean Marie had been a pilot during the war, and that he had built his organization by himself. In a short time Jean Marie stormed into our room, saying that the bombs he had were no good. He wanted to know whether the English had any idea of what he was trying to do.

"We need big, powerful bombs, not these puny little things," he said. He made me feel almost responsible for the blunder that had been committed.

Jean Marie left shortly afterward, but did not give me the slightest indication of my future. Johnny said he thought I might go that afternoon, but probably not until the next day.

Evidently there were a great many resistance groups, and each one specialized in certain types of operations. Jean Marie concentrated on sabotage and counter-espionage. Johnny said if I did stay with him another day or two they would take me to the theater or cinema.

Johnny had made a luncheon engagement with his mother, to which both Georges and myself were invited. We started earlier than necessary so we could stop somewhere for an aperitif. On the way we passed the German admiralty. The sailors standing guard at the door and those around the building were more handsome and better uniformed than any I had ever seen of the allied navies.

We stopped at a little sidewalk cafe near the place where we planned to meet Johnny's mother. Georges and I each had two aperitifs, but Johnny had only one and disliked it so much that eventually he tried to wash the taste out of his mouth with a pitcher full of water, saying at the same time that he wished he had a glass of milk. Georges and I needed some cigarets, so Johnny went inside the cafe to see if he could coax the proprietor into giving us some black market ones. He had to pay 140 francs for them—just 20 times the controled price.

We met his mother at our rendezvous. She was a very charming woman, and said several times that she was delighted to see an American airman, and as if to leave no doubt kissed me on both cheeks. Johnny took us to a restaurant where he was known, and where we would get a good luncheon, probably with meat. It was an ordinary looking cafe with dirty cream painted walls, marble top tables, and black lacquered wicker seat chairs. After we had ordered, Madame told me she had lived in Florida three years with her husband, but he died and she and Johnny returned to France.

We had a surprisingly good luncheon for 16 francs. All of us had a very delicious piece of meat which I had not expected from a place that looked as grim as this did.

As we were eating our soup, two people took the table directly in front of ours. They appeared to be a business man with his secretary, perhaps not so much a secretary as a companion.

She had peroxide blonde hair and abundant makeup. The man was middle aged and Germanic in appearance. At first, I paid no attention to them, but after a short time I noticed that the woman was periodically staring at me, and twice after doing so she turned to her partner to make some remark. Then they both gazed at me, and I felt sure that they were discussing me.

When Madame and Georges became involved in a very long conversation, I leaned over and muttered at Johnny from time to time. When I told him I thought these people were German, and my reasons for believing they were, he surprised me by not dismissing my fears as foolish whims, but appeared to be slightly concerned.

Pastel Shades Are New Notes in House Coats

BY REA SEEGER.

Delicate pastel house coats and negligees are ready for shoppers who crave something new in color and light in weight for spring and summer. Slinky creations of rayon jersey and of crepe are shown in some of the most flattering colors imaginable — blush pink, baby blue, soft sunny yellows, and plenty of chalk white. Both lounging pajamas, sleekly tailored and fitted, and the more feminine house gowns are available in these true spring shades.

One jersey model comes in crushed raspberry, pale blue, and a lime yellow. The sleeves are unusual because they're the modified butterfly type, ending just below the elbow. The skirt has a harem fold panel in front that achieves graceful fullness. The belt buttons twice with large decorative plastic discs. Another new robe uses two colors, pink with blue, white with pink, or white with blue. The upper part is the fitted contrast color, the skirt simple but unusually wide and full. A third rayon crepe robe has lace frills at the cuffs of the long sleeves and around the neckline and extending from waist to hem in front.

Some coachman style house coats of navy blue cotton gabardine are stunning; they're contrasted with red and have red buttons. One of the smartest tailored coats is that of a tattersall check patterned rayon, cool to look at and cool to wear. Both red and black and blue and red checks are available in these regulation tailored models with long sleeves, tie-sash belt, a side pocket, and the contrasting piped edge of scarlet. Thin flannel robes in navy with red trim are made in the same way and have been designed for occasional chilly mornings as well as for trim travel togs.

Georgetown U. President to Address Chicago Group

The Rev. Lawrence C. Gorman, S. J., president of Georgetown university, is expected to outline the school's post-war plans at a luncheon of the Georgetown University Club of Chicago, to be held in the Rendezvous room of the Illinois Athletic club today. Another speaker will be Thomas A. Dean of Chicago, national president of Georgetown alumni, who will report on a program to establish memorial scholarship funds for sons of alumni members killed in this war. Ellsworth F. J. Reilly is president of the Chicago club.

Legion Essay Contest in Schools Announced

Pupils in the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades in Chicago's public elementary schools are eligible to compete in an essay contest sponsored by the Cook county council of the American Legion, Supt. of Schools Johnson has announced. The essay must be a biographical sketch on "A Great American." The state winner will receive a gold medal and a trip to Springfield and other places in Illinois made famous by Abraham Lincoln.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 23.—Mighty smart of Darryl Zanuck to let Harry Cohn build up Cornel Wilde in three technicolor pictures. Now Darryl will star Wilde in "Captain from Castile." And while I was getting this information, Cornel received word he had been voted one of the 10 most popular actors in a fan magazine poll. . . . Since "Dorian Gray" has been uncovered, Angela Lansbury has been hailed by critics as a moody, full-blown prototype of Jean Harlow. So Metro is digging out one of its big pictures for her. . . . Walt Disney is trying to get Jimmy Durante to do "Cabey at the Bat" in his Currier and Ives cartoon. It's a far cry from DeWolf Hopper to Durante, but Jimmy could do it. . . . Frances Langford has a swell idea. The day Germany falls, how about a "pints for peace" party? Instead of consuming a pint of liquor, go to the blood bank and give a pint for the fellows in the South Pacific.

And She Does It with Ease.

Helen Hayes is one actress who, when she has to blush on the stage, blushes. When I saw her do it, I thought—wouldn't that be wonderful in technicolor? . . . Margaret Case Harriman's book, "Take Them Up Tenderly," will give you some happy hours. There's a bit in it about Lillian Hellman joining the screen writers' guild. When Charley MacArthur asked her how come, Lillian replied, "You were a screen writer once—whatever became of you?" . . . All this and Quiz Kids, too! Joe Kelly, their quiz master, is thinking of opening a chain of sandwich shops. He's already put in a bid to buy old railroad cabooses. Maybe he's afraid those kids will grow up. . . . Elizabeth Taylor and Ann Westmore are pals, but Papa Wally Westmore put his foot down when Ann brought one of Elizabeth's trained chipmunks home. Wally said, "I don't mind an actress biting me, but I couldn't take it from an animal."

The Other Side of the Story.

After running a story about our photographers griping at Bob Hope during a broadcast, I was called up by a lens man who said, "Hedda, you're all wet. We never intended shooting during the broadcast. We know better than that. There were no seats for us, so we sat in the aisles to watch the show. Most of us didn't even have our cameras with us, when Bob announced from the stage before 1,500 people to get the hell out of there. We thought that was a little unfair. We still do." . . . A. J. Patel, from Bombay, India, picture producer, came to call. Last year India got 70 million feet of film. This year it will get 30 million. He specializes in 16 mm. educational films about health, hygiene, child marriage, etc. While here, he hopes to talk with Darryl Zanuck and maybe persuade Darryl to produce a picture in India. Why wouldn't it be a good idea to run a contest, have the greatest writers in India submit stories, let Hollywood pick the winner—then go there and use the facilities of their country for the film? I've always maintained the way to influence nations and people is by way of the screen. We've got to think of other countries besides our own if we're to survive.

The Sincerest Sort of Flattery.

Did you know Barry Fitzgerald took his name from Geraldine Fitzgerald? Sure, there's a difference in their ages. When Barry started at the Abbey theater in Dublin, he was Will Shields. He became smitten with an established actress there named Sheila Richards, whose niece was little Geraldine Fitzgerald. So to build himself up in aunty's eyes, he paid her the great compliment of taking Geraldine's name. . . . Hal Wallis overheard Bob Cummings humming a tune which turned out to be "Happiness Pie." Bob wrote it as a gag when he was with Ziegfeld Follies 10 years ago. It's so corny they'll use it in "You Came Along."

A Flashback in Memory.

I asked Cecil Kellaway, who's playing Esther Williams' father in "Early to Wed," how he'd gotten so many of Edward Windsor's mannerisms into "Mrs. Parkington." He said, "Funny thing—in my youth when he was prince of Wales, I saw him twice—just stood and stared until I was pushed aside. So when I got a chance to play him, those two mental pictures flashed back into my mind." . . . Artie Shaw, who'll be in San Francisco with his band during the allied nations conference, has gotten permission to pitch tents to shelter his musicians. . . . Fred Martel, who sang on the Showcase radio program, got a five year deal with Eddie Cantor. . . . Joe E. Brown is on his way overseas again. . . . Anita Alvarez, dancer, has been picked by Jack Cole for "Song of Broadway." . . . Bill Bendix, speaking of a tight-fisted comic, said to Hoagy Carmichael, "He makes Silas Marner look like Diamond Jim Brady."

Two young pianists, one a Chicagoan, will make their first Chicago appearance tomorrow night following dinner in the Arts club. They are Arthur Gold, born in Toronto in 1920, and Robert Fizdale, born here the same year. They met in New York after each had received a fellowship for piano study, and later joined forces as duo-pianists. Mr. Gold studied with Josef Lhevinne and Mr. Fizdale with Ernest Hutcheson. Some of those with dinner reservations are Mrs. Alfred P. Shaw, president of the club; John Palmer, Mrs. George A. Kelly, Charles Kligore, Mrs. Robert Griffin, Mrs. William E. Vogelback, and Mrs. Henry Buswell.

The Jack and Jill Players will present "Once Upon a Clothesline" at 2 p. m. today in the Oak Park High school auditorium, as the first program in a series of three children's matinees sponsored by Circle 25 of the Oak Park and River Forest branch of the Infant Welfare society.

Working Child Must Learn to Spend Wisely

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The question of wage earning by young persons, and how much should be expected from them toward the upkeep of the home, appears often in my mail. Not only do I receive letters from the parents, but I also get them from the boys and girls themselves.

"My daughter has just begun to earn money and, to my mind, she just fritters it away," writes one mother. "I think she should give something to me for her board and keep, but she can't understand why I ask that of her since she has, as she puts it, 'always lived free at home,' and she's always away at lunch time now, which relieves the home budget.

"I don't need the money from her, it's true, but I think it is a good idea for young persons to have that sense of responsibility from the very first."

Such adjustments are decidedly individual ones. They must be based on the family income and just what has to be done with it.

If, for instance, there are many young children in a family and the father's salary is small, a son or daughter who is working naturally would make a larger contribution to the running of the home. If, as the other extreme, there is no actual need at all for the child to pay anything, the amount would be much less.

To my mind, the best way to work out adjustments like this is for the parents and their children to talk it all out together, honestly and fairly. Where a child is generous and dutiful, the parents must be sure that they are both wise and just in regard to his earnings. When the opposite is the case, as mentioned in this letter, the child has to be made to see that all working members of the family should contribute something, however small, to the maintenance of the home.

There are several fundamentals that I believe ought to be borne in mind in planning what share of a young person's money should go into the family exchequer, besides those mentioned.

Young wage-earners shouldn't be expected to turn over the pay envelope, and then have doled out to them the money for clothes or amusements, unless the young person has planned this out as his or her own wish. Rather let them give what seems fair for board, laundry, and other family expenses, and learn to spend the rest well for clothes, pleasure, and so forth.

Young persons should be urged to put money aside for two kinds of saving. One for a fund to be used for large expenditures like a winter coat or vacations, and birthday or Christmas gifts. The other, no matter how small, should go into a savings bank for a permanent fund, to be drawn upon only in a real emergency. The saving habit should be formed the instant the earning of money begins. In general, all adjustments should be made with the idea of educating a young person in the wise handling of money himself.

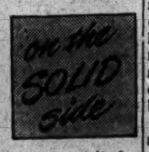
Girls Worry; Boys Are Not So Interested

BY SHEILA DALY.

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Girls can never learn. Just because a certain Joe has passed them notes in study hall for the last two weeks, sent orchids every second Saturday since they met, or kissed them lightly on the cheek one night last spring, they believe he meant it, for now and always. A woman can change her mind but when a fellow does, well—the gals just won't believe it. Here are two typical letters from girls who can't see the handwriting on the wall for the star-dust in their eyes. And the first gives out this way:



"I'm worried. I'm only 16, but out in our neighborhood things start young. I am a junior in high school and I met a boy at a Halloween party. Since then we've dated often and have gone to several parties together. Neither of us has dated any one else since we met. Don't say we're too young, for we've both been out with many others but this was different. We really liked each other. But lately, tho I still go out with him, he seems restless, as tho he were getting tired of me. I'm not in the least tired of him, and I know we'd really make a happy pair . . ."

"The boy I date is about six months older than I, and I am 17. He is the most wonderful boy I have ever met and I know I love him. Sometimes he acts as if he likes me and sometimes he doesn't. We only go out once every six weeks. I asked him to a dance once and we went, but when I asked him again a couple of months later, he refused. He never says why he doesn't want to do a certain thing and he never has expressed his feelings. I think a lot of his attitude has to do with his parents and religion. All this has been going on for six months and I still can't understand it or him."

At 16 or 17, dating is still in the experimental stage, and when a gal senses friendship slipping it's best to let it slip. That memory won't hurt so much if she doesn't wait for the final brush-off in black and white . . . and pride's a nice thing to have when you don't have that man around any more.

and made every obvious effort not to encourage me to talk. When we left the cafe, the Nordic people were still there.

Once in the street, I felt like running as far away as I could, but had to content myself with the rapid gait Madame set in order not to be late in returning to her office. Before parting I thanked her for the luncheon and explained my silence. She sympathetically said she realized how careful every one felt he must be in these troubled times.

About 3 o'clock some one knocked at the door. Georges and I hurriedly went into the little bedroom for fear of being seen by one of Johnny's friends who was not in the underground. A man and a woman had come in. We stood behind the door trying to listen to what they were saying. They seemed to have many differences of opinion with Johnny which they were loud in expressing, but I could not pick up any of the threads of their conversation. Georges thought these were the people who were going to take me away. After 10 minutes of uncertainty, Johnny opened the door, telling us to come out and meet the people who were taking charge of me.

Just then there was another knock at the door, and this time the man and woman and Georges and myself were all herded into the little bedroom. Bending down to look and listen at the keyhole, the woman discovered that this caller had come to repair a broken electric light switch, so we really had to be quiet. For 10 minutes we took the greatest care, but after that length of time the woman became very impatient, and looking at her watch, told us that we should have been on the other side of Paris at that time for a rendezvous with other Americans and their guides.

She was a blonde who looked more like a tart than a member of the resistance movement, and she spoke French with a Belgian accent. The man was a rather meek looking petit bourgeoise, but particularly well dressed in comparison to other European men. The woman told me to gather all my belongings together, so we could leave immediately after the departure of the electrician. I was almost ready when he left.

When Johnny entered the room however, Madame decided she would not take me in my blue worker's trousers and asked him to give me some of his. Johnny did not hesitate to offer me a pair of his trousers and suit coat too, but as they were his personal property I refused the coat, in spite of the fact that mine was very small and uncomfortable. When he offered me a very good beret to replace the old ill fitting one Jacques had given me, I could not resist. Johnny told me to keep it as a souvenir by which to remember him.

We walked to the Metro as quickly as possible, passing a tremendous queue of people outside the police station. I asked Monsieur what they were doing there, and he explained that as the end of the month had come, every one had to go to the police station to get new food ration cards.

Just before we approached the Metro entrance, Madame made me promise not to say a word while we were on the underground train.

We emerged from the subway somewhere in the Latin quarter. When we reached the top of the stairs, two rather shabby looking women who had been sitting on a bench approached us. Madame gave them some orders, and then told us we would have to rush to the Zoo to meet the other Americans there. She walked so quickly that I had a difficult time keeping up with her, as my ankle had become very painful.

When we entered the Zoo, Monsieur left us, telling me that he hoped to see me again. In the Zoo we saw numerous policemen, but no American pilots or their guides.

Madame tried to spur me on by promising that something would turn up around the next corner, but finally I fell out of this whirlwind search, and sat on a bench while she made a couple of circuits herself. Madame appeared to be so flustered, that I began to worry about the possibility of her rushing away and forgetting where she had left me.

However, she soon returned and said that we had to go to her friend's house. I thought this would be a great relief and set off gladly with her, but it was over a mile away and Madame covered the distance at a half run. She stayed about half a block ahead of me the whole time, and whenever I hurried to overtake her, she rushed on ahead just that much faster. I couldn't have been more exasperated, and finally I tried falling back even farther, and that did slow her down a little.

The opera house [nee Civic Opera house] reports an advance sale of about $60,000 for "One Touch of Venus," opening April 2, and adds that it has organized a first nighter club. All you have to do to join is go to opening nights and get on a membership list "assured of choice seats." Keeper of the list is Herbert Carlin, manager of the theater. . . . Michael Todd says "Up in Central Park" paid off its initial investment of $130,000 at the St. Patrick's day matinée and is now showing a profit in record Broadway time. . . . Evelyn Laye has a new London hit in "Three Waltzes," which borrows tunes from Johann and Richard Strauss and Oscar Straus.

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

"The other day I noticed in your column directions for softening marshmallows. I'd like to submit another method: Put hard, dry marshmallows in a paper bag or piece of waxed paper and keep them in the bread box. They'll soon become soft."

Thanks to this reader for her contribution! We always are glad to receive helpful cookery hints. Another woman also wrote in and offered her favorite method: Place marshmallows in a wide mouthed jar and put in a piece of very fresh bread. Screw on top tightly. If the marshmallows are very hard, renew the bread for several days until they are soft. The marshmallows will remain soft as long as the jar is kept tightly closed.

"Why do chocolate cakes always call for a larger amount of sugar than other types? Why is sour milk generally used in these cakes instead of sweet milk?"

The sugar measurement must be increased to offset the strong flavor of the chocolate. Sour milk in combination with soda is used instead of sweet milk with baking powder because of the effect on the color of the cake. A deeper, richer shade is obtained when soda is used. Sour milk is needed to neutralize the soda and offset its bitter, alkaline flavor.

"Why are my cakes when baked often higher in the center than at the sides?"

This probably is because you have not leveled the batter before baking. Push batter well to the sides, leaving a slight depression in the center. When baked, the cake should be even.

On the Record

By Claudia Cassidy

"Song of Norway."

Adapters are quaint folk. The last time Sigmund Romberg came in concert his program neglected to mention Franz Schubert as his collaborator, if that is the word, on "Blossom Time." Now comes Columbia's album of excerpts from "Song of Norway" [Green label M-562; three 12-inch records], and the musical is described as "a tribute to the skill, imagination, and craftsmanship of three musicians—the Messrs. Wright, Forrest, and Grieg." I'm glad they got Grieg in, even as an afterthought.

Irra Petina.

Irra Petina, who is in the Broadway cast and sounds something like a lady baritone, does the singing with Robert Weede, a genuine baritone and a better one. Sylvan Shulman conducts arrangements made especially for the recordings by his brother, Alan Shulman, which may explain why the piano concerto bobs up without being recognized in the labels. Included in the set are "Strange Music" [based on the nocturne from the "Lyric" suite and "Wedding Day at Troldhaugen"], "Sun at Midnight" [Solvejg's song], "Now" [the piano concerto, waltz for piano, and part of second sonata for piano and violin], "Three Loves" [piano pieces from "Albumblatt" and "Erotic"], "Freddy and His Fiddle" [the Norwegian dance used for "My Johann"] and "I Love You," which is, naturally, "Jeg Elsker Dig."

These are lovely melodies, and putting them into an operetta was good boxoffice, but the performance here can't hope to compete with the real thing, such as Melchior's matchless "Jeg Elsker Dig" and the piano concerto played as it should be played by Rubinstein or Gieseking. I'm not sold on Petina at all. Neither her voice nor her accent ["shouldah" for shoulder, etc.] makes the most of the music.

However, the perennial "Blossom Time" and the solvent "Song of Norway" have started a parade of musicals "based on the life and tunes" of famous composers. The Johann Strauss "The Waltz King" flopped badly, but the insatiable arrangers are now after Tschaikowsky. Wouldn't they give their eyeteeth to get the Puccini copyright?

Bud and Lou Make Lot of People Laugh

"HERE COME THE CO-EDS."

By Mae Tinée.

The skinny man slaps the fat one, who makes a face and falls down. There is time for the audience to laugh, and then they do it all over again. Sometimes they do it three or four times.

As I heard a shy little violet say the other day, "Greater minds than mine can be wrong," and apparently there is something radically wrong with my funny bone. Altho I could manage only a weak grin two or three times during the unreeling of the latest Abbott and Costello opus, most of the large audience awaiting their favorites at 10 a. m. yesterday laughed so loudly and frequently that much of the dialog was inaudible.

The boys are caretakers at a school for girls, and Phil Spitalny's orchestra members are students, which permits them to provide a bit of fairly good music every now and then. In order to earn money for dear old Bixby college, Lou Costello is forced to enter a wrestling match, a girls' basketball game, and a number of other dubious activities.

It's not very different from any other Abbott and Costello picture, and if you like the slapstick laid on thick, the Palace is the place for you.

While they're not exactly my dish, the team is making hundreds of people laugh hilariously, so more power to 'em.

Seek Men Supervisors for Boys' Programs at City Playgrounds

Men volunteers, as well as women and girls, are being sought by the volunteer office of the OCD and the Council of Social Agencies to assist with spring and summer recreation programs for youngsters in city playgrounds and community centers. In launching the agencies' spring campaign for volunteer help, Mrs. Evelyn S. Byron, director, has announced that men are needed particularly to work with the boys' groups, coaching sports, swimming and supervising street play and games.

Volunteers also assist professional staffs with story telling, community singing, barn dances, and in conducting hikes, and excursions, and, if qualified, with handicraft, sewing, dramatics, street dancing, folk dancing, and music.

Registrations for men and women who can give one morning, afternoon, or evening each week to such programs are being taken at 53 W. Jackson blvd., and for the convenience of those employed thruout the day, the office is open Wednesday nights from 6 until 8:30. On May 8, all volunteers will begin a nine hour training course under direction of playground and recreation experts.

Thru the Looking Glass

Before making an appointment for that new spring permanent, check up on the hair and ascertain whether it is in condition to receive one. If it isn't, you'll save yourself a lot of trouble and possible disappointment by making the date far enough in advance to allow time for some reconditioning treatments.

Not even the best permanent money can buy will turn out as it should if the hair is not healthy. A permanent isn't a cure-all; it's intended merely to curl the locks. It won't overcome or correct defects, and if the hair is dull, lifeless, and dry it may well add to the number of woes with a frizziness that bears no resemblance to waves or curls.

Oil treatments are most helpful to restore dry, brittle hair to a normal state. You can give yourself the treatments at home if you're handy and the hair isn't in too sorry a condition. Otherwise it's best to seek the help of an expert beauty operator who knows how to handle stubborn cases. The time and money invested will be well spent and insure the larger outlay for the permanent itself.

Aside from oil treatments, much can be done to add luster and life to the tresses. Stimulate the scalp with vigorous massage to whip up the circulation, and be meticulous about good, thoro cleansings, using a shampoo that will help counteract dryness. Hand drying the hair helps and should be followed by an application of a softening dressing. Use your hairbrush lavishly at least once or twice a day.

It may take several treatments to effect a noticeable improvement in the vitality and sheen of the hair, but if you want best results from a permanent, they'll prove well worth while.

Spring Designs

Spring memoranda: Prints are high fashion; draped lines are smart; the bolero is a revival. These two patterns offer all three ideas. The dress has the new kimono shoulders, side draping in the skirt, and soft lines thruout. The bolero is just the thing to top plain colored or companion print dresses. Style No. 2536 is designed for sizes 12 to 48. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material. Style 3769 is designed for sizes 12 to 46. Size 36 requires ⅞ yard of 39 inch fabric. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Order Clotide patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The spring fashion book, on sale at Tribune Public Service offices, is 15 cents; 12 cents if ordered by mail with a pattern.

U. of C. Class Hears Plea for Free Economy

The admonition to go forth not in search of security but looking for high adventure was given by Laird Bell, vice chairman of the University of Chicago trustees, to 173 graduates at the university's 220th convocation in the Rockefeller Memorial chapel yesterday.

"While there may be some hypocrisy in the clamor for free enterprise, that fact shouldn't obscure the fact that there is something to be said for the system," Mr. Bell declared. "After all, a very great development of civilization took place under a relatively unplanned society in the last two centuries. It was not merely economic—it was certainly also scientific and perhaps artistic.

"The energies and ambitions of millions of men competing with one another produced these astonishing developments. They had no security, nobody planned for them, nobody convinced them that our world had matured and wasn't going to grow any more.

"I find it hard to believe that this is all over in a sudden now. I find it still harder to be reconciled to the thought that the young should turn away from an exciting world of risk and big stakes for a tame one planned, however expertly, by some one else."

In the graduating class were the first two World War II. veterans to further their education with the assistance of the provisions of the G. I. bill of rights. They are William J. Dempsey, 619 W. Garfield blvd., head of the Kelly High school English department, who received a master's degree in education, and Calvin E. Weiskopf, 1155 Hyde Park blvd., who was awarded a bachelor's degree in the business school.

Five Chicagoans elected to Phi Beta Kappa, scholastic honor society, are Kenneth M. Campione, 1946 W. Garfield blvd.; Richard R. Carlson, 2041 Addison st.; Allen L. Lorincz, 5408 Ellis av.; June Iachuy, 3603 Wilson av., and Helen Elizabeth Wallace, 5221 Kimbark av.

Clubwomen Will Be Told of Arts and Skills Work

The new service project adopted by the art department of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs—that of recruitment of volunteer workers for the arts and skills corps of the Red Cross—will be described by Mrs. Everett R. Mitchell at 2 p. m. today before junior club members of the federation's northern region. The meeting, one of a series planned to stimulate interest of young women in post-war and rehabilitation service, will be held in federation quarters under the direction of Miss Dorothy Dohrman of Blue Island, junior club chairman. Mrs. Mitchell, art department chairman of the state organization, will share the program with Miss Ella V. Fay, who will tell of her work as director of occupational therapy for Cook county.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Brussels Sprouts with Celery Sauce.

[Serves four to five.]

1 quart Brussels sprouts
2 cups chopped celery
2 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons flour
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Clean and wash sprouts and cook in boiling, salted water until tender. Meanwhile, cook the celery until tender in 1 cup water with ½ teaspoon salt added. Drain celery and reserve liquid. Make a sauce of the margarine, flour, and celery liquid, adding milk to make two cups. Season with salt and pepper. Add the cooked celery to the white sauce and pour over the drained sprouts. Reheat and serve piping hot.

Let DARA "bring out" the Natural Lustre of Your Hair!

Soap shampoos are likely to leave a dulling film that hides the natural lustre of hair. So if your hair looks dull and lifeless — give Soapless DARA a chance to enhance your beauty. DARA instantly vanishes in a clear water rinse. No film remains to dim the natural sheen of your hair. Every particle of dandruff disappears. DARA leaves hair sparkling clean, beautifully lustrous and "just right" to arrange!

HAGG SCORES FIRST VICTORY OF U. S. TOUR

DYKES PLACES BILL NAGEL IN CLEANUP SPOT

New Sox .307 Hitter for Milwaukee.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Terre Haute, Ind., March 22.—Something has to be done about modeling a clean-up hitter, even if it is only a fellow who can't clean up for the 1945 White Sox except in a bathtub.

Thornton Lee.

Ed Lopat.

James Dykes, the boss, today, however, gave indications of being on the trail of at least one candidate.

For the second intracamp game, made up of whatever was available, including coaches and amateurs, Dykes selected the portly Bill Nagel for the No. 4 spot on one of the teams, the reason for this choice being easily explained. Big Bill hit .307 for Milwaukee last season and far be it from Mr. Dykes to disregard even a minor league figure of that kind in these tough times. In view of Nagel's 15 excess pounds, the outcome of wrestling nothing more violent than haberdashery during the winter, comment on the possibilities of his drive 'em in role will be delayed.

Bill to Play Third, If——.

Nagel's defensive assignment for today was at third base, where he played for the Brewers last season and for the Athletics several years ago. This probably is where he will stay if there are no complications, such as a vacancy at first base or his failure to field and hit. In this event Dykes would have to dig deeper into his war time grab bag of unknowns.

The grab bag holds no first basemen, unless one got in there by accident, altho this embarrassing situation may be relieved if Joe Orengo, the ex-Tiger utility man, ever arrives. Orengo hit a dazzling .301 last season.

Floyd Baker Arrives.

Dykes had two fresh athletes in his school today. Victor Austin, a semi-pro from Detroit, showed up with the announcement that the army doctors wouldn't give him a job. The other unexpected arrival was Floyd Baker, the infielder who has two years of service with the Browns before being sent to the Sox during the winter. He had been called for reëxamination in Youngstown, O., but his papers failed to arrive from his home town draft board in Luray, Va.

Southpaw Eddie Lopat, a .500 plus pitcher last season, passed thru Chicago today, according to a communique from Vice President Harry Grabiner, and will be here in time for tomorrow's activities.

Play Full Game Tomorrow.

With ideal weather assisting today, Dykes not only put on the six inning game but threw in all the usual trimmings, including batting practice. Tomorrow he plans to step up the workout to about three hours and on Sunday hold the first nine inning game. He has enough pitchers of sorts to handle the three innings per man assignments, but one of them will not be the veteran, Thornton Lee. He has developed a soreness in his left forearm, but it is thought to be nothing more than the result of throwing too strenuously. He rested the arm today.

There was nothing consequential about the camp game except that Mule Haas' outfit whipped Bing Miller's lineup by an alleged score of 11 to 10. Another development was that Joe Haynes had signed and that the Tigers would show up here for exhibitions with the Sox April 7 to 10 inclusive.

DENVER FIVE TO FACE OILERS IN A. A. U. FINALS

Denver, Colo., March 23 (AP).—Denver Ambrose won its way into the finals of the national A. A. U. basketball tournament by crushing the Wichita, Kas., Cessna Bobcats, 43 to 28, tonight.

In the other semi-final contest, Phillips 66 of Bartlesville, Okla., defeated Twentieth Century-Fox of Hollywood, 62 to 52, pitting Denver Ambrose and the Oilers in the finals tomorrow night.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

DICK SISLER, 6 foot 2 inch son of the famous George, is working out at first base with the Brooklyn Dodgers at their Bear Mountain, N. Y., camp. . . . He will not open the season with them, however, for two reasons. . . . One is that he belongs to the Columbus club of the St. Louis Cardinal chain and the other is that he is in Uncle Sam's navy as an athletic specialist at the Bainbridge training station. . . . Writers with the Dodgers, who can recall seeing Dick's brilliant dad, say the kid may be able to approach him some day. . . . Kenny Washington, former star back at U. C. L. A., and Fighter Henry Armstrong are members of the same U. S. O. entertainment troupe, which is ready to go, or has gone, overseas. . . . When two major league clubs train at the same site complications are bound to develop. . . . The first such to come to light this spring is the case of a Red Sox rookie who reported to Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yankees and asked for a uniform before he discovered he was on the wrong side of town. . . . The Yanks and Red Sox are both doing their conditioning in Atlantic City. . . . In New York a father or brother of a professional boxer is not allowed to second him in the ring. . . .

Arturo Godoy, the Chilean heavyweight now touring the United States, can tear a metropolitan telephone directory in half with one twist. . . . Trainers of race horses are finding that stale bread makes an admirable substitute for sugar in the diets of their pampered pets. . . . Dick Barrett, the Philly pitcher, thought he had solved the housing problem when he arrived at the club's training camp in Wilmington, Del., with his family, in a trailer. . . . Then it took him so long to find a parking space in the war-jammed city he missed the opening day's workouts. . . . Guilty or Not Guilty?

[Excerpt from a Tribune war correspondent's report—"Out here in the Pacific the men seem to have a general feeling that they have been forgotten by the people back home."]

How can this be? Can I believe my eyes?
Is what I read above there really true?
If so, what a grievous commentary
Upon the faithfulness of me and you;
That they should be forgotten in their plight,
Battling their weary way thru tropic hell,
That they should ever for one moment feel
Let down by us at home, I ask you, well?

Are you at fault? Am I? Is this thing true?
Examine well your conscience on this score.
Are you the one who wrote for just a while,
Then spaced your letters till they come no more?
So place yourself on trial this very day
And tell me, is the verdict yes or no?

PURDUE RELAYS RECORDS ARE IN DANGER TODAY

Top Midwest Stars Among Entries.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lafayette, Ind., March 23.—The largest group of college and university teams gathered together this season and augmented by entry of the Great Lakes and Iowa Pre-Flight squads will compete tomorrow afternoon and night in the third Purdue relays, an annual event which replaced the games formerly held by Butler university in Indianapolis and which climaxes the indoor track season. Trials tomorrow afternoon will prepare the field for the eight relays and six individual championship events starting at 8 p. m. in Purdue fieldhouse.

Indoor champions in the recent Western conference and Central Collegiate meets are scheduled to appear and several records, notably in the pole vault and high jump, may be broken. In the former event Bob Phelps of Illinois and John Schmidt of Ohio State, who shared the Western conference title and a week later tied for first in the Chicago relays, will continue their duel. They cleared 13 feet 9 inches in the conference pole vault. Billy Moore, formerly of Drake and now representing Western Michigan, threatens them. He won the National A. A. U. vault championship last year at 13 feet 10 inches, but failed at 13 feet in the Chicago relays a week ago.

Wiesner Heads High Jumpers.

Ken Wiesner of Marquette, holder of the National A. A. U. indoor high jump title at 6 feet 7 3-16 inches, heads this group altho he was beaten by Corp. Dwight Eddleman of Wright field last Saturday. Eddleman also is entered. Willis Bachman of Wisconsin, Western conference champion; Dick Kilpatrick, Purdue's indoor record holder; Melvin Groomes, Indiana freshman who tied for second in the conference indoor meet, and Armin Baumann, Minnesota's 1944 outdoor conference winner, will compete.

Russ Thomas of Ohio State, conference shotput champion, will be hard pushed to win from Vic Schleich of the Iowa Seahawks. Harold Fisher of Miami university, runner-up in the high and low hurdles in the National Collegiate meet last June in Milwaukee, strengthens the high hurdle field which includes George Walker of Illinois, conference indoor winner in the two hurdle events. Other hurdlers are Dave Nichols, Walker's teammate, who holds the national collegiate high hurdle title; Bob Cranston and Ray Tharp of Minnesota, and Bill Marcoux of Michigan.

Michigan Defends Title.

Bill Buster, Illinois' conference indoor sprint champion, tops this group. Other spr..ters are Chuck Beaudry of Marquette; Boris Dimancheff and Ben Harvey of Purdue; Julian Witherspoon of Michigan, and Mark Brownstein of Minnesota.

Michigan is defending team champion in the university division and will be pressed by Illinois, which was beaten by the Wolverines in the conference meet. Michigan's strength is in the middle distance runs and its relay teams are built around Ross and Bob Hume, co-holders of the conference mile record. Dick Barnard, Archie Parsons, and Bob Thomason of Michigan tied for third place in the mile, thus giving the Wolverines a sweep of five places for the only time in Big Ten history. Michigan should take the two mile relay, which it won in New York's Millrose games.

MAURIELLO, 14-5 UNDERDOG, WINS OVER LEE OMA

New York, March 23 (AP).—A rejuvenated Tami Mauriello, cast in the role of 14 to 5 underdog, jumped back into the heavyweight picture tonight with a decisive 10 round decision over Lee Oma in their third and rubber bout in Madison Square Garden.

The largest crowd of the year, 18,291, paid $101,918, also high for 1945, to see the two heavyweights put on an action crammed bout.

In top condition at 199½ pounds, Mauriello, a New Yorker who thought of retiring after losing to Oma in their last meeting, punished the Detroiter unmercifully with long overhand rights to the ribs and head. He had Oma, 181, hanging on in the closing rounds.

Mauriello lost the third round because of a low blow, but despite this won a unanimous decision.

Hugh Califf (46) of St. Philip is first up in air after rebound in last night's Catholic league junior championship basketball game with Leo and gets a basket on this follow shot. Others are Dick Flando (40) and Mike Stenson (41) of St. Philip and Bob Kozlowski (7), Dick Kloser (8), and Pat McGinnis (16) of Leo, who had same idea, but were little slower in going after ball. Leo won, 30 to 28.

SLOW STUFF IS OUT FOR CUBS FROM NOW ON

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

French Lick, Ind., March 23.—The days of lobbed pitches are over in the Cub training camp here. When the batters step up to the plate in Sunday's long delayed second intra-club game they are going to look at the full assortments possessed by such able pitching gents as Eddie Hanyzewski, George Hennessey, Paul Derringer, and Mack Stewart.

During the last week of bright sunshine and clouds, hot weather and chilly, these pitchers have kept steadily at their task to get their arms in shape. Sunday, Skipper Charley Grimm says, all will be invited to cut loose with everything they have in their pitching albums —curve balls, high and low, knuckles and palm balls, a full range of change of pace stuff, too. Hanyzewski and Hennessey [the latter it is who has the aforesaid "palm ball," a pitch which is said to act like a knuckler] will pitch for the A team while Derringer and Stewart will do their stuff for the B team.

Ah! a Starting Lineup.

Here is the way the lads will line up, the absence from the lineups of Roy Hughes being due to the fact that he has gone to Cincinnati because of the death of his father:

A TEAM—Garriott, cf; Johnson, 2b; Cavarretta, 1b; Secory, lf; Pafko, rf; Gillespie, c; Ostrowski, 3b; Merullo, ss; Hanyzewski and Hennessey, p.

Andy Works a Miracle.

Groundkeeper - Umpire - Trainer Andy Lotshaw won his bet with Manager Grimm that he would have the water bailed off the recently re-inundated practice field, but the latter deemed the area bit too spongy for safety. Today's sunshine and warm air was expected to have everything in usable shape tomorrow and certainly in perfect condition for Sunday's nine inning encounter.

Announcements from Bloomington that the Cincinnati Reds intend to move in on the Cub field after abandoning their own on the Indiana university campus were taken calmly, the Cubs having been ac-

Leo Juniors Beat St. Philip, 30-28, for Title

The theme of what fast was becoming an old story changed last night as a Leo High school basketball team, in the sixth attempt of the season, defeated a St. Philip High school five.

It took the Leo juniors, who beat the Gael juniors, 30 to 28, before 2,000 fans who packed the Loyola gymnasium, to do the job after their older schoolmates three times had failed and they themselves had been unsuccessful in two previous attempts.

The Gaels, who made a great bid to sweep the series, took a 2 to 0 lead when Don Redmond scored on a set shot. The score was tied three times in the first period before St. Philip emerged with a 10 to 9 lead.

Moskal Sparks Leo Spurt.

Starting the second quarter, Leo ran up a 16 to 10 lead, and was never headed thereafter. St. Philip rallied, cutting the score to 16 to 14 as the half ended, and tying the count at 18-all early in the third period. Here Ted Moskal, Leo forward, who led the scorers with 16 points, came thru with eight points on two pivot shots, a one handed flip, and an overhead toss under the basket, to give the Lions a safe margin, the quarter ending with the score 26 to 18.

As the fourth period opened, Mike Stenson counted for St. Philip and Moskal tallied again for Leo. With the score 28 to 20, the game became a battle between an effective Leo stall and the efforts of Gael Coach Clem Naughton, who made unlimited substitutions in attempts to stop the clock on every whistle. Time ran out on a belated Gael rally that netted six points to the Lions' two.

Interleague Games Next.

The prep basketball season will conclude the night of April 7, when the Catholic league junior and senior champions meet the City league champions in the Chicago Stadium in Mayor Kelly's annual charity double header. In the first game Leo's juniors will meet Marshall, public school junior champions, followed by the senior contest between St. Philip and Senn.

WILLIS BEATEN BY TERRANOVA IN TEN ROUNDS

Detroit, Mich., March 23 (AP).—Phil Terranova of New York snapped the 16 bout winning streak of Leroy Willis, Detroit Negro, tonight as he pounded out a decisive 10 round decision before 9,798 fans at Olympia. Terranova weighed 126¾, Willis, 129.

Terranova spotted Willis a five inch height advantage but carried a two fisted attack to the Detroiter to earn a unanimous decision. Referee Sam Hennessey gave Terranova 54 points to 46 for Willis, while judges' cards showed 56 to 44 and 51 to 49 margins for the veteran New Yorker.

GOLDEN GLOVERS HEAR A LECTURE ON TEAM SPIRIT

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The young men who comprise the 1945 Chicago Golden Gloves squad yesterday reached the training phase they all have sought — the first honest-to-goodness boxing they have enjoyed in their drills for the 18th annual Intercity bouts against New York's best in the Chicago Stadium on April 4. They were allotted only one three minute round each in the ring set up in the Illinois Athletic club gymnasium, but every one of them made the most of those 180 seconds inside the ropes.

More important than the actual physical conditioning they underwent yesterday, however, was the pre-workout lecture delivered by Capt. John Behr, head coach of Golden Gloves Intercity, International, and Olympic squads for many a year. In that brief talk, the captain emphasized the importance of the job ahead of this 1945 squad, if it would add another triumph against New York to Chicago's already imposing record of 10 victories and three ties in the 17 arguments with the easterners.

Team Spirit Counts Most.

"The big thing for all to remember," Capt. Behr said, "is the development of a real team spirit. That spirit is the big item we've sought for years, and I think Chicago's record in the Intercity series will bear out its importance.

"The coaches will follow the same procedure this year they have in the past. We won't try to change any boxer's style. Our job is to bring you up to the New York fights in the best possible condition for three rounds of three minutes each. We'll expect all of you to go to work on that team idea right now. Every boy, regardless of his weight, should do everything possible to help every other boy on the team. Let's go!"

Jackie Boyd, the 17 year old Chicagoan from the Madison Athletic club who climaxed a two year struggle to win a Chicago Golden Glove by his victory in the local 112 pound

SWEDISH STAR WINS IN 4:16.7 IN CLEVELAND

Defeats Efaw in a Slow Mile.

In the feature race of the fifth annual Knights of Columbus games, Gunder's time was 4 minutes, 16.7 seconds, 2.2 seconds slower than his figure at Chicago last week when he finished 12 feet behind Jimmy Rafferty of New York, winner of the previous three miles in which Hagg had competed on his current tour.

Takes Lead, Holds It.

The Swedish star took the lead for good at the eighth lap after he had motioned to Rudy Simms of New York university to set the pace. Simms did not comply and Hagg was forced to set his own pace.

Before the event Hagg said he intended to take the lead at the sixth lap. He had hoped to turn in a 4:12 mile but said the straightaways on the arena track were too short for his liking.

Hagg was clocked in 65 seconds for the quarter and 2:20 for the half. Before the event he said he was worried about the time he would make for the first half. His time for the three-quarter mark was 3:20.

Dugger Defeats Lidman.

Rudy Simms of New York ran second to Hagg until the ninth lap, when Efaw took over the place position. Efaw made a strong bid for the race on the last lap and only a last kick by Hagg enabled him to turn back Efaw's challenge.

Hurdler Haakon Lidman, Hagg's countryman, was defeated in the 45 yard high hurdles by Ed Dugger of Dayton, the national indoor champion. Dugger's time was 5.7 seconds.

MILE RUN—Won by Hagg, Sweden; second, Efaw, Bainbridge Naval Training station; third, Simms, New York A. C. Time, 4:16.7.

REVOLTA TAKES LEAD WITH 68 AT GREENSBORO

Greensboro, N. C., March 23 (AP).—Johnny Revolta, one-putting on nine greens, breezed in with a three under par 68 today to grab a two shot lead in the first round of the $7,500 Greensboro Open golf tournament. The Evanston, Ill., putting star sank 20 footers on the ninth and 13th holes and needed only seven putts on the last six greens as he made his best start since winning the Texas open last year. He went out in 35 and came back in 33.

In second place were two former winners here, Sammy Byrd and Byron Nelson, and an amateur from Raleigh, N. C., Avery Beck.

TEAM SPIRIT IS WATCHWORD OF EAST'S GLOVERS

2 Marine Champions Due Any Minute.

BY BILL MURTHA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bear Mountain, N. Y., March 23.—There is a contagious atmosphere of confidence about the 1945 New York Golden Gloves squad that means no good for Chicago's fighters. The young men can fight, as they proved in the Eastern Tournament of Champions, but more impressive to the coaches is the genuine team spirit they've developed in their short stay here. As one of the coaches said this morning: "Hurt one of them and you hurt them all."

Some of New York's woes in previous meetings with the western champions could be traced directly to lack of team spirit. It isn't true of this bunch. If it were possible every one of them would like a crack at a Chicago opponent. Knowing that all of them can't fight on April 4 [there are 31 on the squad and only 16 inter-city bouts], they want New York to make the best possible showing and, if it means stepping aside for a teammate, that will be done cheerfully.

Expect Two Marines Soon.

The New Yorkers still are awaiting the arrival of the marine contingent from Cherry Point, N. C., but it is expected over the weekend. The Flying Leathernecks have two champions, Howard Brodt, a middleweight, and Laverne Roach, a 147 pounder.

Elbert Highers, who put on a terrific scrap with Eddie Murphy, the New York lightweight champion, is expected to have a lot to say about an alternate berth, either as a lightweight or a welter. Highers is a bit hefty for a 135 pounder but could get up to 144 pounds and still keep his speed.

Jimmy's a Trifle Hefty.

Every one boxed today and a few of the lads showed they needed additional work. Jimmy White, one of the candidates for the light heavy post behind Champion Roland Lastarza, will have to pare off considerable weight. He looked awkward and slow in the ring today, but some of his ungainliness could be traced to the layers of clothing he had swathed around him.

Jorge La Porte, the Puerto Rican flyweight, continued to cheer the New York coaches with his showing. In the ring with Frank Stephano, rugged New York bantam, he gave another exhibition of the speed and punching power that seems to have assured him of a flyweight spot in the Chicago Stadium.

Gloves Squad Hears About Team Spirit

class finals on March 9, found as his opponent Joe Plummer, 118 pounds, another 'teen-ager from the Catholic Youth organization. For three minutes neither spared the other. Another spirited round found Bernie Paige of Chicago's Savoy A. C., the lightweight champion, throwing punches at Bob Manti of Milwaukee.

Scally Joins Squad.

Other one round exchanges pitted Frank Rivera of Kansas City against Spider Thomas of Muncie, Ind., Bob Jarvis of Kansas City against Wray Carter of Chicago, Jack Darthard of Kansas City against Bob Crosley of Ft. Wayne, Bob Cotton of Indianapolis against Bob Pyke of Muncie, Paul Thomas of Milwaukee against Sgt. George Siebert of Chanute field, and Luke Baylark of the Savoy A. C. the Chicago heavyweight champ, against Pvt. Max Klemm of Chanute field.

Coach Behr and his associates—Fred Caserio, Issy Kline, Dick Fitzpatrick, Pop Howard, and Eddie Nichols—were considerably cheered by the midafternoon arrival of Roscoe Scally, Los Angeles lightweight, a truck driver who was one of the punching sensations of the March 9 finals. Scally will have his first road workout this morning along with the rest of the team in a Grant park jaunt directed by Coach Caserio.

NORTH CENTRAL HOST TODAY TO 10 TRACK TEAMS

More than 100 athletes, representing 11 colleges, will compete this afternoon in the eighth annual meet at Naperville. Until 1942 the invitational was known as the Midwest Relays and the event was held last year.

Preliminaries will begin at 12:30, with finals scheduled to begin at 2. Competing schools will be North Central, Wheaton, Elmhurst, Lawrence, Cornell [Iowa], Monmouth, Concordia, University of Chicago, De Kalb, Augustana, and Morton Junior college.

CATHOLIC SWIM TEAMS TO OPEN MEET TONIGHT

Fenwick High school, which has won the Catholic league senior swimming title 12 times in the last 13 years, again will be in the role of favorite when the 20th annual league swimming meet opens tonight in the Loyola university pool.

The preliminaries will start at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Finals will be tomorrow, starting at 2:30 p. m.

Other schools entered are Loyola, which in 1937 dealt the Friars their lone title setback; De Paul academy, and St. George.

SOLDIERS BEAT BUDAS.

ZOLLNERS AND ACME FIVES GAIN TOURNEY FINALS

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

The Fort Wayne, Ind., Zollners, defending champions, and the Dayton, O., Acmes will meet tonight in the Chicago Stadium for the National Professional basketball championship. The Zollners defeated the New York Rens, 68 to 45, and the Acmes had even less trouble beating the American Gears of Chicago, 80 to 51, in last night's semi-finals.

Both semi-finalist winners broke the scoring record for the seven year old tournament. The Zollners, playing in the first game, shaved one point off the mark held by the Rens, 1939 champions, after which the Ohio squad made the new mark.

After a close first quarter which ended with the Acmes leading, 15 to 14, the game became a virtual rout. Dayton added 18 in the second quarter to lead at the half, 33 to 24, and poured in 47 points in the second half while holding the Chicagoans to 27. Forward Bob McNeill led the victors with 23 points and Center John Mahnken counted 22.

The Zollners-Rens engagement was contested once more vigorously. A first quarter surge by the Hoosiers, in which they made 17 points to the New Yorkers' 7, put the 1939 titleholders in their places. They never were able to catch up tho Puggy Bell of the Rens managed to share scoring honors with Bob McDermott, each scoring six field goals and four free throws.

The championship game will start at 9:15 o'clock after the consolation game between the American Gears and New York Rens, set for 8:15 p. m.

GUARDSMEN AND BADGER RINGMEN BOX TO 4-4 DRAW

Madison, Wis., March 23 [Special].—The University of Wisconsin boxing team held the United States Coast Guard academy from New London, Conn., to a 4-4 draw tonight before 3,500.

Three eastern champions were beaten, Akio Konoshima of Wisconsin knocking out J. Brian O'Hara in 41 seconds of the first round, Lloyd Swetman of Wisconsin beating Allen Pearce in the lightweight division, and Carl Kulawinski of the Badgers scoring a decision over John Wright of the academy in a light heavy match.

MAT CHAMPIONS MEET SUCCESS IN A. A. U. MEET

Dallas, Tex., March 23 (AP).—Defending champions won their opening bouts in the National A. A. U. wrestling tournament tonight as 32 bouts cut the field more than half.

Dr. M. A. Northrup of San Francisco, 175 pound champion last year, eliminated Bill Bond of Camp Shelby, Miss., by scoring a fall in 5 minutes and 10 seconds. Northrup is now wrestling in the 165 pound class.

Vernon Cronhardt of Baltimore, Md., the 1944 135 pound champion, competing with the 145 pounders this year, drew a bye in the first round and advanced to the semi-finals by pinning Richard Schweisberger of Blackwell, Okla., in 7½ minutes.

Buddy Bomar Turns In 300 Game; That Makes 34

Buddy Bomar, Chicago's national singles and doubles match game bowling champion, yesterday rolled his 34th perfect game in Faetz recreation, where, on March 31 and April 1, he will engage Andy Varipapa of Hempstead, L. I., in the second half of their 54 game match.

Lamotta and Costner Start Tapering Off

Jack Lamotta, converted southpaw middleweight contender from New York, who knocked down a sparmate with a left hook on Thursday, demonstrated he can hit equally hard with his right when he floored Verne Patterson in his semi-final workout in C. Y. O. center gymnasium yesterday.

Both men will end workouts today. Lamotta, who boxed six rounds yesterday, will cut his ring routine to four rounds.

TROUBLE IS BREWING FOR HOLY TRINITY OPPONENTS

Trinity Starts First Football Drill Since '22

If spirit and enthusiasm, plus experienced coaching, helps to make a winning team, Holy Trinity will be a power for Catholic league opponents to reckon with in the years to come. The newest member of the league, which makes its debut next fall, already has football practice under way on a daily basis in Humboldt park.

Time was when Holy Trinity had its own athletic spirit and tradition. That was 23 years ago before football was abandoned. Since then the near northwest-side Catholic school has had unheralded basketball and baseball squads. But today there is a new spirit behind its first football eleven since 1922.

This is due mainly to two of the newer members of the teaching staff of 14, Brother Ambrose, C. S. C., athletic director, and Brother Barthomew, C. S. C. Both received their university educations at Notre Dame, coming from the South Bend campus five years ago.

Results of their efforts is evident when Coach Frank Haggerty puts his squad of 27 players thru their exercises. The squad originally numbered more than 50, but lack of uniforms necessitated the cut to the present size. As soon as more equipment is available, thru funds being raised by Brother Barthomew, the squad will return to its former size.

He has no fears of meeting defending champion Weber in the second game on the schedule. As a matter of fact, he feels his record of never having coached a losing team may be enhanced. But right now Holy Trinity's problem is getting the boys football wise.

HOLD FUNERAL SERVICES TODAY FOR GOLF STAR

Yemassee, S. C., March 23 (AP).—Funeral services will be held tomorrow in Ardsley, N. Y., for Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd Howe, 62, famous woman golfer, who was killed here under the wheels of a train she was reported to be planning to take for New York. The accident occurred last Tuesday.

Mrs. Howe, who was staying in near-by Beaufort, fell beneath an Atlantic Coast Line passenger train just as it was pulling out.

In three decades the international golfer won more than 700 prizes. She was the only woman ever to win the British, American, and Canadian championships.

SERVICES FOR HAGBERG WILL BE HELD TODAY

Funeral services for Charles Hagberg, 65, will be held this afternoon at 1:30 p. m. by the Paramount lodge, 1015, in the funeral home at 42d st. and Cottage Grove av.

Hagberg, who 40 years ago was prominent in midwestern wrestling circles as the Terrible Swede, died of a heart attack in his home, 4504 Lake Park av., Wednesday afternoon. He had retired from the Elevated Transit company two years ago.

April 8 Is Last Day to Enter Wiesner Pin Meet

The deadline for entries for the second annual Milo Wiesner Recreation individual bowling tournament will close midnight Sunday, April 8. The event is for bowlers with an average under 176, and will be six games across 12 lanes. An estimated prize list of $4,000 will be paid, with entry fee of $7.50, including all expenses. The tournament will run April 21-22, 28-29, May 5-6, and 12-13, at 823 W. 35th st.

DONOGHUE DIES AT 60; BRITAIN'S PREMIER JOCKEY

LONDON, March 23 (AP).—Steve Donoghue, famous jockey who had won six British Derbys, died today at the age of 60 after an illness of only 24 hours.

Steve Donoghue.

Donoghue rode his first Derby mount in 1910, finishing third, and brought home his first winners during the war years of 1915 and 1917. His feat of riding three successive winners—in 1921, 1922, and 1923—has never been equaled, and his record of riding six winners has been equaled only once.

A native of Warrington, Lancashire, Donoghue became an exercise boy when he was 13 years old. He rode in his first race at the age of 22, coming home the winner, and from then until 1938, when he became a trainer, booted 1,840 horses first past the post.

Canadiens to Face Leafs in Battered State

MONTREAL, March 23 (AP).—The Montreal Canadiens, two down in their Stanley cup semi-final series with the Toronto Maple Leafs, had further griefs heaped upon them tonight in the form of an imposing injury list as they set out for Toronto and the third game Saturday night.

Coach Dick Irvin announced that Frankie Eddoll's bad ankle was worse, Buddy O'Connor was out for the season with an injured knee, Elmer Lach had a badly swollen ankle, and Toe Blake was suffering from a heavy cold.

Stahan for Eddolls.

Frank [Butch] Stahan of the Montreal Royals probably will replace Eddolls, who suffered a broken ankle bone in the last two weeks of the regular season. He came back for the play-offs, but was forced to favor his ankle considerably in the first two games.

Buddy O'Connor, center of the Canadien second line, suffered his knee injury late in last night's game after he was checked into the boards. The Canadiens probably will bring up Johnny Mahaffy from the Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey league.

Lach's Ankle Injured.

Lach's ankle has been troubling him for the last two or three games, which may account in part for the comparatively poor showing of the powerful Richard-Lach-Blake combination in the first two play-off games.

PAYNE, SCALES WIN MATCHES AT MADISON A. C.

Leroy Scales, city Golden Gloves light heavyweight winner, was awarded a split decision over Thomas Pate, also of Milwaukee, in a five round event to give Chicago boxers a victory over the Milwaukee standard bearers, four bouts to one. Results:

GENTILE UPSET BY LASER IN HANDBALL PLAY

Ray Laser of Lawson Y. M. C. A. Ray Laser of the Lawson Y. M. C. A. upset Trip Gentile, defending champion from Duncan Y. M. C. A., last night, 21-16, 21-7, in the semi-finals of the Central A. A. U. handball singles tourney in the Town club.

In the other semi-final match Tony Di Orio of Duncan beat Frank Turk of Lake Shore A. C., 21-17, 21-8. The finals will be played this afternoon at 3:30, following the consolation match at 2:30.

HOLD A. A. U. SWIM MEET TONIGHT IN LAWSON Y. M. C. A.

Outstanding swimmers of the Chicago area will compete for Central A. A. U. team and individual championships in a meet tonight in the pool of the Lawson Y. M. C. A., Chicago av. and Dearborn st. Preliminaries this afternoon will cut the fields in several of the more popular events to numbers low enough to be accommodated in the finals.

At Providence, R. I.—Joe Reddick knocked out Jimmy Hayden [0].

700 ENTERED IN OAK PARK PREP RELAYS TODAY

New Trier High school's track team, defending champions, will be in the role of underdogs today in the 15th annual Oak Park relays in the Oak Park fieldhouse at 1:30 p. m. In the role of favorite will be the host school, Oak Park, undefeated this season.

Glenn Holmes, Oak Park athletic director, yesterday said the field will be one of the largest entries in the meet's history. Forty-three schools will be represented by an estimated total of 700 contestants.

Two 1944 Champions Return.

Two performers who won individual titles last year will be back. They are Warren Ely of New Trier, who might break the relays shot put record of 53 feet 4½ inches, and Ed Ulvestad of Oak Park, who will attempt to better the record of 12 feet 9 inches he established last year.

One mark that might possibly fall is the mile record of 4:37.8, set in 1940. Oak Park's Connie Williams has bettered this time by more than two seconds so far this season.

43 Schools Represented.

Schools entered are Aurora East, Austin, Barrington, Batavia, Belvidere, Bensenville, Bloom, Blue Island, Crane, Crystal Lake, Downers Grove, Evanston, Geneva, Glenbard, Harrison, Hyde Park, Ainsdale, Highland Park, Joliet, Lake View, Lane, Leyden, Libertyville, Lincoln, Lindblom, Maine, Marshal, Morrison, Morton, Naperville, New Trier, Niles, Oak Park, Onarga Military academy, Phillips, Proviso, Schurz, Steinmetz, Thornton, Tilden, University High, Wheaton, and York.

Officials with the Cubs here say they have not been advised of the coming of any tenants and the hotel said today there has been no request by the Reds for reservations. Whether or not there are any other exhibitions involving the Cubs has not been announced, tho the arrangements may have been made thru the Chicago office without letting Manager Grimm in on the secret.

Greenleaf, Mosconi Split Pocket Billiard Matches

Ralph Greenleaf snapped Willie Mosconi's string of pocket billiard victories at seven yesterday, winning the afternoon block, 125 to 80, with a high run of 68, in Bensingers, 131 S. Wabash av. Mosconi came back in the evening session with a 125 to 5 victory.

Cards Give Up in Cairo; Head for St. Louis

Cairo, Ill., March 23 (AP).—The flooded out St. Louis Cardinals have given up hope of accomplishing a spring training program here and will move the camp to Sportsmans park, St. Louis, over the week-end.

The decision was made after the arrival today of President Sam Breadon to inspect the futile five day efforts of other club officials to drain seepage water off the park's outfield.

BRAVES ALL SFT.

PIRATES PACK PUNCH.

Muncie, Ind., March 23 (AP).—Advance notice of the rejuvenated batting power of the Pittsburgh Pirates arrived today in the form of consistent, hard clouts that landed against the McCulloch field scoreboard, fence, and bleachers.

MOTT JOINS PHILS.

Wilmington, Del., March 23 (AP).—Shortstop Bitsy Mott arrived in the Philadelphia Phillies camp today from his Tampa, Fla., home, bringing the Phils' infield complement to full strength.

Last year at Utica, Mott paired with Second Baseman Fred Daniels in what was recognized as the smoothest second base combination in the Eastern league.

DODGERS PATCH UP ROW.

Bear Mountain, N. Y., March 23 (AP).—Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Frenchy Bordagaray, who engaged in a verbal row yesterday, dismissed the incident as a trivial matter today.

TIGERS TO PLAY TODAY.

Evansville, Ind., March 23 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers, planning their first intra-squad game tomorrow, held a long fielding drill today.

General Manager Jack Zeller announced that Forrest Orrell, 26 year old righthander who won eight games against a single defeat last season with Buffalo, has passed his induction physical examination and is not expected to report for spring training.

ROSER JOINS YANKEES.

Atlantic City, N. J., March 23 (AP).—Emerson Roser, 210 pound right hander, had his first workout today as the New York Yankees resumed outdoor drills after two days inside the hangar because of rain. Classified 2-B in the draft, Roser had been working in a sheet metal plant in Utica, N. Y.

SENATORS FACE GUARDSMEN.

Washington, D. C., March 23 (AP).—The Washington Senators open their spring exhibition schedule tomorrow against the coast guard team at Curtis Bay, Md. Manager Ossie Bluege plans to use principally youngsters.

OKLAHOMA AND ARKANSAS GAIN N. C. A. A. FINALS

Kansas City, Mo., March 23 (AP).—Oklahoma A. & M. college, paced by Bob Kurland who scored 28 points, beat Utah, 62 to 37, tonight to enter the finals of the N. C. A. A. western division tournament after Arkansas university had piled up a record tournament score to beat Oregon university, 79 to 76.

GRAY LEADS WAY AS BROWNS BEAT TOLEDO, 12 TO 1

Cape Girardeau, Mo., March 23 (AP).—The St. Louis Browns whipped their Toledo farm club of the American association for the third straight time today, 12 to 1.

Manager Luke Sewell used only veteran hurlers, Al Hollingsworth and Tex Shirley, in the six inning affair and each allowed the minor leaguers three hits. The American league champions collected 16 blows, three of them by Pete Gray, one armed center fielder. Score:

Toledo [A. A.]	000	001	1 6 2
St. Louis [A. L.]	340	33*—13	16 0

GIANTS MEET NAVY NINES.

Lakewood, N. J., March 23 (AP).—Following a brisk hour workout, the New York Giants' squad of 25 and six Jersey City players left today for Bainbridge, Md., in a bus provided by the United States Naval Training center for a three game series.

Napoleon Reyes, third baseman who is suffering from an abscess as a result of having a tooth pulled, and Joe Medwick, who is recovering from a dislocated sacroiliac, didn't accompany the squad.

A's BEAT COAST GUARD.

Baltimore, Md., March 23 (AP).—The Philadelphia Athletics turned back the Curtis Bay [Md.] coast guard team today, 14 to 13, in the first game of the season for both.

The A's came thru with the winning run in the eighth after a free hitting seventh inning in which 24 batters came to the plate. Charley Metro, who is fighting for a regular post with the Athletics, turned in the best performance.

Ohio State to Play N. Y. U. in Garden Finals

New York, March 23 (AP).—Ohio State and New York university play for the eastern N. C. A. A. basketball championship in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night, and seldom have teams with such different styles of attack participated in a title game.

The New York Violets rely on slick ball handling, quick cutting, and set shooting for their points. The Ohioans, second to Iowa in the Big Ten race during the season, employ driving aggressiveness with emphasis on rebounds.

16 Year Old Leads Violets.

Big Arnold Risen, 6 foot 9 inch center, is the Buckeyes' leading marksman, getting a majority of his points from the pivot. Adolph Schayes, 16 year old freshman, is the tallest of the Violets, but he reaches only 6 feet 5½ inches.

However, Al Grenert's presence in the New York lineup makes his club a slight favorite. Grenert has broken two school scoring records this season and tied a third.

DALLMAR IS VERSATILE.

Howard Dallmar, Penn's 6 feet 4 basketball captain and center, is also a baseball player. When he was at Stanford he played first base and the outfield and was being watched by major league scouts before he enlisted in the navy.

OUTPUT OF WAR GOODS 'ABOUT' PEAK, SAYS WPB

Limited by Material and Man Power.

Washington, D. C., March 23 (AP).—War production has just about reached the peak, the war production board said today.

Limiting factors are raw materials, man power, and an already restricted civilian economy, it said.

Diversion of resources and consequent cuts in supplies available for war-supporting and essential civilian activities already have been carried to a point "where any further widespread squeeze will probably result in reducing, rather than increasing, total munitions output," WPB reported.

Seek More for Civilians.

Hiland G. Batcheller, chief of operations, said in a monthly summary on munitions programs that WPB and the military agencies are studying means of providing civilians with "minimum needs." This involves a review of military programs to determine what adjustments can be made to provide a little more than at present for civilians.

The cumulative effect of the hard winter and nuisance strikes is making it difficult to meet the higher munitions output schedules for 1945, Batcheller said, but despite everything, the daily output in February was higher than in January.

The over-all munitions output totaled 4 billion, 736 million dollars, compared with 4 billion, 329 million in January and 4 billion, 864 million in December.

Heavy Truck Output Falls.

Army extra heavy trucks [10 tons and above] had the only really bad record among the critical programs, falling 14 per cent below January and 16 per cent behind schedule.

Other February production compared with January:

Ships [including maintenance and repair], 870 million and 919 million.

Guns and fire control, 256 million and 254 million.

Ammunition, 658 million and 650 million.

Combat and motor vehicles, 462 million and 451 million.

Communication and electronic equipment, 340 million and 353 million.

Other equipment and supplies, 977 million and 994 million.

Ward, Army Dispute Over Tax Continues

The controversy between Montgomery Ward & Co. and the army over sales, excise, and use tax funds collected and held by the army developed yesterday into a series of answers and counter-answers, with Ward apparently gaining part of its objective in obtaining funds it contends are due from the army.

An army spokesman disclosed the company had given it some of the information requested as to the kind and amount of taxes involved, and that the amount represented will be credited or paid in cash to the company. The army will settle for the remainder as soon as Ward provides information still lacking, he said.

Maj. Gen. Joseph W. Byron, in charge of Ward's seized properties, answered with a series of counter proposals the company's demands for the return of $346,433 in taxes collected and held by the army. The company said it has paid them to proper authorities out of its own funds.

Harold L. Pearson, vice president and treasurer of Ward, said the company was replying to the army that the proposals did not accede to Ward's demand and therefore were not acceptable to the company.

The effect of this will be to create a condition that will require the army to pay its own taxes, he said. Neither Pearson nor the army would disclose the contents of Gen. Byron's letter.

ARMY PURCHASE OF SOFT WHEAT FLOUR TO START

Purchase of straight grade soft wheat flour will be started Monday by the Chicago quartermaster depot, central procurement agency for flour and grain for the military and civilians in liberated areas, the depot announced yesterday. Brig. Gen. J. E. Barzynski, commander, said the purchases will be used to augment food supplies for liberated European civilians who are familiar with soft wheat flour. Heretofore liberated civilians have been getting mostly regular type flour made from hard and durum wheat.

Whiting Votes Dividends, Proposes 4 for 1 Splitup

Whiting corporation directors yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of 30 cents and an extra of 50 cents on common stock. They proposed to increase the number of common shares from 150,000 to 600,000 and to issue four new shares for each outstanding. The split proposal will be submitted to stockholders at the annual meeting June 26.

DODGE CHICAGO SHIPS 10,000TH ENGINE FOR B-29 SUPER BOMBERS

The 10,000th Wright engine used to power B-29 bombers was shipped yesterday from the Dodge Chicago plant, K. T. Keller, president of the Chrysler corporation, disclosed after a meeting of the Chrysler board of directors at the plant.

"Production of Wright B-29 engines at the Dodge Chicago plant has reached its peak well ahead of schedule," Keller said. "The big job now is for the 32,000 employes at the plant, of whom more than 99 per cent are Chicago people, to maintain this peak rate of production."

Only a little more than 2½ years ago the Dodge Chicago plant was a set of blueprints, Keller said. Now it is one of the world's largest manufacturing operations. It is operated as a Chrysler division with L. L. Colbert in charge.

Keller also told the directors of the many other products shipped by Chrysler divisions to the army and navy. Among them were: More than 24 million spare parts for B-29 engines; 2,000 B-29 assemblies consisting of nose sections, leading wing edges and cowling sets; 23,000 tanks; 12,000 tank engines; 170,000 rockets; 50,000 Bofors guns; 3 billion rounds of ammunition; 2,000 radar units, and 400,000 Dodge trucks.

FREEING OF SOME FRENCH, BELGIAN FUNDS EXPECTED

Washington, D. C., March 23 [Special].—The treasury tomorrow is expected to start to "unfreeze" many millions of dollars of blocked French and Belgian assets held in this country.

An informed official said it would "definitely not" be a complete release of the frozen assets, but would "start opening up blocked accounts for limited and regulated transactions." Licenses still would be required.

The assets were frozen by the treasury's foreign funds control during the occupation of France and Belgium by German troops on the theory that many transactions involving French and Belgian assets during that period would be fraudulent and, tho otherwise represented, often in the interest of persons who obtained control under duress.

October Egg Futures Dip for 4th Consecutive Day

The price of October refrigerator shell egg futures declined for the fourth consecutive day yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. The close was 42.35 cents a dozen, off 0.35 cent, on sales of 159 cars.

Banana Imports Mount; More Ships Are in Use

Washington, D. C., March 23 (AP).—More bananas are being imported, the department of commerce said today, because more ships are available.

Few Factories to Obtain Cost of Peace Shift

The government expects to allow reconversion costs to war contractors only in exceptional cases, Col. Maurice Hirsch, chairman of the war contracts price adjustment board, yesterday told a Chicago Association of Commerce war problems school session in the Palmer House.

"When a manufacturer who converted to war production is left with a facility which he cannot use for any foreseeable purpose in his peace time business, the government does recognize such a condition as an element of cost," he said. "But virtually no such cases have been uncovered in contracts terminated so far.

Some Costs Not Chargeable.

"In the case in which the manufacturer had to rearrange his plant substantially to undertake war production, it is not likely that reconversion will be charged to the war."

Hirsch said that costs incurred in converting to war production were absorbed by the subsequent manufacture of such goods, and that for the same reason reconversion costs should be absorbed by the subsequent peace time production.

"Private industry should not, and I do not believe it does, expect the government to subsidize industry's reëntry into peace time activity," Hirsch said.

Factors Considered Listed.

Factors which will be considered as items in renegotiating 1944 profits, include quality and quantity of production, utilization of man power, use of existing facilities, capital invested, risk assumed, and pricing policies.

"The manufacturer who follows a close pricing program and gives the government the benefit of a reduction as soon as it becomes available instead of waiting until the end of the year may expect affirmative dollar consideration from the renegotiation board," Hirsch explained.

He commended industry for its attitude toward renegotiation, saying a number of manufacturers had come to him to tell him they "did not want a dollar that could be considered excess profit."

WESTERN GRAIN MEN PLEAD FOR MORE BOXCARS

Kansas City, Mo., March 23 (AP).—A new plea for boxcars to "relieve the most alarming situation in the history of the grain trade" was made today by western grain and milling men, who asked 2,500 cars a day from the east.

Vast stores of grain are in danger of spoiling if not moved to market soon, said a statement prepared by 40 grain and milling men and sent to railroad supervisory organizations.

"Everything Possible" Being Done.

Washington, D. C., March 23 (AP).—The Association of American Railroads today said "everything possible" is being done to send more box cars to the west for grain. A spokesman for the association said 30,000 empty cars have been moved into the west in the last 30 days.

STOCK LEADERS RISE AGAIN, BUT GAIN IS SMALL

Turnover Lightest Since October.

New York, March 23 (AP).—Leading stocks advanced fractionally again in today's market, but slowness of the comeback was discouraging to bullish interests.

Prices firmed after a hesitant opening. Lack of activity brought selling in the final hour and top prices were trimmed on many issues. The ticker tape stood still at frequent intervals and turnover of 680,000 shares was the smallest for a full session since last Oct. 31. The Thursday turnover was 830,000.

Short Covering Aids Rise.

Short covering for week-end protection was a factor. Bids also were inspired by earnings and dividend hopes, in addition to the belief the market may have been oversold, it was said.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was up 0.2 to 60.5, first advance since last Saturday. Of 863 issues appearing, 404 were higher against 459 down or unchanged.

Austin Nichols preferred rose 9 points on small odd lot sales. Plymouth Oil and Hudson Motors reached peaks for 1945. In front were Southern Railway, Santa Fe, K. C. Southern, General Motors, Chrysler, International Harvester, Grumman Aircraft, Texas company, International Nickel, Montgomery Ward, du Pont, and J. C. Penney.

BOND MARKET QUIET.

New York, March 23 (AP).—Bond market volume fell off further today. The corporate list had a number of firm spots with some rails advancing fractions to more than a point. The Associated Press rail and industrial averages each advanced 0.1 point.

Some Brazilian issues fell on small transactions while loans of Peru, Poland, and Canada improved. United States government loans were steady.

CHICAGO LIST MIXED.

Prices were mixed in narrow trading and light turnover yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Volume leaders included Chicago corporation preferred, up 1; Aviation corporation, unchanged; Binks Manufacturing, down ⅝, and Commonwealth Edison, down ¼. Santa Fe closed at a new 1945 high of 86¼, up 2¼.

First Cognac from France in 4½ Years Is Received

New York, March 23 (AP).—The first French cognac and perfume to arrive in this country in four and a half years was unloaded today at the East river—marking resumption of trade between the two countries. It will take about three months to clear the rare, pre-war brandy thru customs, price it with the help of the OPA, and distribute it among retailers.

Global Money Plans Assailed as Tending to Totalitarianism

Washington, D. C., March 23 (AP).—W. L. Hemingway, St. Louis banker, told congress today the Bretton Woods proposal for an international currency stabilization fund tends toward "managed economy and that is totalitarianism."

W. L. Hemingway.

"We see here an economic super-state imposing its will on its members and the members in turn adopting or extending a program for managed currency," he said.

Hemingway, who is president of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust company, St. Louis, and past president of the American Bankers' association, appeared before the house banking committee with other witnesses for the A. B. A.

Single Agency Proposed.

The A. B. A. has urged that the currency stabilization activities proposed in a separate fund be embodied in the bank for reconstruction and development loans, where the United States would have veto power over all the dollars it subscribes to the international bank and stabilization operations.

Hemingway made these points:

1. An applicant for a stabilization loan "does not put up collateral, but merely its own note without maturity, nonnegotiable and noninterest bearing, altho it really pays a low interest rate in the form of charges." He contended that this is not the way to lend money and said: "There is no distinction between those countries having good credit based on past performance and those having poor credit."

"Difficult to Interpret."

2. The fund proposal is "very difficult to interpret." He said discussions in this country and in England "are evidence that there is already a difference of understanding between two of the principal members of the fund."

3. Too much power is delegated to the executive director, who would act for the United States if the fund is approved as proposed.

Rep. Crawford [R., Mich.], banking committee member, displayed before the committee reproductions of Detroit papers containing accounts of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau's appearance in the Michigan city for a Bretton Woods speech.

Describing treasury distribution of this material as "diabolical, un-American, and pressure of the highest order," he told the committee the taxpayers' money is being used for propaganda purposes.

AVERAGE HOUR, WEEK WAGES IN INDUSTRY REACH ALL-TIME HIGH

New York, March 23 (AP).—Average hourly and weekly earnings of wage workers in manufacturing industries attained all-time peaks of $1.099 and $50.80 respectively in January, the National Industrial Conference board reported today.

The board's monthly survey of 25 industries also showed "real" weekly earnings [dollar earnings adjusted for changes in living costs] rose 1.7 per cent over December and exceeded the former high of June, 1944. They were 5 per cent above January, 1944, and 35.1 per cent over January, 1941, base period of the Little Steel formula.

Hourly earnings rose 1.2 per cent from December and were 5.1 per cent higher than January, 1944, and 44.8 per cent over January, 1941.

NORTHWEST AIR ASKS FOR MORE ROUTES TO WEST

Des Moines, Ia., March 23 (AP).—Northwest Airlines today proposed expansion of its east-west service by adding routes from Spokane, Wash., to Milwaukee, Wis., and Chicago, crossing Montana, North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Illinois, and touching Iowa.

H. C. Timberlake, economist for Northwest, testified at a civil aeronautics board hearing on the company's application to operate additional east-west routes. One would extend from Milwaukee to Spokane by way of Green Bay and Superior, Wis.; Duluth, Minn.; Fargo, Grand Forks, Devil's Lake, Minot, and Williston, N. D., Glasgow, Havre, Great Falls, Cut Bank, and Kalispell, Mont.

Another route would connect Chicago and Butte, Mont., by way of Beloit, Wis., Minneapolis and St. Paul, Aberdeen, S. D., Billings and Bozeman, Mont.

EARNINGS DROP IN '44 REPORTED BY CONT'L OIL

Volume Sold Tops Billion Gallons.

Continental Oil company yesterday reported consolidated 1944 net earnings of $12,020,527, or $2.57 a share, compared with $14,080,702, or $3 a share, in 1943. The decrease resulted entirely from charging against current income all intangible costs on wells drilled which, in 1944, exceeded the preceding year by $7,003,080, the report said.

Sales of refined products last year totaled 1,010,505,951 gallons, compared with 912,333,632 in 1943. The largest gains were in aviation and 80 octane all-purpose military gasoline. Gross operating income rose to $131,773,875 from $119,487,984.

Parke, Davis Earnings Dip.

Parke, Davis & Co., Detroit pharmaceutical manufacturer, had 1944 net income of $7,607,079, or $1.55 a share, against $8,225,197, or $1.68 a share, in 1943, A. W. Lescohier, president, reported. Sales were $49,811,393, compared with the 1943 record total of $49,841,377.

Sales to the government were substantially lower, but this was offset by increased sales thru regular domestic and foreign channels, Lescohier said. Increased operating costs and in some cases decreased selling prices were among factors lowering the company's margin of profit, he said.

Holland Furnace company reported 1944 net income of $1,563,303, or $3.47 a share, against $1,552,853, or $3.45 a share, in 1943. Sales rose to $19,291,213 from $17,230,849. Tax provision in 1944 amounted to $1,000,225, compared with $994,729 a year earlier.

Joslyn Reports Gain.

Profit of Joslyn Manufacturing company, Chicago, was $911,595, or $5.28 a share, in 1944, compared with 1943 profit of $786,749, or $4.44 a share, M. L. Joslyn, president, reported. Sales increased to $28,231,214 from $25,754,211. Federal taxes totaled $1,454,190, or $9.69 a share, compared with $7.91 a share in 1943, while all taxes aggregated $1,747,-

UNITED APPEALS CAB DECISION ON ROUTE TO COAST

Contends Ruling Will Not Benefit Public.

The long fight of United Air Lines to incorporate the Denver-Los Angeles route into the company's transcontinental airway thru Chicago was taken by the company to the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia yesterday.

United asked the court to review civil aeronautics board orders which denied it the route and gave it to Western Air Lines and denied a plea for reargument. The company contended the board's order was not supported by substantial evidence and would not give maximum benefit to the public.

Maintains Decision Unwarranted.

"The statutory standard of public convenience and necessity does not warrant a decision that more than 50,000 passengers a year should be subjected to the inconvenience of connecting service to and from Los Angeles via Denver by United and Western when one carrier service by United is available," the petition said.

"Extension of the New York-Chicago-Denver portion of United's route directly to Los Angeles would create the shortest transcontinental air route between New York, Chicago, and Los Angeles."

The petition said the CAB could not legally base a decision on an assumption that United and Western will agree on all the terms and conditions of a complicated interchange agreement and on the assumption that "this imaginary agreement" will be approved by the CAB and continued in effect indefinitely.

Plea Filed in 1941.

United applied to the CAB for the Denver-Los Angeles route on April 7, 1941. An examiner for the CAB recommended United's petition be granted and that application of other companies be denied. The CAB decision denying United's application and giving the route to Western was issued Nov. 11, 1944. The board on Jan. 23, 1945, denied United's petition for reconsideration and re-argument.

SUPPLY OF HOGS 9,000; QUICKLY SOLD AT LIMITS

Little change occurred on markets for other meat animals, altho quality cattle declined as usual on Friday. Steers, heifers, cows, bulls, and calves were steady. The best steers sold at $16.75, and the bulk at $14.50 to $16.60. Some heifers reached $16.60.

Lamb prices which set a 16 year March peak Thursday held about steady, quality considered. The best loads sold at $17, but most sales were at $15.60 to $16.85. Old ewes sold for slaughter at $9.75.

Hayes Manufacturing to Enlarge Facilities

Hayes Manufacturing corporation has completed plans to enlarge plant facilities, Rensselaer W. Clark, president, said yesterday at the company's annual meeting.

GRAINS LOWER ON ALLIED GAINS, LIGHT SUPPORT

May Rye Climbs Early, Joins General Slump.

Lack of aggressive buying combined with allied war gains turned grain prices lower yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Buying of rye futures early sent the May option up ¾ cent a bushel to $1.17¾, a new high since last January, but heavy commission house selling caused a recession. The close was ⅛ higher to 1 cent lower, December leading the decline.

Wheat futures lost ⅝ to 1 cent, corn ¾ to ⅞, and oats ¼ to ½ cent. Barley finished ⅜ lower to ¼ higher.

Buying for Export Falls.

Heavy commercial buying of rye futures early in the week which disclosed big sales for export fell off. Belgium was reported to have purchased 325,000 bushels of milo maize recently thru the war food administration, and brokers expressed the belief the rye was handled in the same manner.

American mills were reported preparing for a record business in flour during the 1945-'46 crop year. Domestic, government, and export orders aggregating 300 million sacks, compared with 255 million sacks in 1944-'45 were predicted. The previous record was 260 million sacks in 1919.

Government purchases of flour for April shipment were estimated at 3¾ million sacks, and requirements for May are expected to be larger. In the last 10 days Canada has sold 17 million bushels of cash wheat to England.

Elevators Refuse Supplies.

Easiness in corn reflected liquidation attributed to a professional trader who switched from buying and to continued heaviness in the cash market. Cash prices there were ⅛ to 1 cent lower with brokers predicting still lower prices.

Many elevators in Iowa with no corn on hand, were reported refusing to accept grain from farmers until cars are available. When a car is placed at the elevator the farmer is told to rush in his corn, it was said. The method obviates the possibility of the corn deteriorating while it is in storage, elevator men said.

BIDDLE 'DREADS' U. S. REGULATION UNDER CARTELS

New York, March 23 (AP).—Atty. Gen. Biddle tonight said he viewed with "dread" what he called "a growing movement toward cartelization," with enormously increased government regulation of business.

Americans must decide "whether we really wish to continue with the competitive system of free enterprise," he told the New York state Liberal party's first annual dinner.

He warned that general cartelization would mean "increased regulation by the government, so that eventually the individual's choice of work, even his choice of where to work, will be directed.

"There is a movement on foot," he said, "which looks with favor on cartels and advocates the repeal of the Sherman anti-trust act; which would permit the fixing of prices, the allocation of territories, the control of particular markets; which says that monopolies are inevitable and should be regulated by further government control. We have had a taste of that kind of regulation in our brief but unhappy NRA experience."

REPRESENTS WORKERS.

The national labor relations board designated the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America as collective bargaining representative of nonoffice employes of W. Shannhouse Sons, Inc., Rockford, Ill. An election was conducted March 6.

ELECTRONS AT WORK—9.

[E. H. SCOTT RADIO.]

A registration statement filed recently for 225,000 shares of the $1 par capital stock of E. H. Scott Radio Laboratories, Inc., with the securities and exchange commission, prepared the way for the first public offering of the securities of this Chicago enterprise. Before turning to war production almost exclusively, the company had concentrated on the development and manufacture of receiving sets in the higher price range, including the 33 tube Scott Philharmonic, combining amplitude modulation and frequency modulation.

Of the shares included in the planned public offering, 148,150 were provided by the company, increasing the amount to be outstanding to 400,000 shares. The remainder, 76,850 shares, came from the holdings of two individual stockholders and from Darr Aero Tech, Inc.

The public offering price is $3.125 a share. On that basis the company would be capitalized in the market at $1,250,000, which compares with a net worth of $772,532, as adjusted to reflect the present financing, on Nov. 30, 1944. Analysis of the company's earnings indicates that the offering price is related to the profits derived from war business rather than from normal production prior to 1942.

In the fiscal years ended May 31, from 1936 thru 1941, the company's maximum annual sales were $847,938 in 1941. The largest profit, that reported for the 1936 fiscal year, was $25,072, equal to 6 cents a share on the 400,000 shares to be outstanding. Only $3,551 profit was shown in 1937 and net losses were reported in 1938, 1939, and 1940. The 1941 profit was $17,006, or 4 cents a share on the new capitalization. For the six years as a whole the profits aggregated $46,229 and the losses $36,039, leaving only $10,190 excess of profits over losses. Since organization only one dividend has been paid, totaling $5,375 in 1932.

Marked sales expansion began in the 1943 fiscal year. In the 12 months ended last May the business totaled $4,216,500, and in the six months ended last November, $3,761,441. The 1944 fiscal year profit was $105,905, or 26 cents a share. For the six month period it was $121,850, or 30 cents a share.

During the war Scott Radio began making marine broadcast receivers regarded as safe from enemy detection devices and it plans to continue making marine sets after the war. "The company expects to resume production of radios and radio-phonograph combinations in the de luxe class," the prospectus said.

The company in 1938 encountered financial difficulties, which were met thru arrangements with creditors. The balance sheet of last Nov. 30, without giving effect to the present financing, showed total current assets of $2,790,587, and current liabilities of $2,547,249, with no long term debt. The company rents its plants and warehouse space.

Crude Petroleum Stocks Rise 726,000 Barrels

Washington, D. C., March 23 (AP).—The bureau of mines today reported that stocks of crude petroleum totaled 219,486,000 barrels on March 17, a net increase of 726,000 barrels for the week.

Pepsi-Cola company reported net earnings last year of $5,871,544, or $1.02 a share, compared with $6,441,518, or $1.12 a share, in 1943. Federal tax provision last year was $7,140,776, against $6,174,216 in 1943.

People and Events

Plans for maintaining automobile service at a high level in the fourth year of war were discussed yesterday at a conference in the Blackstone hotel between sales, advertising, and service executives of the Hudson Motor Car company as well as distributors and field representatives from the Chicago area. The conference, at which H. F. Riley, Chicago zone manager, acted as host, was one of a series of sectional meetings to assure a uniform plan of operation for car maintenance thruout the country.

Wayne A. Johnston, president of the Illinois Central railroad, was elected chairman of the board of the Peoria and Pekin Union Railway company succeeding the late J. L. Beven, his predecessor also as I. C. president. James T. O'Dea, I. C. general manager, was elected president of the Peoria and Pekin Union succeeding E. I. Rogers, who will retire April 1 after more than 15 years as president.

R. W. Higgins was elected controler of the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company to succeed H. M. Dudley, who was reelected a vice president. Higgins had been assistant controler and has been with the company 53 years. G. C. Thiele was elected assistant controler.

Roy B. Cassingham, president of International Cellucotton Products company, has been elected a director of the Upper Avenue National bank to succeed the late Albert S. Bonner, who was president of the Clark Equipment company, Buchanan, Mich.

Local sections of the Society of Automotive Engineers will hold emergency meetings to disseminate essential war engineering information, said John A. C. Warner, general manager. The meetings will replace national conferences.

Post-war distributor of Meck radios will be Ashbach and Rubloff, 152 W. Huron st., John Meck, president of the John Meck Industries, Inc., of Plymouth, Ind., announced.

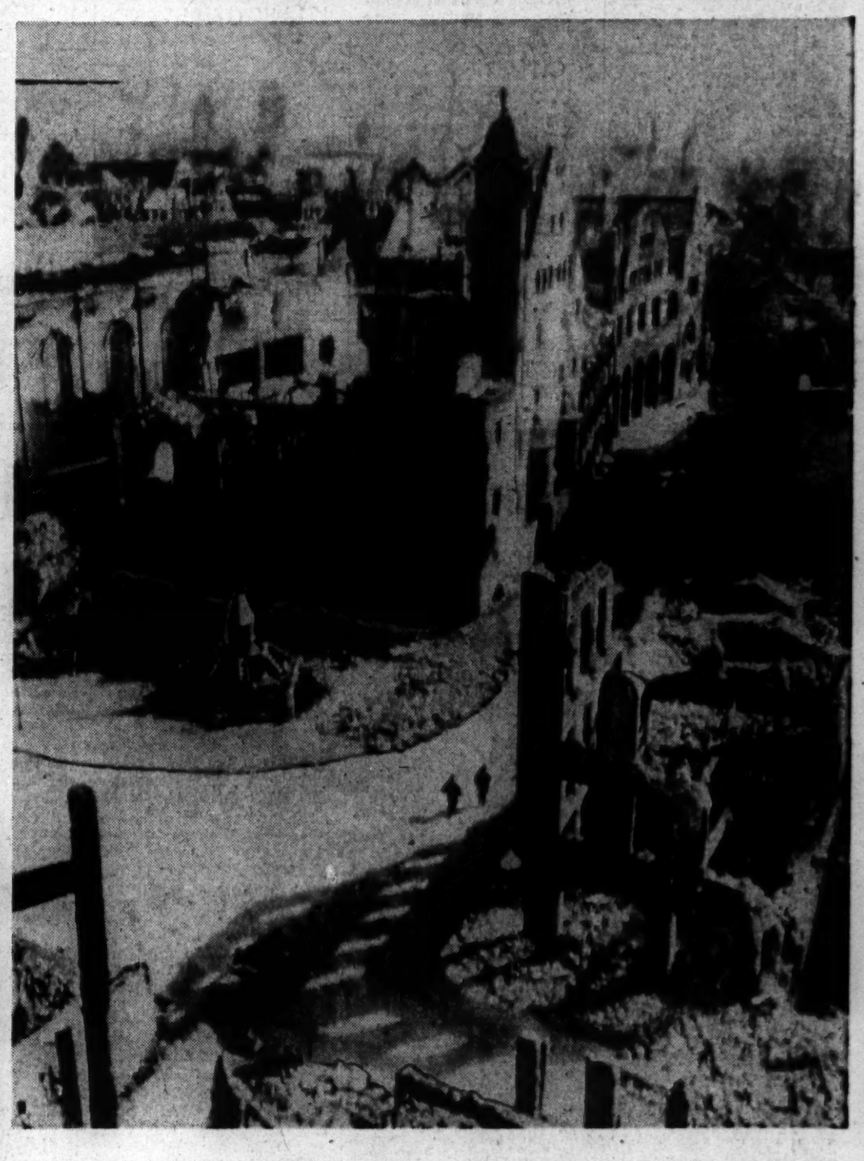
[Associated Press Wirephoto: By Signal Corps Radio.]

William Faulstick (rank not given), Boston, Mass., wheels a mortar base in a baby buggy as he and other 3d army Yanks move thru streets of Coblenz, Germany.



[Associated Press Wirephoto: By Signal Corps Radio.]

[Acme Telephoto.]

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

U. S. jeeps of 3d army being taken across Moselle river on assault boats such as were used in the Rhine crossing by Gen. Patton's forces.

[Acme Telephoto: By Signal Corps Radio.]
